NEW YORK YANKEES

The New York Americans at first were known as the Highlanders, for the reason that they played on Washington Heights and because their first president was Joseph W. Gordon, whose name suggested the Gordon Highlanders, a famous Scotch regiment. However, the name Highlanders was too long to fit in newspaper headlines, so Mark Roth, then on the New York Globe, but since 1913 the touring secretary of the New York American League club, created the appellation of Yankees with the assistance of Sam Crane, who was writing baseball for the New York Journal.

BOSTON RED SOX

Called Somersets when they began operating in 1901, because Charles W. Somers was their owner. Other nicknames, prior to 1907, were Puritans and Plymouth Rocks. Before Red Sox became the official title, some scribes called the club the Speed Boys. Red Stockings had been part of the equipment of all Boston National League teams up to 1907, but Fred Tenney, manager in that year, told Peter F. Kelley, the Boston Journal's baseball writer, he would abandon the red stockings tradition in favor of white stockings, because of the danger that colored stockings might cause leg injuries to become infected. Kelley wrote a story condemning Tenney for parting with the Boston National League club's tradition. The next day, John Irving Taylor, Boston American League club president, told the Boston Journal writer: "Here's a scoop for you. I am going to grab the name Red Sox, and the Boston American League club will wear red stockings."

ST. LOUIS BROWNS

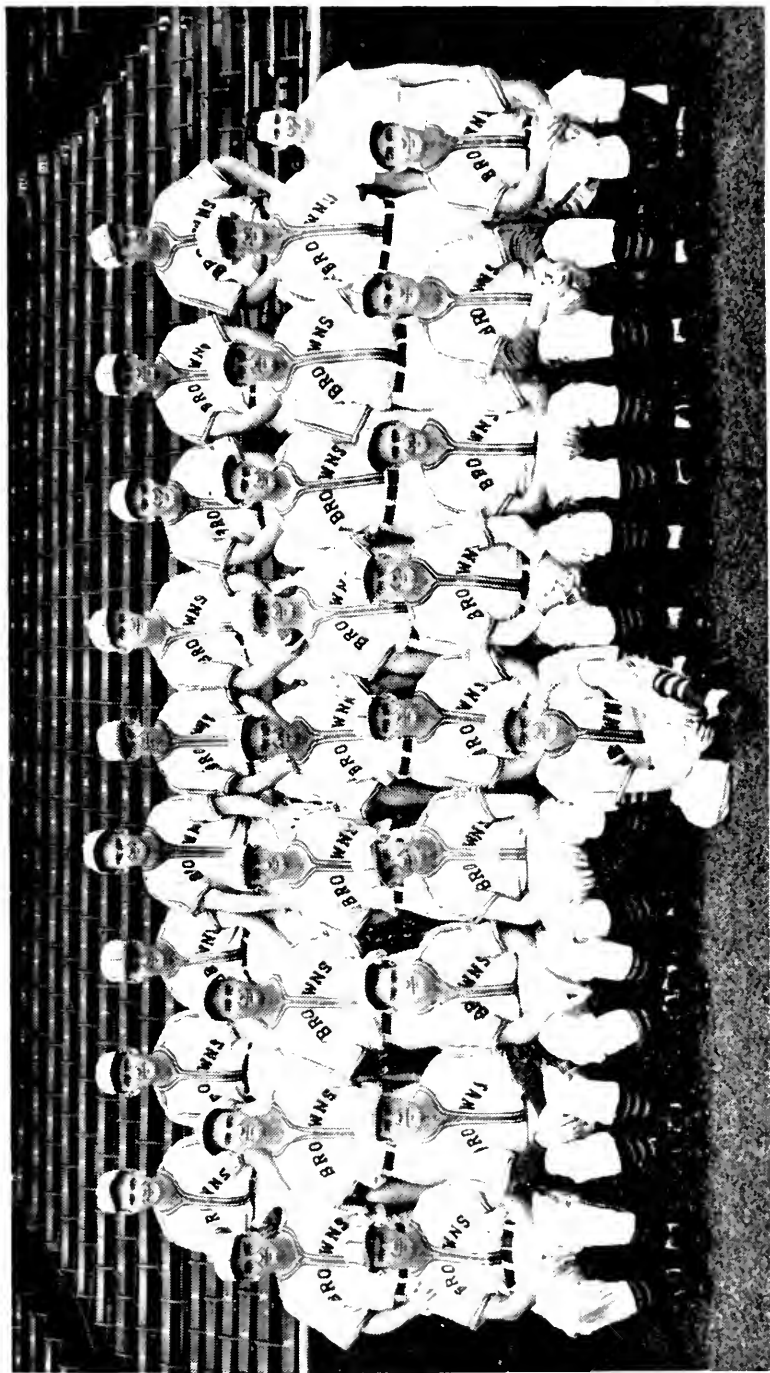

When the American League came into St. Louis in 1902, the club was called the Browns, the name used by Charles A. Comiskey's famous American Association club—the four-time St. Louis winners of 1885 through 1888. Once the Browns of pre-American League days had to compete with the St. Louis Maroons. And when Chris Von der Ahe organized a Western Association team at St. Louis in 1888, it was called the Whites.

CLEVELAND INDIANS

In the National League, the club, with Oliver (Pat) Tebeau in charge, was known as the Spiders. The team of 1899, which lost 134 games, was called Wanderers or Exiles, because its games at home were transferred. When Cleveland entered the American League, the club was nicknamed the Blues, Naps (when they were directed by Larry LaJoie), and the Molly Maguires during the brief period when Jim McGuire was head man. The present nickname of Indians was adopted in 1915.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX

Anson's National leaguers had been known as the White Stockings, and when Charles A. Comiskey brought his St. Paul team into the city of his birth in 1900, Carl Green of Detroit and Irving E. (Si) Sanborn, covering baseball in the Windy City, revived the name White Stockings, possibly on suggestions by the Old Roman and his then warm friend, Ban Johnson.

DETROIT TIGERS

The team was known as Wolverines when it was in the National League—and in the International, too. Philip J. Reid, a Detroit city editor, tagged the players as Tigers before the turn of the century. The late George T. Stallings, manager at Detroit in 1899, 1900 and 1901, always claimed the nickname came after he put striped stockings on his players, but they have always been Tigers in the American League.

WASHINGTON NATIONALS

Fans, by ballot, decided their club was to be called the Nationals, instead of the Senators. The only trouble with the vote was that its result was not binding on headline writers. Therefore, the Washington club still is often called Senators, as well as the Nats and Griffs, the latter nickname being derived from the name of Owner Clark Calvin Griffith, the Old Fox.

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

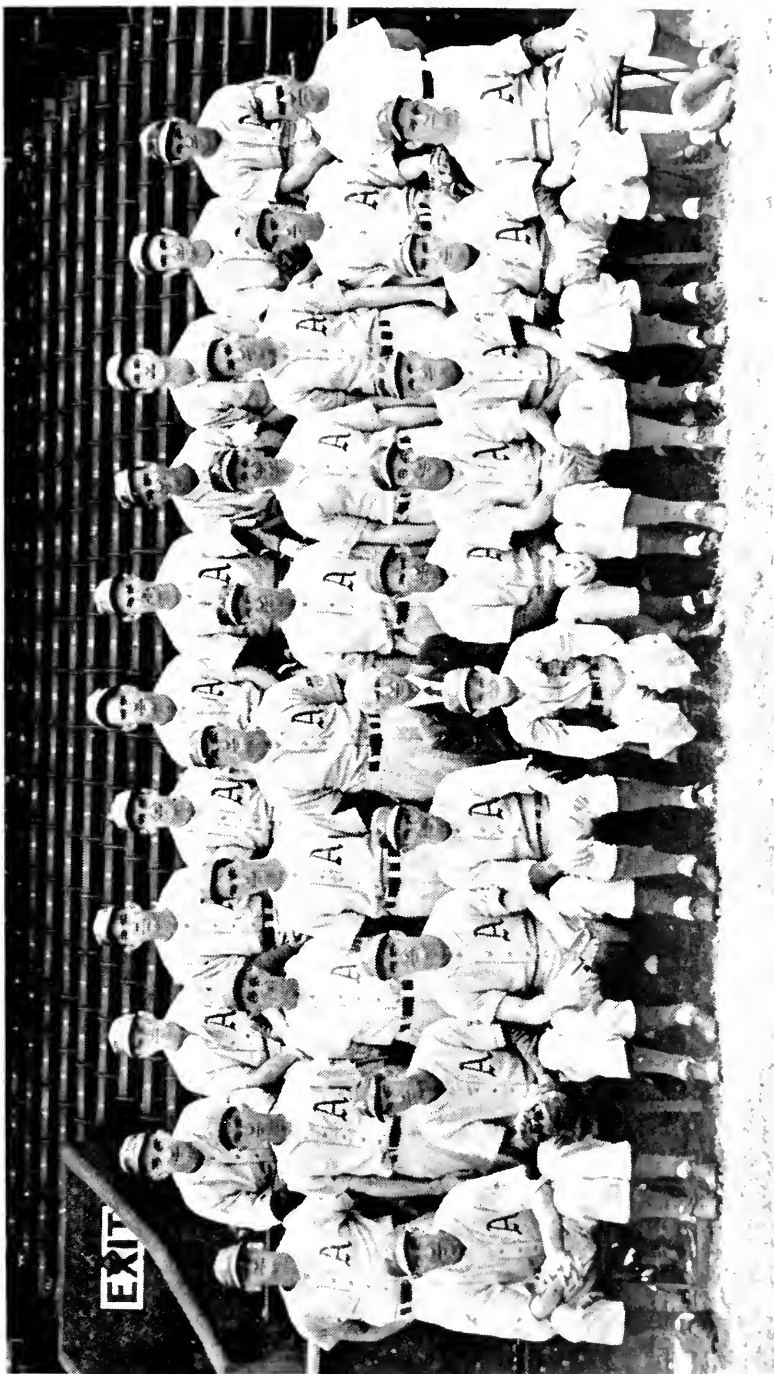

In 1902, the late John J. McGraw, then manager of the New York Giants; and bitter enemy of Ban Johnson, gave out an interview belittling the entry of the American League in Philadelphia, and sarcastically referred to the club that Ben Shibe and Connie Mack had as a "white elephant." A Philadelphia newspaperman—Charles Dryden, William Weart or George Graham—labeled the Athletics the White Elephants and the club went on to win the first of many flags. The name Athletics goes back to the early days of the game in the Quaker City. Philadelphia, in its centennial year, was represented by a trio of teams—Philadelphia, Centennials and Athletics. The city was represented by an Athletic club in the original National League, by an Athletic club in the American Association and the Philadelphia club in the American League always has been known as the Athletics.

PLAYERS DRAWN IN DRAFT

With major leagues permitted to draft more than one player from one minor club and the selection period set back to November 2, instead of being held on the eve of the World's Series, as had been customary for many years, 23 players, five more than in 1941, were selected in 1942. Eleven pitchers, six infielders, four catchers and two outfielders were picked. The following players were drafted:

American League: By Boston—Herbert Bremer, Little Rock, catcher, and Don Lang, Kansas City, third baseman. By Chicago—Richard Culler, shortstop, and William Swift, pitcher, St. Paul, and Ralph Hodgin, outfielder, San Francisco. By Cleveland—Jack Salveson, Oakland, pitcher. By Philadelphia—Ed Mayo, Los Angeles, third baseman, and John Welaj, Buffalo, outfielder. By St. Louis—Nelson Potter, Louisville, pitcher; Woodrow Rich, Indianapolis, pitcher; Robert Doyle, Columbus, Ga., pitcher; Joe Schultz, Memphis, catcher. By Washington—Angelo Giuliani, Minneapolis, catcher; James Mertz, Atlanta, pitcher, and George Myatt, Columbus, O., third baseman.

National League: By Brooklyn—Dee C. Moore, New Orleans, catcher. By Chicago—Richard Barrett, Seattle, pitcher, and George Washburn, Newark, pitcher. By Cincinnati—Charles Brewster, Milwaukee, shortstop, and Steve Mesner, Sacramento, third baseman. By Philadelphia—Albert Hodkey, Scranton, pitcher. By Pittsburgh—Wallace Hebert, San Diego, pitcher, and Ed Albosta, Montreal, pitcher.

CHAMPION CARDS SWEEP 14 TWIN-BILLS

Contrary to the popular belief that most double-headers are split, a check of the 1942 box scores disclose that only 116 of them resulted in even breaks. In each of the 125 others, one team won both halves.

The success of the St. Louis Cardinals in winning was chiefly due to their ability to sweep twin-bills. The Cards led both leagues in double-header performance and had almost as high a victory percentage for twin attractions as they had for single games. All told, the St. Louisans swept 14 doublets, took that one-two punch three times themselves and shared 14 bargain bills. The St. Louis Browns won the most twin affairs in the American, 13, topping the Yankees and Red Sox by one.

Except for the Philadelphia Phils, every team in both leagues swept at least four double-headers (the Phils accomplished the feat only twice) and each was the recipient of similar treatment on two or more occasions. The Phils and Washington Senators each dropped both ends of 17 twin-bills.

Here is the complete tabulation of double-headers by clubs:

CUPPY STARTED PITCHERS WEARING GLOVES

George (Nig) Cuppy, who, with Cy Young, used to keep Pat Tebeau's Cleveland Spiders in the National League pennant races, is best remembered by veteran fans as one of the slowest pitchers in the game. But Cuppy also should be recalled for something else—he introduced to the National League the practice of pitchers wearing fielding gloves.

KING ERNIE AND THE LOYAL FAMILY

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

The Mound City club was known as the Browns when it was in the National League originally in 1876, and the Maroons when it returned to the National in 1885, after Henry V. Lucas had his fling in the Union Association. The team was called the Browns on re-entering the National in 1892.

The players kept on wearing that color until 1899. In that year, they first became known as the Cardinals because of the cardinal trimming on their uniforms. The nickname was given by William McHale, baseball writer on the old St. Louis Republic.

BROOKLYN DODGERS

Dodgers, a contraction of Trolley Dodgers, first appeared as a team nickname in the early 'nineties, when the City of Churches was setting the pace in the then new mode of transportation. In 1888, when six members of the team were married during the season, the club became known as the Bridegrooms. This was continued several years. When Ned Hanlon moved his Baltimore team to Brooklyn in 1899, it was called the Superbas, after "Superba," a well-known stage show of that period, which was produced by the Hanlon Brothers. That name prevailed until 1910, when, for a brief period, it was known as the Infants, from a remark by President Charles Hercules Ebbets, who declared in a speech that "baseball was in its infancy." The monicker clung until Thomas J. Lynch, then president of the National League, asked baseball writers to accept waivers on it. In compliment to Wilbert Robinson, the Dodgers were called Robins during most of his regime.

NEW YORK GIANTS

The club first was called the Giants about 1885. P. J. Donohue, New York World baseball writer, probably picked up a chance to get into a type argument with Harry Palmer of Chicago and Charles F. Mathison of Detroit. All three scribes followed teams that had big men, were proud of that fact and stressed the poundage and height of their athletes. The New York Nationals, after playing an exhibition game with Newark in 1886, were called Giants and when they first appeared in St. Louis the same year, Joe Pritchard, Mound City expert at that time, alluded to them as the Gotham Giants.

CINCINNATI REDS

Baseball's first real professional club was the Cincinnati Red Stockings, organized in 1869, and when the team quit the following year, it had a record of 124 won, six lost and one tied. All Cincinnati teams, but one, have been called the Reds. The sole exception was Kelly's Killers of the American Association in 1891, so named for their manager, the immortal Mike (King) Kelly. The club played in Pendleton and eventually was moved to Milwaukee.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES

No Smoky City club ever had a nickname until 1890. Then the team, which lost 113 games while winning only 23, was tagged the Innocents—apparently being innocent of victorious aspirations. In 1890, during the off-season, Pittsburgh owners signed Second Baseman Louis Bierbauer, whom the bankrupt Athletic club of Philadelphia had forgotten to reserve. The Pittsburgh club, picking up Connie Mack about the same time, became known as the Pirates, in reference to so-called "pirating" of players. The Chicago Players' League club of 1890, managed by Charles A. Comiskey, also was called the Pirates for a time, because of having lifted so many players from the St. Louis Browns.

CHICAGO CUBS

The Chicago National League club was known as the White Stockings for a time after the National League was established in 1876. Then Charley Hoyt wrote a play for Cap Anson, manager of the team, calling it "A Runaway Colt," and subsequently the team was called Anson's Colts. The nickname was discarded in 1898, after Anson's career as manager had ended, and the appellation of Orphans was used, because the team had lost its long-time pilot. Then a Chicago newspaper held a contest to select a new name. The term Cubs was chosen, but as other newspapers ignored the name at first, it was some time before the new nickname came into general use. Fred Hayner, late sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, was among the first to use the name of Cubs.

BOSTON BRAVES

The nickname of Braves was first given the club at the suggestion of John Montgomery Ward, when James E. Gaffney, from Tammany Hall, became club president in 1912. Previously, the club had been known as the Doves, a name bestowed on the team when George B. and John S. C. (South Carolina) Dovey became its owners, and also as Red Caps and Beaneaters. In 1936, when James A. Robert Quinn became president, the name of Bees was selected by a vote of scribes and fans. However, after a new syndicate, including Quinn, took charge in April, 1941, the stockholders readopted the nickname of Braves.

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES

They've been the Phillies or the Quakers ever since the team entered the National League in 1883. Philadelphia's Union Association entry in 1884 was known as the Keystones. In 1942, the club shortened the name to Phils, at the request of Manager Honus Lobert, but change failed to bring any improvement on last-place standing. When new owners took over in March, this year, William D. Cox, president, announced on March 9, the team would again be known as Phillies.

Cooperstown Museum and Hall of Fame

By FRED G. LIEB

WAR, gasoline restrictions and the later ban on pleasure driving had their effect on the National Baseball Museum at Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1942, cutting sharply into the number of baseball lovers, who made the pilgrimage to this shrine of America's national game. Nevertheless, practically every state and many foreign lands were included in the registrations of visitors to the National Baseball Museum with its Hall of Fame. Many service men were among the callers.

The museum suffered a severe loss in the summer of 1942 by the death of its beloved curator, William Beattie. Through his kindly nature and great love of the game, this Irish-born American won his way into the hearts of all the leaders of baseball. However, the work has gone on under the direction of a new curator, Clifford Lord, also a Cooperstown man, and since he has taken charge a number of new exhibits have been added to the museum.

The annual major league game was played in the summer of 1942 on the Cooperstown diamond, where baseball started in 1839. The opposing teams were the St. Louis Cardinals, destined to become baseball world's champions in the fall, and the Philadelphia Athletics, managed by Connie Mack, the grand patriarch of the game, who has a deserved tablet in the Cooperstown Hall of Fame.

No new names were added to the distinguished group in Baseball's Hall of Fame during the past year, the last entry being Rogers Hornsby, former famous National League batsman, who was selected in the winter of 1941-'42. In view of the fact that there is no third baseman nor modern catcher in the men that have been named, there was some talk during the year of relaxing to some extent the vote requirement for selection to the Hall of Fame. A player must receive 75 per cent of the vote of the members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America to gain a place. The Association votes only on men who have played in this century. The older group in the Hall of Fame was selected originally by the Centennial Committee, made up of Commissioner K. M. Landis, Presidents Ford Frick and William Harbridge of the National and American leagues, respectively, and such veteran members of the two leagues as Connie Mack, John A. Heydler, Edward G. Barrow and Clark Griffith.

It was pointed out that many of the present-day writers know little of the players of the first decade of this century. For instance, the late Jimmy Collins, great third baseman of the Boston Nationals of the nineties and playing manager of the Boston American League champions of 1903 and 1904, missed getting into the Hall of Fame by only a few votes when the second ballot was taken, but since then his vote gradually has been receding.

However, the general tendency is to keep the rules as they are, the sentiment being that the more stringent the requirements, the more distinction will be attached to a niche in the Hall of Fame. It also is pointed out that the really great ones, Cobb, Ruth, Mathewson, Johnson, Gehrig, could not be kept out.

The five names selected in the original ballot of 1936 were the real naturals of the game—Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner, Babe Ruth, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson. They couldn't be kept off any all-time team. Napoleon (Larry) Lajoie, Tris Speaker and Denton (Cy) Young were added in 1937. Grover Cleveland Alexander was the lone selectee in 1938. However, in the winter of 1938-'39, the winter before the Cooperstown Centennial celebration, George Sisler, Eddie Collins and Willie Keeler were selected. With the exception of Keeler and Mathewson, who are dead, all of these immortals appeared at the Cooperstown celebration of July, 1939. By a special vote the Baseball Writers' Association selected Lou Gehrig, former captain and first baseman of the Yankees, to the Hall of Fame shortly after his retirement in May, 1939. Only Rogers Hornsby, selected a year ago, has made the grade since then. And Rogers had to knock at the sacred door for several years before it finally was opened to him.

The old group of pioneers is made up of Alexander Joy Cartwright, organizer and pitcher on the New York Knickerbockers, baseball's first organized club; Morgan G. Bulkeley, first president of the National League; Henry Chadwick, "Father of Baseball;" Byron Bancroft (Ban) Johnson, founder and first president of the American League; Albert Goodwill Spalding, one of the founders of the National League and famous pitcher in the late '60s and through the '70s; George Wright, shortstop and ranking star of the game's first professional club, the Cincinnati Red Stockings of 1869; Cornelius McGillicuddy—Connie Mack—founder and great manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, whose clubs have won nine American League pennants and five world's championships; Charles Albert Comiskey, manager and first baseman of the famous St. Louis Browns of the old American Association in the '80s and founder of the Chicago White Sox of the American League; John Joseph McGraw, classy third baseman and star run-registerer in his playing days and manager of the New York Giants from July, 1902, to June, 1932, winners of ten National League flags and three world's championships; Charles (Old Hoss) Radbourne, famous National League moundsman throughout the '80s; Adrian Constantine (Cap) Anson, four-time batting king of the National League and manager of the original Chicago White Stockings, a charter member of the National League, 1879 through 1897, and its first baseman starting its maiden year, 1876; William (Buck) Ewing, leading catcher of his day, and William Arthur Cummings, outstanding pitcher in the '70s and inventor of the curve ball.

EIGHT-DOLLAR-A-DAY CATCHER

If anyone goes up to Paul Krichell, Yankee scout, and says, "How are you, $8-a-day catcher?" his response probably will be, "How did you know that?" For Krichell was on the payroll of the New York club before it was bought by the two colonels. A Bronx semipro catcher on Sundays in 1904 and a worker during the week, Krichell was told Clark Griffith wished to see him. The Old Fox, when Paul Bernard showed up, said his catching staff was shot, McGuire laid up, Beville not 100 per cent physically perfect, leaving Kleinow to go it alone. Asked how much he was making Krichell told the Highlanders' manager about $55 a week. So Griff hired Krichell for $8 a day and for a week or so he was a bullpen king.

More Honors for Lou Gehrig

LOU GEHRIG, former great first baseman of the New York Yankees and one of the immortals of baseball, died June 2, 1941, but posthumous honors continue to pile up for the famous New York sand-lotter, who not only established the amazing record of playing 2,130 consecutive major league games, but whose entire career set a standard in sportsmanship and inherent decency for his fellow countrymen.

Perhaps the honor which would have tugged Lou's heart-strings the strongest was the naming of New York State's Liberty ship the "Lou Gehrig" by the school children of his native state. The school children of each of the 48 states had a chance in 1942 to name their Liberty ship after some outstanding person from their state. The youngsters of the Empire State passed up great scientists, writers, former governors, etc., to cast an overwhelming vote for the former modest New York High School of Commerce boy, who became one of baseball's greatest stars.

When the ship named after Gehrig was launched in January, his German-born mother, Mrs. Christina (Mom) Gehrig, an American citizen only since 1942, was given the distinction of christening the vessel in a Maine shipyard. In telling of her experience, Mom said: "The only one who was missing was Lou. How he would have enjoyed it!" But, perhaps Mom's big son was there in spirit.

A motion picture based on the life and career of Gehrig, "The Pride of the Yankees," also was released in 1942, having its premiere in New York City shortly after the All-Star game. Wendell Willkie and many other famous Americans attended. This picture of the life, love and tragic end of a hero of peacetime America became one of the top hits of 1942, and many critics agree that it is not only the foremost baseball picture, but the best sports picture ever filmed. The picture was produced by Sam Goldwyn and is based on the life of Gehrig by Paul Gallico, which was written with the aid of Lou's widow, Eleanor Twitchell Gehrig, and was played by a strong cast topped by Gary Cooper as Lou and Teresa Wright as Eleanor.

Lou Gehrig Plaza in New York's Borough of the Bronx was formally dedicated last July with appropriate exercises. Lou's widow had the place of honor and prominent New York officials from all five boroughs participated. Before severe gasoline rationing, Mrs. Lou Gehrig was working on a plan to build up a fleet of Lou Gehrig ambulances with a large "4," Lou's old batting number, painted on the sides. She attended the ceremony in her ambulance and wore the gray-blue uniform of an ambulance driver. Lou Gehrig Plaza is the wide section of East 161st street, directly north of Yankee Stadium, and extending to the two subway lines. The plaza was designated by the unanimous vote of New York's Board of Aldermen, on the suggestion of Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, who not only was a great friend and admirer of Gehrig but also appointed Lou to the New York City Parole Commission after the Iron Horse closed his diamond career.

Books on the life of Lou Gehrig by three New York sports writers, Paul Gallico, Frank Graham and Richard Hubler (Major Richards Vidner), came out during the year, while Fred Lieb's life of the Iron Horse was one of the top features of the 1942 Baseball Register and has often been acclaimed as a masterpiece of diamond literature.

With the passing of Lou from his inactive captaincy after the 1939 Yankee-Cincinnati Red World's Series, both Ed Barrow, Yankee president, and Manager Joe McCarthy decreed that Gehrig's No. 4 would be retired and that no other player ever would wear that number. Lou's No. 4 locker in Yankee Stadium also is a little shrine to his memory, as it never will be assigned another player. Nor have any rookies ever been permitted to rumple up Lou Gehrig's old biscuit pants, the last uniforms he wore when he was in reality, the Pride of the Yankees.

A product of New York's High School of Commerce, with whose team he made history by driving a ball out of Wrigley Field, Chicago, in an inter-city baseball championship contest, he attended Columbia University two years before signing with the Yankees in 1923. After being farmed out twice to the Hartford Eastern League club, Gehrig became the regular New York American first baseman, June 1, 1925, and never missed a game until illness forced him to the sidelines, May 2, 1939. During the course of those 2,130 consecutive games, beating former record of Everett Scott by 823 games, Gehrig was named foremost first baseman of all time by such experts as Connie Mack and the late John J. McGraw. His last manager, Joe McCarthy, termed him the No. 1 player of all time.

In addition to his consecutive game performance, Larrupin' Lou left many other records, especially in slugging, runs-batted-in and scoring, when called by the Great Umpire. In 1934, he won the American League triple crown of batting champion and leadership in runs-batted-in and home runs. Hit four homers in one game, at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, June 3, 1932, one of four big leaguers to perform that feat. Held American League record for runs-batted-in, 184 in 1931. Jimmie Foxx, Boston Red Sox, in 1941, tied Gehrig's record for driving in over 100 runs for 13 consecutive seasons. Lou held record for scoring 100 or more runs, 13 seasons, all consecutive, and most years 150 or more runs, seven times. His tops in scoring was 167 in 1936. Was voted most valuable American League player in 1927, 1931, 1934 and 1936, and made THE SPORTING NEWS All-Star Team six times. Played in the first six National-American All-Star games, and was elected to Cooperstown Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers' Association at their winter meeting in Cincinnati, December 8, 1939.

The famous Iron Horse crashed through seven World's Series in which Yankees were participants, hitting .361 against .340 as lifetime average in American League. Hit .545 against Cardinals in 1928 and .529 against Cubs four years later. In four-game Chicago series in 1932, Lou hit safely nine times, three of his drives being homers, scored nine runs and drove in a total of eight.

SCHUPP SET ALL-TIME E.R.A. MARK WITH 0.90

During the 1916 National League season, Ferdie Schupp, southpaw with the Giants, allowed only 14 earned runs over a period of 140 innings—an average of one earned tally per ten frames—to set an all-time low in the E.R.A. table—0.90 runs per nine-inning game. Furthermore, the able portsider, in notching nine wins against only three reverses, yielded the enemy only 79 hits in 525 tries, for the low batting mark of .150. Some pitching!

This was really Schupp's first season as a regular member of the Giant hill corps, for he toiled in only 55 innings during 1915, being credited with one victory and charged with no reverses.

Schupp made 30 mound appearances for the McGrawmen in 1916, twirling eight complete games and posting four shutouts. He exhibited fine control, walking only 37 batters, while striking out 86.

Runner-up to Schupp in the E.R.A. column was Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Philadelphia Phillies, with a mark of 1.55 for 389 innings of service.

The next season, Ferdie saw a lot more action on the firing line, winning 21 while dropping only seven games for the Giants. But his E.R.A. mark was not quite so good—1.95 for 272 stanzas.

All-Star Team of 1942

S EVEN players won places for the first time on the annual All-Star team of THE SPORTING NEWS, picked by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America for the eighteenth consecutive season. Joe DiMaggio was named for the sixth consecutive time, replacing Bill Dickey as the senior member of the team. Ted Williams and Joe Gordon qualified for the fourth time and Stanley Hack for the third.

ST. LOUIS' young, enthusiastic and fearless Cardinals, managed by Billy Southworth and captained by Terry Moore, wiping out a long lead enjoyed by Brooklyn to capture the National League pennant, ended an eight-year New York Yankee reign as World's Series monarchs by taking the measure of the McCarthymen in the thirty-eighth classic played under the rules formulated by John T. Brush in 1905. They acquired the long end of the players' purse by defeating the hitherto invincible Bronx Bombers four out of five times, losing the first clash, but then throwing such a scare into their veteran adversaries that some experts, when the classic had ended, figured that their ninth-inning rally in the opener really paved the way to ultimate success. The upset even surpassed the startling victory of George Stallings' Braves over Connie Mack's Athletics in 1914.

It was another million-dollar series, with receipts totaling $1,105,249, derived from the contributions of 276,717 customers who had to pay their way into Sportsman's Park and Yankee Stadium before qualifying as spectators at the classic.

The Series had a story book ending, with George (Whitey) Kurowski hitting a home run in the ninth with Walker Cooper on first and a 2 to 2 score. This same Kurowski, a bench warmer for quite a time after the season opened, had, in the first game, been fanned three times by the man off whom he hit his homer—Red Ruffing—and then withdrawn for a pinch-hitter. Kurowski was one of the many Cardinals eligible to play the leading role in "The Man Who Came Back."

Another Redbird qualifying for the important role was Right Fielder Enos Slaughter. He dropped a fly ball hit by Ruffing in the first game and let in two runs, one of which turned out to be the deciding tally. But in the next battle he rifled a throw to Kurowski that cut down Stainback trying for third in the ninth inning, the pinch-runner being temporary owner of the tying counter.

Still another of the startling Cardinals was Freshman John Beazley. He won the second game for the Surging Southworthites, beating Bonham, 4 to 3, and then came back and won the fifth, besting Ruffing, 4 to 2. His support in his last appearance was not perfect, but in times of peril it was more than adequate. Walker Cooper, in the ninth, picked Joe Gordon off second with none out and two on.

Ernest White, southpaw from South Carolina, pitched a whale of a game to put the Thunderbirds out in front in the Series in the third encounter, winning over Spurgeon Chandler, 2 to 0, and not issuing a pass. All six hits off him were singles and no two arrived in the same inning.

When they weren't winning on good pitching, the Cardinals were able to put on such a brisk attack that victory was theirs. In the fourth fracas they hit Hank Borowy so viciously that he had to quit in the fourth with his team trailing, 6 to 1, and when the Yanks tied the game up on Morton Cooper and Harry Gumbert, they shook the winning runs out of Atley Donald.

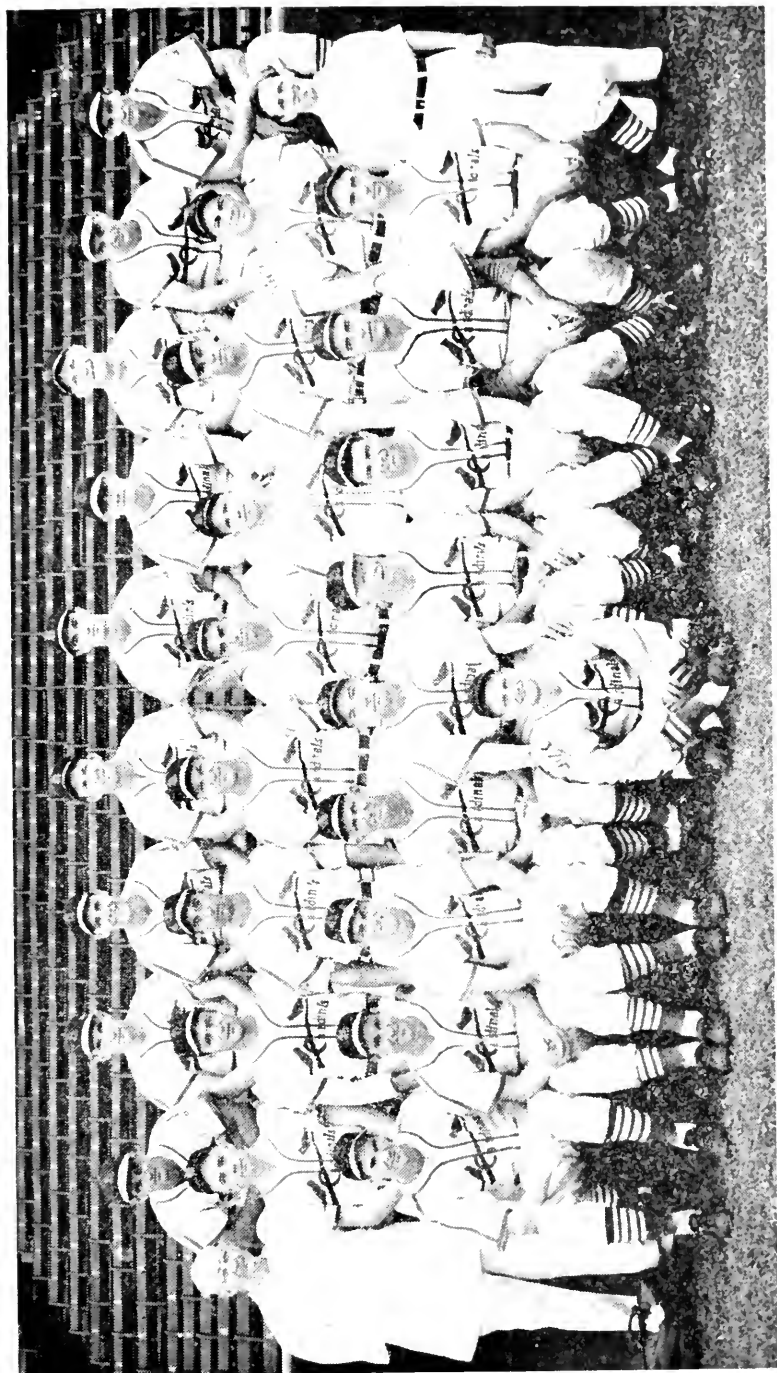

The Cardinals got the breaks—and made them. They ran like startled fawns and everything they tried to do turned out right. Musial, Moore and Slaughter proved to be another trio of flychasers and base-hit killers like Duffy Lewis, Tris Speaker and Harry Hooper of the old Boston Red Sox.

On the other hand, about every move that McCarthy made turned out to be wrong. Marse Joe protested a decision on Martin Marion in the third inning of the third game, won his point with the umpires and when Slats batted again, instead of bunting himself out, he obtained a scratch single that had quite a lot to do with the rearing of the winning run.

The Yankees entered the Series minus the services of Lefthander Marius Russo, out with an ailing arm, and in the third controversy lost Buddy Hassett through injury. It was definitely not their year to get any smiles from Dame Fortune.

The Yankees outhit their conquerors by eight points—.247 to .239—but concentrated most of their attack on Morton Cooper. They did little against Southworth's two other starters—White and Beazley. Chandler, leading off, and Turner, finishing, were the most effective of the McCarthy gunners.

The Cardinals craftily made magnificent use of the passes they procured.

First row—Marion, Slaughter, Musial, Gonzalez, coach; Southworth, manager; Wares, coach; Lanier, Narron, O'Dea, Yatke, clubhouse attendant; Peters, batboy. Second row—Weaver, trainer; White, Beazley, H. Walker, Krist, Dickson, Brown, Gumbert, Hopp. Top row—Crespi, Triplett, Sanders, T. Moore, Pollet, M. Cooper, Kurowski, L. Moore, W. Cooper.

Seven of their 23 runs were set up on walks, including the winning marker in White's third game kalsomining job.

The Yankees, on the other hand, cashed only one gift at the plate, Rolfe making the circuit in the sixth inning of the fourth game after Morton Cooper favored him with a ticket to first.

These were the passes the Yankees' conquerors found useful:

First game—Sanders, from Ruffing.

Second game—Brown, from Bonham.

Third game—Kurovski, from Chandler (winning run).

Fourth game—Hopp and Marion, from Borowy; Slaughter and Musial, from Donald.

The pay-off tally arrived late, save in one instance, the Cardinals winning the third game in the third inning. Their other victories were registered in the seventh, eighth and ninth frames. The Yankees took title to their success in the penultimate period, otherwise the eighth. These were the men responsible for the decisive markers:

First game—Winning run result of Slaughter's muff.

Second game—Winning run result of Musial's single.

Third game—Winning run result of Brown's infield out.

Fourth game—Winning run result of Walker Cooper's single.

Fifth game—Winning run result of Kurovski's homer.

First Game

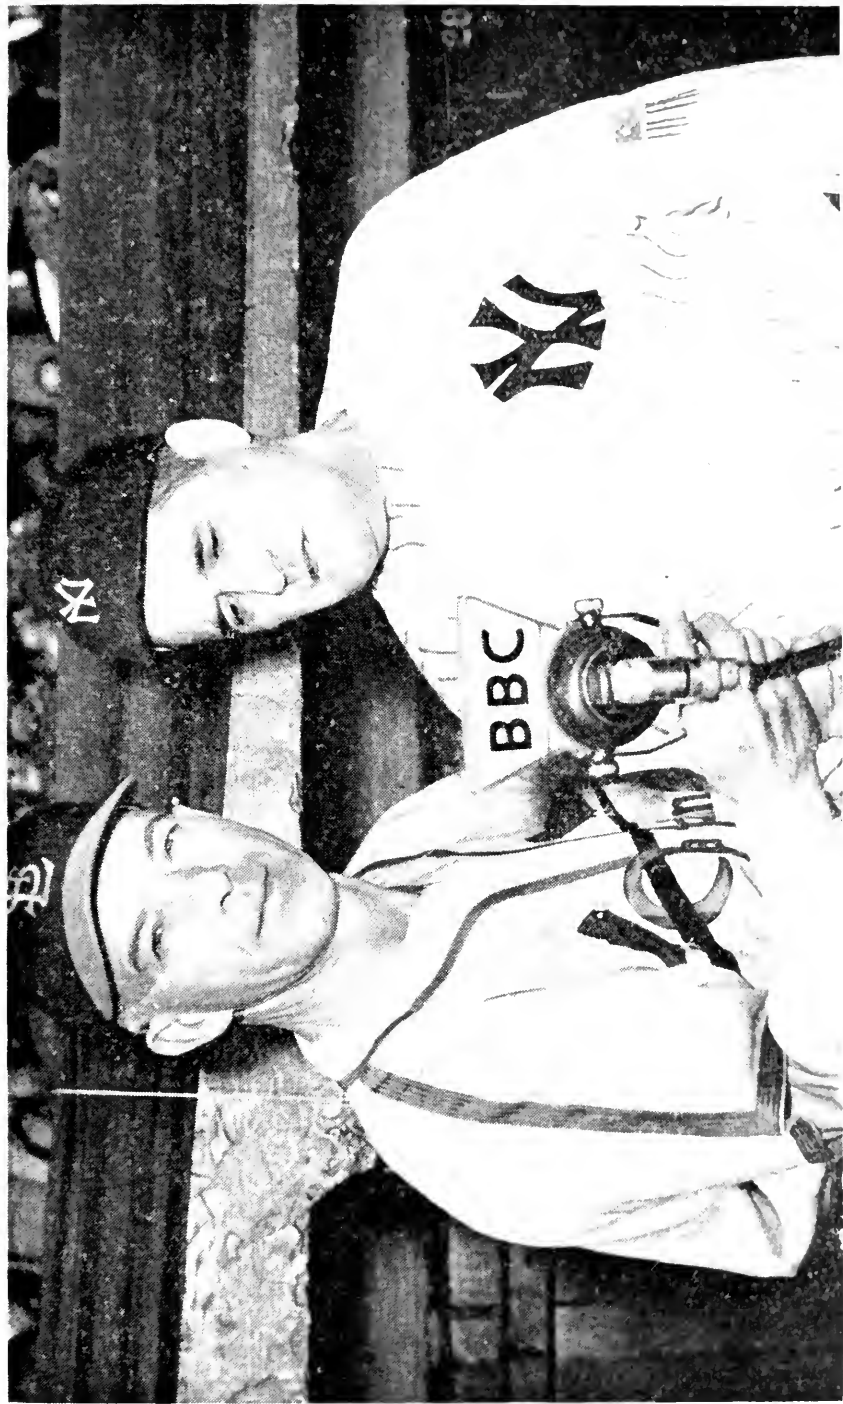

September 30, at St. Louis

Red Ruffing, taken out in the final chapter, set two new records, being the first pitcher to win seven Series games and also the first to travel seven and two-thirds innings without allowing a hit.

New York—Priddy walked and was doubled up when Ruffing's bunt wasn't effective enough, Hopp to Marion to Brown, the second baseman taking the throw at first for the second out. Rizzuto flied to Moore. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

St. Louis—Slaughter homered into the right field stand. Musial flied to DiMaggio. W. Cooper rolled out to Priddy. Gordon threw out Hopp. One run, one hit, no errors.

New York—Rolfe, bunting, outfooted Beazley's throw and went on to second when the pitcher's heave went wild. Cullenbine flied to Moore, Rolfe moving to third. DiMaggio singled to left, scoring Rolfe. Keller, singling to right, put DiMaggio on third. Gordon fanned. Dickey forced Keller. Marion to Brown. One run, three hits, one error.

FIFTH INNING

St. Louis—Kurowski flied high to Keller. Marion lined to Cullenbine. Beazley planted a single in right. Brown popped to Rolfe. No runs, one hit, no errors.

New York—Marion threw out Priddy. Ruffing beat out a slow roller toward third. With a chance for a force play at second, Hopp, taking Rizzuto's grounder, threw wild to that bag, both runners being safe. Brown fumbled Rolfe's grounder, filling the bases. Cullenbine popped to Marion. DiMaggio forced Rizzuto at third, Kurowski unassisted. No runs, one hit, two errors.

SIXTH INNING

St. Louis—Moore singled to right and went to third on Slaughter's hit to the opposite field. Musial popped to Rizzuto. W. Cooper flied to Cullenbine, Moore scoring. One run, two hits, one error.

New York—Keller flied to Musial. Gordon was thrown out by Kurowski. Dickey flied to Slaughter. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York—Cullenbine out, Hopp to Beazley, who covered first. DiMaggio flied to Musial. Keller hit to Beazley, who beat him to first and made the out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

St. Louis—W. Cooper singled to center. Hopp sacrificed, Ruffing to Gordon, who covered first. Kurowski rifled a homer into the left field stand, scoring himself and W. Cooper. Marion popped to Dickey and Beazley went out the same way to Rizzuto. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

New York—Gordon singled to left. Brown fumbled on Dickey, whose place as a runner was taken by Stainback. When Priddy, trying to sacrifice, missed the ball, W. Cooper picked Gordon off second, Marion taking the throw. Then Priddy raised feebly to Brown. Brown threw out Selkirk, who batted for Ruffing, ending the Series. No runs, one hit, one error.

HITTERS HAD REAL CARNIVAL IN '94

When Hugh Duffy, venerable scout of the Boston Red Sox, set an all-time high batting mark for the majors in 1894 by swatting for a .438 figure in 124 tilts with the Boston Nationals, he was trailed by no fewer than 51 regulars in the .300 table in the 12-club National League. That is a far cry from the 1942 batting list, which shows only eight batsmen in this group in the senior circuit!

Some of the greatest stars in the game's history were numbered among the ten leading hitters of the N. L. for 1894. In addition to Duffy, there were two other .400 stickers—Sam Thompson, Philadelphia, who hit .403, and Big Ed Delahanty, also of the Phils, a .400 clouter. Billy Hamilton, another Phil, who stole 99 bases that year, just missed the .400 circle, socking .398. How the Phillies would welcome such a trio on the present club!

Fifth in the 1894 table was Joe Kelley of Baltimore, with .391, followed by Lave Cross, Philadelphia, .388, and Bugs Holliday, Cincinnati, .383.

Two famous stars of the '90s were deadlocked at .369—Walter Brodie of Baltimore and Jack Doyle of New York. The last of the big ten was the famous Wee Willie Keeler of Baltimore, with .367.

First Games of Major League Clubs

"The new Philadelphia Baseball Grounds"—a contemporary drawing of the Phillies' National League park completed in 1887 at a cost of $80,000, with "one of the finest pavilions in the United States."

HISTORY was made, sometimes before sparse crowds, when each of the 16 clubs now represented in the major leagues played its first championship game. In some cases, these games date back to the origin of the National League in 1876. Sprinkled among the lineups of the clubs in those inaugural games were names of numerous players who went on to gain high distinction as major league performers in succeeding years.

Following is the first published collection of the box scores of the first games of all clubs representing present-day major league cities—a collection which, in some instances, involved considerable research into contemporary newspaper files:

National League

BOSTON

The Boston club, which then was not known as the Braves, had the distinction of playing the first National League game and of being the first National League team to put over a victory in the ninth. They met the Athletics in Philadelphia on April 22, 1876, and by rushing two runs over the plate in the finishing frame, they finished the A's, 6 to 5. The attendance was 3,000. Josephs, one of the early members of the Alias Brigade, pitched for Boston against Alonzo Knight, Girard College graduate.

The A's had, at the end, an infield that was very much an "F" affair—Force at short, Fowser at second and Fisler at first.

Boston's get-away bag guardian was Timothy Hayes Murnane, who later became well-known baseball writer. The scorer that afternoon failed to show the "e" in writing his name. The score:

CHICAGO

The Chicago Nationals were not known as the Cubs when they played their first game in the National League at Louisville, April 25, 1876—they were the White Stockings. But, managed by Albert G. Spalding and with Spalding pitching for them, they started making National League history at once, Spalding authoring the National League's first shutout when he defeated James Devlin of the Colonels, 4 to 0.

Spalding also was the only member of the Chicago team to bat five times. In 1876, the first batter of a succeeding inning did not always hit. Assuming that a man had been caught off a base to retire the side, the next hitter was the man who had not been put out. Spalding singled in the fifth with two out and then Snyder picked Paul Hines off second to end the round, A. G. consequently was the first batter in the sixth, besides being the final hitter in the fifth. The score:

CINCINNATI AND ST. LOUIS

When the St. Louis and Cincinnati clubs played their first game in the National League in the Ohio city, April 25, 1876, the Missourians were known as the Brown Stockings. The Ohioans, known then, as now, as the Reds, took the St. Louisans into camp, 2 to 1.

S. M. Graffen, Brown Stocking manager, didn't have to worry much about whom to pitch in the opener, as he had only one hurler, George Washington Bradley. Bradley was slightly outpitched by William Fisher.

Joe Battin, with a triple, sent home St. Louis' lone tally in the fourth inning. The score:

PHILADELPHIA

Robert Ferguson was the Phillies' manager when they played their first National League game in the Quaker City, May 1, 1883. The Providence Grays, with Charles Radbourne pitching, defeated the Phillies, 4 to 3, through an eighth-inning rally at the expense of John Coleman. The batting was light and so was the attendance, the cash customers numbering 1,200. The game was played at Recreation Park, Twenty-third street and Columbia avenue. The score:

NEW YORK

The New York club won the first game it played in the National League from Boston, 7 to 5, despite the poor support afforded Mickey Welch by Shortstop John Troy, who was charged with five errors. The attendance was 12,000, with many notables present, among them General U. S. Grant. The date was May 1, 1883, and the game was played in New York.

Grasshopper Jim Whitney was the Boston pitcher and he "was hard hit and his support behind the bat was poor," according to a chronicler of the day. Catcher Mike Hines came up with nine assists, but he couldn't have thrown out many men stealing, for the shortstop had just one putout, the second baseman four and the third baseman none. Hines was a left-handed thrower.

William (Buck) Ewing, later to manage the Giants, caught for them and was their lead-off hitter, while John Ward, another future New York pilot, played center. The score:

PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh deserted the American Association to enter the National League in 1887, playing its first game at home on April 30, and winning, 6 to 2, from Cap Anson's White Stockings. Horace B. Phillips was manager of the Pittsburgh team in its first year in the National. His pitching choice on opening day was James Galvin and the "Little Steam Engine," as Galvin had been known when he previously was in the National with Buffalo, outpitched John Clarkson in the inaugural. Twenty-one hits are shown in the box score, but actually there were only 17, for in 1887 bases on balls were counted as safeties. A novelty to modern fans appears in the score—"first base on balk—Whitney." Whitney, later with the Giants, was for years one of the owners of the Victor Sporting Goods Company, at Springfield, Mass. BROOKLYN

When the Dodgers, then known as the Grooms and Bridegrooms, played their first game in the National League at Boston, on April 19, 1890, they took a 15 to 9 walloping from Boston. Winning the pennant in the American Association in 1889, Brooklyn had quit that organization in protest over the way it was run.

William H. McGunnigle managed Brooklyn's first and second pennant winners in the majors, but he was tossed out in the consolidation with the Players' League, with John Montgomery Ward replacing him in 1891.

In their first National League game, Bob Caruthers and Bill (Adonis) Terry were gracious to Charles (Pop) Smith, Boston second baseman, putting him on base six straight times. He walked on five occasions and was hit the other time he tried to bat.

Pat Donovan, who later managed the Brooklyn club when it was called Superbas, played with Boston and helped to give the Bridegrooms a walloping in their first National League game.

Frank Selee made his National League debut as manager of the Boston club. He piloted five championship teams at the Hub before going to Chicago as Cub leader. The score:

American League

CHICAGO AND CLEVELAND

Chicago won and Cleveland lost in the American League inaugural of both clubs, in the Windy City, on April 24, 1901, with Roy Patterson getting an 8 to 2 decision over Bill Hoffer. Clark Griffith managed the White Sox during their first year and Jim McAleer guided the destinies of the Forest City team.

Hits were even in the Chicago opener, but Hoffer was more liberal in handing out bases on balls, distributing six to Patterson's two.

The luck of Charley Comiskey was in evidence on opening day, for the game at Chicago was the only one in the American League not rained out, the contests at Philadelphia, Baltimore and Detroit being postponed.

The lineup of the White Sox in their major league opener included two men who were later to manage the club—Fielder Jones and Bill Sullivan.

Jones had left the pennant-winning Brooklyn club to cast his fortunes with the Old Roman, while Sullivan had quit the Boston Nationals. The score:

BOSTON

The Boston club, then known as the Somersets because Charles W. Somers of Cleveland had helped them financially, lost its first American League game to the Orioles, 10 to 6, on April 26, 1901, the contest being played in Baltimore. The John McGraw-managed Orioles battered Win Kellum, Jimmy Collins' pitcher, for 11 hits, of which eight went for additional distance. Joe McGinnity, pitching for Baltimore, was effective until the two closing innings.

John Bannerman McLean, known as Long Larry, had the distinction of being the first American leaguer to produce a pinch hit, doubling for Kellum in the ninth. The score:

DETROIT

Detroit's players lived up to their future nickname of Tigers in their first game in the American League in their home city against the Hugh Duffy-managed Milwaukee team on April 25, 1901. Entering the last half of the ninth nine runs behind, George Stallings' charges blasted Pete Dowling and Bert Husting for ten tallies and won, 14 to 13. Each of Duffy's pitchers gave up five runs in the hectic round. Frank Dillon made his fourth double of the day in the big inning. It was his second in the session and brought in William (Kid) Gleason with the run that meant victory. Dillon was carried off the field by the fans after the winning hit. The score:

PHILADELPHIA AND WASHINGTON

When Washington, managed by Jim Manning, and Philadelphia, led by Connie Mack, introduced American League ball to the Quaker City on April 26, 1901, the game was played at Columbia Park, Columbia avenue and Twenty-ninth street. The Senators won, 5 to 1, with Doughnut Bill Carrick pitching against Charles (Chick) Fraser. Carrick had much better support than Fraser, Washington making one error to Philadelphia's seven.

Rain had postponed the American League opener two days. The contest drew a Friday afternoon crowd of 10,547, the overflow surrounding the field. Mayor Ashbridge threw out the first ball. The score:

The St. Louis Browns, taking the place of Milwaukee in the circuit, played their first American League game in their home city on April 23, 1902, and as the result of a big third inning, in which Rhody Wallace hit a three-run homer, won over Cleveland, 5 to 2. NEW YORK

The Yankees were known as the Highlanders when they played their first American League game at Washington, April 22, 1903, losing, 3 to 1, to Tom Loftus' Senators. Clark Griffith, moving from Chicago to Gotham, led off with his mound ace—Jack Chesbro—but Al Orth outpitched him.

An oddity of the Highlanders' first game was that their opponents batted first. The score:

Johnson Best Hitter Among Pitchers

LIKE BABE RUTH, whose capable fielding and powerful throwing were overshadowed by his slugging, the effective batting of Walter Johnson never received as much attention as it deserved, because the spotlight was centered upon his great pitching. Yet Johnson not only was a king among hurlers, but he also was a king of hitters among moundsmen. The highest batting average ever compiled in a single season by a hurler was clubbed out by the Big Train in 1925, when he had a mark of .433 for 36 games with the pennant-winning Washington Senators. In 97 times at bat, Johnson bagged 42 hits, including six doubles, one triple and two homers. He scored 12 runs.

The fireball king also had a fine season on the hill that year, winning 20 games against only seven losses and turning in a 3.07 earned-run average. He fanned 108 batsmen in 229 innings.

The highest batting mark for a season by a National League pitcher was recorded by John Needles (Jack) Bentley, John McGraw's highly-prized southpaw up from Baltimore of the International League. In his freshman year with the Giants in 1923, Bentley proved a disappointment on the hill, but at bat he was a star. Appearing in 52 games, many as a pinch-hitter, Bentley batted .427, with 38 hits in 89 trips, including six doubles, two triples and one homer. As a pinch-batsman alone, he hit .500 with ten bingles in 20 attempts.

Jim Tobin of the Braves created a sensation last season when he bagged three homers in a single game to tie a 57-year-old major league record, and also equaled a N. L. mark for pitchers by clouting six four-baggers for the campaign. Tobin, however, hit only .246 for the year, driving across 15 runs.

The best home run record by a pitcher was set up by Wes Ferrell of Cleveland in 1931. Appearing in 48 games Ferrell batted .319 and socked nine balls out of the lot. He batted in no fewer than 30 runs. He also had a big year on the mound, winning 22 and losing 12 games.

Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants, who shares the record with Tobin for most round-trippers by a National League pitcher in a single season, batted only .234 in 1934, the year he clouted his six circuit blows.

The following table gives outstanding batting records by pitchers since 1930, compiled during a single season's play:

1942 All-Star Game

SCORING all their runs in a first-inning blitzkrieg, the American leaguers, piloted by Joe McCarthy, defeated the National leaguers, led by Leo Durocher, 3 to 1, in the tenth annual All-Star game, played before 33,694 fans, who paid $89,314.58, at the Polo Grounds, New York, July 6. The victory gave the American leaguers a lead of seven games to three over their National opponents.

An afternoon rain and threatening weather before game-time, as well as New York's second blackout test, held down attendance at the contest, played as a twilight affair, starting at 7:22 p. m. The game was finished two minutes before the blackout began at 9:30.

With Morton Cooper on the hill for the National leaguers, Lou Boudreau walloped the second pitch into the upper left field stands for a homer in the first inning. Tom Henrich's double was followed by Rudy York's circuit blow into the right field stands. Thereafter, the American League hitters were held away from the plate by Cooper, who hurled two more frames; Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer, who worked the middle three, Claude Passeau, on duty in the seventh and eighth, and Bucky Walters, who wound up. None issued a pass, and the only other A. L. runner who reached second gained that point on a muff by Jimmy Brown.

Taking advantage of a change in the rules, permitting a pitcher to work five innings, McCarthy used only Spud Chandler and Al Benton on the mound. They yielded a total of six hits, including Mickey Owen's pinch homer in the eighth.

Boudreau, with his round-tripper and brilliant fielding at shortstop, was an outstanding star of the game. Score:

BEFORE a paid attendance of 62,094, and an additional 2,000 service men, the American League stars, winners of the annual All-Star game in New York the previous night, defeated Mickey Cochrane's Service All-Stars, made up largely of major leaguers in the armed forces, 5 to 0, at Cleveland Stadium the night of July 7. The game, played for the benefit of the Ball and Bat Fund and Army-Navy relief, and which netted $71,611.14, was preceded by a thrilling military pageant.

The Cleveland game, together with the All-Star contest at New York,

In diamond uniform, the players, identified with the club to which they were attached at time of entering service, are: Left to right, front row—Vincent Smith, Pittsburgh; Don Padgett, Brooklyn; Ernest Andres, Louisville; Herman Fishman; Frank Pytlak, Boston Red Sox; Fred Schaffer, Louisville; Russell Meers, Milwaukee. drew a total of $160,925.72, with the first $100,000 going to the Ball and Bat Fund.

As in the All-Star game of the previous night, the American League representatives staged a scoring attack in the first inning. With Bob Feller on the hill for the service team, Tommy Henrich singled, Ted Williams walked and Joe DiMaggio singled, driving in Henrich and sending Williams to third, from where he tallied on Rudy York's long fly. Ken Keltner opened the second frame for Joe McCarthy's squad with a triple and scored on Buddy Rosar's single. Johnny Rigney then relieved Feller, retired the side and held the American leaguers runless until Mickey Harris took over in the seventh. In that frame, Phil Rizzuto doubled, stole third and crossed the plate on a triple by Williams, who tallied on George McQuinn's three-bagger. Johnny Grodzicki retired the American leaguers in order in the eighth.

McCarthy sent in Jim Bagby, Jr., for the first three innings, followed with Sid Hudson for the next four, and wound up with Tex Hughson. The trio gave up a total of six hits. Score:

All-Star Game Averages

FRANKIE FRISCH'S .571 batting average is tops among the regular players who have taken part in at least two of the inter-league clashes. Covering the middle station for the National League's stellar team in 1933 and 1934, the Flash pounded four hits in seven official plate appearances, hit a home run each year, and scored four tallies. Charley Gehringer is the nominal pace-setter among the batters, as he participated in six of the ten classics, playing each year, 1933 through 1938, and combining an even .500 average on ten hits in 20 trips to the plate. Billy Herman is the only player to make more safeties than Charley, rapping out 11 in 25 times at bat. Joe DiMaggio tops the list in scoring, crossing the plate six times in seven games.

Only two players, besides Frisch, have been able to hit two round trippers. Lou Gehrig and Arky Vaughan, both of the latter's coming in the 1941 game. Joe Medwick holds the leadership in runs driven in, with six.

Six pitchers have perfect averages, each accounting for one victory, while Vernon Gomez has three wins to his credit but is charged with one defeat. No hurler has lost over one game.

In the team departments, the Americans hold an edge on their rivals in scoring runs, 42 to 32; hits, 85 to 80; two-baggers, 17 to ten; home runs, nine to eight; runs driven in, 40 to 30, and batting average, .254 to .239. The senior circuit holds the edge in fielding, .983 to .963, and is on even terms with the A. L. in triples, three each.

Following are the composite batting, fielding and pitching averages for the ten All-Star games played up to and including 1942:

EIGHT 100-GAME PLAYERS HIT NO HOMERS

Eight major league performers playing in 100 or more games, failed to hit for the circuit at least once in 1942.

This group embraced six National leaguers and only two American League players. The senior circuit's homeless sextette included Shortstop Martin Marion of the World's Champion Cardinals, in 147 games; Outfielder Johnny Barrett of the Pirates, in 111 tilts; Catcher Mickey Owen of the Dodgers, in 133, and a trio of Phils, Outfielder Lloyd Waner, Third Baseman Merrill May and Infielder Dan Murtaugh, in 101, 115 and 144 contests, respectively.

The A. L. duo were Outfielder Roger Cramer of the Tigers and Third Baseman Bob Kennedy of the White Sox, the former in 151 frays and Kennedy in 113.

Game's Contribution to War Effort in 1942

ORGANIZED BASEBALL'S contribution to the nation's war effort in 1942 was a gift of more than a million dollars. The total amount—in dollars—turned over by baseball to Uncle Sam came to $1,294,958.67. The two major leagues alone raised and gave to Army and Navy relief, the USO and the Ball and Bat Fund the total of $1,029,958.67. Outright contributions from their treasuries by the National and American leagues of $2,500 each, and $1,000 from the Baseball Writers' Association of America added another $6,000, making the major league contributions total $1,035,957.67. The minors' financial contribution added up to $232,474.

The 16 major league championship attractions produced a total of $506,106.30 for Army and Navy relief. These are no special games played for war charity, but regular championship contests, from which the clubs, in nearly all instances, gave the entire receipts and concession profits without deducting anything for expenses.

The tenth annual All-Star game at the Polo Grounds in New York netted $89,314.58, of which $50,000 went to the Ball and Bat Fund to purchase baseball paraphernalia for men in the armed forces and $39,314.58 to Army and Navy relief funds. The receipts from the American League All-Star vs. Service Stars contest at Cleveland the following night totaled $71,611.14, of which $50,000 went into the Ball and Bat Fund and $21,611.14 to Army and Navy relief funds.

In addition to turning over $62,926.65 from proceeds of the 1942 World's Series to the USO, Commissioner K. M. Landis bought War Bonds for the players who shared in the World's Series melon, with 10 per cent of the sum due each. Most of the big league players also had voluntarily taken 10 per cent of their regular season's pay in bonds.

In manpower, each major circuit contributed approximately 100 men to the armed forces and there were 1,224 men in the service from the minors at the time of the annual report of the National Association.

The scribes, too, did their share. Forty-three members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America were in the ranks at the end of 1942, and another was killed while serving as a war correspondent.

The Ball and Bat Fund provided 6,000 kits for members of the armed forces, with only 35 kits being lost at sea as a result of submarine attack. In addition to the kits, the members of the Fund Committee, consisting of President Ford Frick of the National League and President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators, shipped 267 dozen baseballs. The equipment went to 43 states and the District of Columbia and to units in England, Iceland, Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Trinidad, Canal Zone, Hawaii, Alaska, Australia and Africa—more than 4,000 units in more than 900 camps, posts, cantonments and military areas.

Through an arrangement with Publisher J. G. Taylor Spink, THE SPORTING NEWS was delivered to units in all branches of the armed services. Copies of the national sports paper were furnished to camp libraries, ships at sea, overseas units and USO clubs. Some 3,150 copies of THE SPORTING NEWS were mailed weekly, and thanks to the co-operation of Publisher Spink, the Ball and Bat Fund Committee reported the cost was only $40 a week.

Following the close of the World's Series, 13 players and executives of the World's Champion St. Louis Cardinals, led by Manager Billy Southworth, each contributed a pint of blood to the Red Cross blood bank at St. Louis, for the benefit of the nation's fighting forces, setting a splendid example for other athletes and civilians alike.

Thus baseball closed its 1942 record with justifiable pride for the part it played in rallying to its country's support.

When Matty Made History

WHEN Christy Mathewson made World's Series history by pitching three shutouts for the Giants against the Athletics in 1905, not a single runner was advanced by a White Elephant batsman and just one of the Mackmen was able to get as far as third base. Ossie Schreck reached the hot corner in the sixth inning of the first conflict after doubling, the official scorers neglecting to give him a hit of this dimension. When Eddie Plank fanned and Roger Bresnahan threw to first to retire him, Rube Waddell's best known battery mate galloped to third. When Topsy Hartsel tried to squeeze Schreck home the backstop perished.

The Athletics' batting average against Matty in the classic of 38 years back was just .152. Topsy Hartsel was the one White Elephant to gather two blows in the same game, doing so in the windup contest. The A's catchers—Schreck and Doc Powers—were the only men who failed to become victims of Big Six' third strike.

Matty came near not making Series history in 1905, for in the first game, in the fifth inning, Ralph (Socks) Seybold, the pioneer batter, hit a line drive at Big Six that he caught more or less with his stomach. However, he picked the ball up and threw it to Dan McGann to get the runner at first. Matty then retired to the New York bench, where he collapsed, knocked out completely. Ironman Joe McGinnity at once came out to warm up, but Matty, after a few minutes' delay, returned to the box and, according to the late John B. Foster, who covered for the New York Evening Telegram, "was greeted with loud cheering from the Philadelphia spectators."

The A's hit into eight of what the late Charles Dryden was wont to term "Sunny Jim" plays in the three games Matty pitched, Bris Lord forcing the preceding runner thrice. Lord had a tough series, not getting a hit, fanning five times and being picked off first by Roger Bresnahan.

Following are the batting averages of the Mackmen in the three games pitched by Mathewson:

Batted .250

Harry Davis—Three hits, one a double, in 12 trips to plate. Fanned once.

Topsy Hartsel—Three hits in 12 trips to plate. Fanned once.

Doc Powers—One hit (a double) in four trips to plate.

Batted .222

Monte Cross—Two hits in nine trips to plate. Fanned three times.

Socks Seybold—Two hits in nine trips to plate. Fanned twice. Drew Matty's only pass in second inning of third game.

Batted .200

Ossie Schreckengost—One hit (a double) in five trips to plate.

Batted .111

Dan Murphy—One hit (a double) in nine trips to plate. Fanned once.

Batted .083

Lave Cross—One hit in 12 trips to plate. Fanned once.

Batted NOTHING AT ALL

Andy Coakley—Batted twice. Fanned once, hit by pitched ball in eighth inning of third game.

Chief Bender—Batted three times. Fanned once.

Eddie Plank—Batted three times. Fanned twice.

Bris Lord—Batted 12 times. Fanned five times.

Cavalcade of Majors

MAJOR LEAGUE ball dates from 1876, with the organization of the National League, which has endured, with a number of changes in the membership list. A pre-major league, the National Association, forerunner to the National League, was in existence from 1871 to 1875, inclusive. During the intervening period, from 1876 to the present, a number of other circuits entered the Big Time fold, but of all these, only the American League survives. Numerous changes in scoring rules, pitching and batting regulations and administration of the game also have been made through the years.

Prepared by Ernest J. Lanigan, widely known baseball historian and statistician, who has been associated with the game for more than 50 years, the "Cavalcade of the Majors" begins with the first year of the National League and touches only once on an event before that time—giving information on the pioneer trip of players abroad in 1874. Arranged by subjects, the Cavalcade seeks to be informative, rather than technical.

Probably the earliest scribe to make an exhaustive research into the game's history was the late William M. Rankin of the New York Clipper, who was a frequent contributor to THE SPORTING NEWS. His findings were preserved for posterity in Francis C. Richter's "History of Baseball," published in 1914. Rankin had a remarkable baseball collection, which he tried to sell to one of the major leagues. Failing in this, he disposed of the collection to the late Charles W. Mears of Cleveland, another writer for THE SPORTING NEWS. Mears died December 9, 1942, and willed his books to his widow, who values them at $2,500.

Following is a chronology of the major leagues, briefly recounting important developments in their history:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

1876—First season, eight clubs—Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis, present members; Philadelphia represented by Athletics; New York by Mutuels, who played all games in Brooklyn; Louisville and Hartford. President, Morgan G. Bulkeley of Hartford, Conn. Later, governor of Connecticut and U. S. Senator from that state. He died in 1922.

1877—Circuit cut to six clubs. Same size loop following year. However, Hartford played all home games in Brooklyn. New president—William A. Hulbert of Chicago. He died in 1882.

1879—Another eight-club circuit. Continued until 1892, with various changes.

1883—Colonel A. G. Mills of New York, author of first National Agreement, became third president. He died in 1929. New club members—New York and Philadelphia.

1885—Nicholas E. Young of Washington became fourth president. Served through 1901. He died in 1916.

1887—Pittsburgh entered, leaving American Association.

1890—Brooklyn and Cincinnati entered, leaving American Association.

1892—Consolidation with American Association brought about 12-club circuit, Baltimore, Louisville, St. Louis and Washington coming in.

1900—Another eight-club circuit, with Baltimore, Louisville, Cleveland and Washington bought out, resulting in present membership of cities. Barney Dreyfuss, Louisville owner, purchased Pirates, and by transferring Louisville stars Wagner, Clarke, Phillippe, Leach and Ritchey, to Pittsburgh, made possible great Pirate champions of 1901-'02-'03.

1902—Board of control consisting of John T. Brush, chairman; James A. Hart and Arthur H. Soden governed league in lieu of president.

1903—Harry C. Pulliam, former Louisville and Pittsburgh executive, became fifth president. Found approximately $300 in treasury. One of first acts was to engage John A. Heydler of Washington as his assistant, with no title, to compile averages. Pulliam died in 1909.

1906—Frank Chance's Chicago Cubs set major league record, winning 116 games.

1909—John A. Heydler, originally from Lafargeville, N. Y., one-time Rochester printer, National League umpire for a short time, compiler of averages, and Washington sports editor who liked pastime so much that he took trip around the circuit with the Senators, paying most of cost himself, became sixth president, to fill out Pulliam's term.

1910—Thomas J. Lynch of New Britain, Conn., a one-time umpire, became seventh president. History indicates he was compromise candidate, with Brooklyn, Chicago and other clubs preferring John Montgomery Ward. John T. Brush was given credit for picking compromise candidate. Lynch died in 1924.

1913—John K. Tener, one-time Chicago Colt pitcher, globe-trotter with the Spalding tourists in 1888 and 1889 and former governor of Pennsylvania, became eighth president. Resigned in August, 1918.

1914—George Stallings' Boston Braves, last in mid-July, won pennant by 10½ games, and defeated hitherto invincible Athletics four straight in World's Series.

1916—New York Giants ran off winning streak of 26 straight.

1918—John A. Heydler returned to office as president. Resigned in 1934.

1924—New York Giants, managed by John J. McGraw, became first team in league to win four straight championships.

1934—Ford C. Frick, former New York baseball writer and publicity man for the National League under Heydler, became ninth president. Still serving.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

1901—Organized by Byron Bancroft Johnson. Originally the Western League, it established claim to major league status by invading East and placing clubs in Boston and Philadelphia, besides occupying vacant territory in Baltimore and Washington. Western end of circuit—Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee—retained intact.

1902—St. Louis replaced Milwaukee.

1903—New York replaced Baltimore.

1927—Ban Johnson resigned as president on October 17, 1927. Died in 1931.

1927—Ernest S. Barnard, former Cleveland executive and Columbus secretary when the American Association was fighting Organized Ball in 1902, became league's second elected president. Died in 1931.

1927—New York established league record with 110 victories. Babe Ruth, Yankee star, hit 60 home runs.

1931—William Harridge, former secretary to B. B. Johnson and one-time Chicago railroad man, became third president. Still serving.

1939—New York Yankees established record by winning four successive league pennants and world's championships.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

1882—First season, with six clubs—Baltimore, Cincinnati, Louisville, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. Sunday ball played in West, organization making bid for customers at 25 cents. Introduced plan of deciding championship on percentage basis, National League following idea two years later.

1883—Expanded to eight clubs, taking in New York and Columbus.

1884—Further expansion. Had 12-club circuit and 13 teams before season ended. Virginias of Richmond succeeding bankrupted Washingtons.

1885—Back to eight clubs. Charles Comiskey, St. Louis manager, won first of four successive pennants with the Browns.

1891—Final season, consolidated with National League.

UNION ASSOCIATION

1884—First and only season. Principal backer, Henry V. Lucas, young St. Louis capitalist, who assembled team that ran away with the pennant. Thirteen clubs in action before demise—Altoona, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Keystones of Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, St. Paul, Washington and Wilmington. Circuit had numerous veterans, also some good young players, notably, Tommy McCarthy, "Chippy" McGarr, Joe Quinn, Perry Werden, Jack Clements, Al Maul, "Lady" Baldwin, Dan Casey, "Germany" Smith and Tom (Oyster) Burns.

PLAYERS' LEAGUE

1890—First and only season. Competed with National League in Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and also had teams in Brooklyn and Buffalo. Backers and players were supposed to share the profits, which proved non-existent. Colonel E. A. McAlpin of New York, president. Merger effected with National League at close of disastrous season—even more disastrous to the National than to the "Brotherhood," as Players' League was known.

FEDERAL LEAGUE

1913—Organized as independent league with semi-pros and few independent players. In 1914, backed by Otto Stifel, Robert B. Ward and Charles H. Weeghman, circuit raided the majors for talent. Phil Ball and Harry Sinclair came into organization in 1915, Ball buying into St. Louis and Sinclair backing Newark, which had replaced Indianapolis. Clubs going through the last two years were Baltimore, Brooklyn, Chicago, Kansas City, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and St. Louis. James Alexander Gilmore served as president. Peace declared in December, 1916. Weeghman bought Cubs and Ball acquired Browns.

BASEBALL WARS

1884—Union Association vs. American Association and National League. Organized in Pittsburgh, September 12, 1883, Union Association apparently thought it was doing right in warring on reserve rule. Starting organization work with six clubs, loop had 12 when the season opened. However, many players, who cast their fortunes with new league, deserted before play started. Exceptions were Sam Crane, later a New York baseball writer; Fred Dunlap, Hugh Daily and George Washington Bradley. During the season, Union found it needed more drawing cards and persuaded Charles Sweeney, Jack Glasscock, Jim McCormick and Dupee Shaw, among others, to jump their clubs. Principal financial sufferer by failure of league was Henry V. Lucas of St. Louis.

1890—Players' League vs. American Association and National League. Brotherhood members, backing their own league with capitalists, found there wasn't as much money in baseball as they had believed. Their backers made similar discovery and were ready to quit before the players were. Everybody financially hurt.

1891—American Association vs. National League. Fight developed because National League lifted Lou Bierbauer and Harry Stovey from Athletics after that club had failed to reserve them. This war apparently was financial draw, for warring organizations merged that fall.

1901—Denied permission to expand and head off an American Association move in that direction, the American League, approximately a Class A league the year before, challenged the National's right to exclusive occupancy of major league territory. After two years of bitter warfare, American won its point. John T. Brush and others bought Baltimore club in July, 1902, took its best players and neglected to put a team in the field. Byron Bancroft Johnson then placed a Baltimore club in American League after declaring the franchise forfeited. Peace was declared following season of 1902, when President Johnson found a backer for a New York team and a place in Manhattan where it could play.

1914—Federal League, for two years, opposed American and National leagues, then withdrew in January, 1916, after peace agreement.

SCORING CHANGES

1877—Hitter exempted from time at bat if walked.

1879—"Reached first base" data dropped after one year.

1880—Total bases run data dropped after one year.

1887—Bases on balls credited as hits, accounting for all-time high number of 400 batsmen. Present Baseball Writers' Association of America had fore-runner in Baseball Reporters' Association, formed at Cincinnati in December, dues, $1 a year; Alfred H. Spink, founder and editor of THE SPORTING NEWS, and B. B. Johnson, then with Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, among organizers; organization immediately had idea adopted, to give batsman a hit when runner was struck by a batted ball. Present BBWAA resulted from untiring work on road during 1907 and 1908 by Jack Ryder, Cincinnati Enquirer, and Sid Mercer, New York Globe, one traveling with Reds and other with Highlanders, with some assistance from stay-at-home Gotham scribes. Organization really started at meeting in Harry Pulliam's office in New York, August, 1908, and was perfected during World's Series that fall. Original dues $2 a year. Remarkable increase in New York membership in fall of 1910 prior to Giant-Highlander series, when club officials announced only those who could show BBWAA cards could get in without explanation. Hugh Fullerton among those present in Pulliam's office in the St. James Building when BBWAA made real start.

1891—Runs batted in appeared in summaries for first time; National League dropped them in June on orders from president because scribes did not like Henry Chadwick's innovation. "Father of Baseball" desiring champion batsman to be man who drove in most tallies. American Association, at peace with National when rule was adopted, but later warring with other league, did not rescind rule. In 1920, possibly because of urging by John McGraw, R.B.I. became part of records. The New York Press, which had a baseball-minded sports editor in James R. Price, printed first of modern runs-batted-in records of the major leagues in 1907.

1893—Player sacrificing exempted from time at bat.

1908—Sacrifice fly rule adopted, exempting player from time at bat when he hit fly that scored runner from third. Rule suggested by Manager William Murray of Phillies to help increase average of Sherwood Magee, his top-notch hitter. Rule changed later, remitting at-bats from players moving batter from first to second or from second to third on fly balls, but change was wiped off statutes in 1931. Sacrifice fly, for scoring runs, remained until 1940, when it also was discarded.

1920—Batter given credit for hitting home run in last part of ninth if ball went out of park, and winning run was on base when he made hit. Also given credit for driving in as many tallies, his own included. Home run rule change introduced by Fred Lieb, Baseball Writers' Association representative on Rules Committee. "Ninth-inning steal" (unnecessary thefts by a losing team with the winners far ahead) discarded, possibly on suggestion of John A. Heydler on data supplied him by a Boston scribe.

- 1920—Failure of preceding runner to touch base ruled no penalty to succeeding runner.

1925—Home run distance increased from 235 to 250 feet.

SHIN GUARDS

1907—Roger Bresnahan, Giant catcher, used them in majors for first time. Matthew Fitzgerald, now in Albany, N. Y., one-time New York back-stop, is said to have originated idea.

CORK CENTER BALL

1910—Cork center ball used late in season and some scribes wondered why pitchers issued so many passes and why batting was so brisk.

PLAYOFF GAME

1908—National League's only playoff game, Giants and Cubs, day after season ended, meeting in New York to see which would be champion team. Chicago won. Playoff was made necessary by contest at Polo Grounds, September 23, in which winning run was nullified because Fred Merkle of Giants, on first base, did not touch second after batsman had made hit that should have ended game.

PLAYERS NUMBERED

1916—Robert McRoy, Cleveland business manager, had numbers pinned on backs of Indians in game against White Sox. American League began numbering players in 1931, National two years later.

SEASON SHORTENED

1918—Major league seasons curtailed because of "work or fight" order by Provost Marshall General Crowder.

NIGHT BALL

1935—First night game in majors played at Cincinnati, with Larry MacPhail the introducer.

GOVERNMENT

1903—National Commission, consisting of presidents of American and National leagues and a chairman, began 18-year rule. August Herrmann, original chairman, resigned in 1920. Commission issued annual handbook, showing decisions and giving statements of receipts and expenditures, as well as scores of World's Series and other series played under its jurisdiction. The books, originally intended only for newspapermen, later were sold to public at $1 each, with no great rush to buy. John E. Bruce was first and last secretary of the Commission.

1920—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis appointed Commissioner of Baseball. Still serving.

TEMPLE CUP SERIES

1894—First of four series between the National League teams finishing first and second for the Temple Cup, a trophy donated by William C. Temple, president of the Pittsburgh club. New York won over Baltimore, four games to none, in first year; Cleveland over Baltimore, four games to one, in second; Baltimore over Cleveland, four games to none, in third, and Baltimore over Boston, four games to one, in fourth. Cup then was returned to donor. Abandonment of series, according to historians, was due to certain players being willing to split their shares, no matter who won. Cup now in Florida in possession of Mrs. Del Mason, daughter of the late Mr. Temple.

During same era, Eastern and Atlantic league winners and runners-up competed for Steinert and Soby cups. First trophy has disappeared; Edward Grant Barrow, Yankee president, has the second.

WORLD'S SERIES

1882—Chicago of the National League and Cincinnati of the American Association started to play a little World's Series of their own, but the Association told the Reds to desist after each club had won a game.

1884—First recognized World's Series, Providence of National League defeating Metropolitans of American Association in three straight games, all pitched by Charles Radbourne, all played in bad weather and none of them watched by more than 2,000 persons. All played in New York.

1903—First World's Series between National and American league champions, Pittsburgh representing National, Boston the American. Red Sox won, five games to three.

1905—First World's Series under National Commission jurisdiction on rules formulated by John T. Brush, Giants and Athletics competing. Provided for four victories out of seven series. Giants won, four games to one, Christy Mathewson, New York pitching ace, winning three shutouts in six days.

1913—On protest of John T. Brush, some $36,000 of the 1912 World's Series was held in escrow by the National Commission, until Judge McCall of Brooklyn, in his capacity as sole arbitrator, upheld the legality of the rule, and ordered the distribution among the other clubs of the league, the New York club receiving its one-eighth share.

1918—All first division players participated in World's Series receipts for first time.

1919—World's Series increased to nine games.

1922—World's Series again returned to seven games.

ALL-STAR GAMES

1933—Initial All-Star game played at Chicago. Idea suggested by Arch Ward, sports editor of Chicago Tribune.

TOURS

1874—First foreign trip, Boston and Athletics going to England and Ireland and playing 14 games, in addition to seven cricket matches, in which they were permitted to use 18 men. Al Spalding, Adrian Anson, Tim Murnane and George Wright among notables making the trip. First game played July 30, in Liverpool; last August 25, in Dublin. Scribes going along—Alfred H. Wright, Philadelphia Sunday Mercury, and H. S. Kempton, Boston Herald. Receipts of games on other side, $1,679.70.

1886—Athletics and Phillies made trip to Cuba, Arthur Irwin and Wilbert Robinson being among tourists. Later Connie Mack, John McGraw and others piloted fall trips to island republic.

1888-1889—First 'round-the-world tour, sponsored by A. G. Spalding, 20 players making trip as members of teams called Chicago and All-America, captained by Adrian Anson and John M. Ward, respectively. Other tourists: Mark Baldwin, Thomas Burns, Thomas Daly, Fred Pfeffer, Robert Pettit, James Ryan, Martin Sullivan, John Tener and Edward Williamson, Chicago; Fred Carroll, Edward Crane, William Earle, James Fogarty, Edward Hanlon, John Healy, Herman Long, James Manning and George Wood, All-America. Harry C. Palmer, representing New York Herald, was globe-trotting scribe. First game played in Auckland, New Zealand, December 10; last in Dublin, March 26. Leigh S. Lynch, theatrical man, mapped the tour; John K. Tener acted as cashier.

1913-1914—Second world tour sponsored by Charles Comiskey of White Sox and John McGraw of Giants. Teams used names of those famous clubs, but had numerous other players in line-ups. Teams visited Japan, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Manila, Australia, Ceylon, Egypt, Italy, France, England, Scotland and Ireland. No games were played in stops in Ceylon, Egypt and Italy. Players: White Sox—Jim Scott, Joe Benz, Urban Faber, Tom Daly, James Callahan, Andy Slight, Buck Weaver, White Sox; Herman Schaefer, Washington; Sam Crawford, Tigers; Tris Speaker, Red Sox; Dick Egan, Cincinnati Reds; Steve Evans and Jack Bliss, St. Louis Cardinals; Walter Leverniz, Browns. Giants—George Wiltse, Bunny Hearne, Fred Merkle, Larry Doyle, Jim Thorpe, Mike Donlin, Giants; John Lobert and Mike Doolan, Phillies; Lee Magee and Ivy Wingo, Cardinals. Played 31 games. Harry Sparrow was business manager and Bill Klem, National League, umpire. Gus Axelson, Chicago, went along as sports writer.

1914—Teams called the All-Americans and All-Nationals, picked by Connie Mack and Frank Bancroft, respectively, made long transcontinental trip, also played five games in Honolulu.

1924—Second Comiskey-McGraw White Sox-Giant trip to England, Ireland and France in October and November. Trip poor financial success, and tentative games in Brussels, Nice, Rome and Berlin cancelled. White Sox players—John Evers, manager; Willie Kamm, Ray Morehart, Bud Clancy, Urban Faber, Charley Robertson, Ted Lyons, Bib Falk, Johnny Mostil, Gus Foreman, White Sox; Sam Rice and Herold Ruel, Washington; Ralph Picinich, Red Sox; Dave Bancroft, Braves. Sam Crane, New York Journal, and Harry Cross, New York Times, accompanied tourists.

VISITS TO JAPAN

American missionaries took baseball to Japan as far back as 70 years ago. Some professionals also visited Nippon, but the first big league clubs to call there as a team were the Giants and White Sox in the Comiskey-McGraw world tour of 1913-'14. They played four games with each other in Yokohama, Tokyo, Kobe and Nagasaki in early December, 1913.

In November, 1922, a team of All-American stars, led by Herbert Hunter, played 11 games with Japanese college teams and Japanese all-stars. American team also visited Korea, Shanghai and Manila. Annual Meetings

JOINT SESSION OF MAJOR LEAGUES

CONFRONTED with the necessity of cutting down mileage during the spring training period and in the regular season on the suggestion of Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman, much of the time of the majors in their annual sessions, December 1, 2 and 3, at Chicago, was devoted to achieving that end. It was announced the American and National had arranged to lop off some 36,000 miles of traveling during the season and that individual clubs were arranging to curtail spring exhibition games to cut out more mileage.

The annual All-Star game was awarded to Philadelphia to be played July 7 (later changed to July 13), with the Athletics as hosts. The receipts were voted to the Ball and Bat Fund for service men, to which each league added $2,500 and the commissioner's office $20,000. In addition, it was provided one home game be played in 1943 by each club for war benefit.

Attempts to lower and raise the player limit and to increase the number of night games for 1943 both failed. The player maximum was retained at 25 and the same number of nocturnal contests was voted, 14 for each club, except Washington, which was allotted 21.

Disinclined to consider any controversial matters at the time, another extension of the Major-Minor Agreement was made, to run until January 12, 1944.

SPECIAL MEETING CALLED BY COMMISSIONER

Following a conference with Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman, Commissioner K. M. Landis called a special meeting of the majors in Chicago, January 5, when a drastic cut in training camp plans was ordered. Landis ruled all spring training sites must be north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and east of the Mississippi, except in the case of the two St. Louis clubs, which were given the privilege of conditioning in Missouri, if they desired. It was estimated there would be a saving of at least 400,000 man miles by the shift from California, Florida and other southern sites and Director Eastman expressed himself as satisfied with the amount of travel eliminated.

As a result of the later training period, made necessary by northern climate, the majors changed the planned opening dates of their schedules, moving back the inaugurals to April 21, except for the usual day earlier at Washington, April 20, and closing the season October 3. The All-Star game was shifted to July 13.

NATIONAL LEAGUE IN SPECIAL MEETING

With the annual schedule meetings in New York by the American and National leagues cancelled, no February session was held by the Harridge circuit, but Ford Frick and his directors met February 9, to consider the case of the Philadelphia club. It was decided to take over the franchise and negotiate for a buyer. The property was sold nine days later to a syndicate headed by William D. Cox of New York.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Meeting in Chicago, December 4, the National Association, governing body of the minors, voted to freeze territory of disbanded clubs and leagues, except through mutual agreement of two circuits concerned, or with the approval of the president, members desiring to do so may join other loops, temporarily during the duration. The two per cent fee on player transactions was abolished and needy clubs were given the privilege of applying for loans from the treasury, as a concession to demand for division of funds by surviving organizations. The Association's net assets were revealed to be $277,449.

Chicago City Series

THE WHITE SOX triumphed over the Cubs in the 1942 fall city series in four out of six games. Out of the 26 city series that have been played between the Windy City's two Big Time clubs, the White Sox have won 19 and the Cubs six and one was tied. The victory of the South Side club last fall, marked the eighth consecutive series the American League entry has taken from the senior major club from the North Side.

Following are the results of the series inaugurated in 1903:

Highlights of 1942 Season

By Edgar G. Brands

Editor of The Sporting News

GIVEN THE green light by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the majors and minors responded in the war year of 1942 by staging many interesting flag races, while contributing approximately 1,400 players to the armed forces and more than a million dollars to war relief funds and entertaining thousands of service men, admission free. The achievements of the St. Louis Cardinals in winning the National League pennant by a sensational drive in the final month, then defeating the New York Yankees, four out of five games, in the World's Series, highlighted the year.

The blessing of the President on the game was given in a letter to Commissioner K. M. Landis, dated January 15, in which the chief executive of the nation emphasized that people working longer and harder than ever "ought to have a chance for recreation and for taking their minds off their work even more than ever before. Baseball provides a recreation which does not last over two hours or two hours and a half and which can be got for very little cost." Furthermore, the President stated: "I believe it best for the country to keep baseball going." The plans for the season were based on this expression and carried out accordingly.

As in 1941, the National League witnessed another two-club race between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers; but the end of the season saw their positions reversed, the Redbirds clinching the pennant on the last day and finishing two games ahead of the Dodgers. In the American, the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox again dominated, but the Boston club faltered and the New Yorkers were returned league champions for the sixth time in seven years and second in succession, winning by a margin of nine games. The Yanks clinched the pennant September 14. The St. Louis Browns showed the greatest improvement over the previous season, finishing third, after being tied for sixth place in 1941.

The biggest surprise to many, however, was the defeat of the Yankees by the Cardinals, four out of five games, in the World's Series. The Series triumph was the first for a National League team in five games since 1933 and the fourth for the Cardinals. The loss of the Series was the first suffered by the Yankees since 1926, when another Redbird team won in seven contests. The Cardinals dropped the first game of the 1942 Series to the Bombers and then took the next four.

Two All-Star games were staged, July 6 and 7, with the net receipts of approximately $161,000 going to the Ball and Bat Fund and service relief. The first, a twilight affair at the Polo Grounds in New York, drew an attendance of 33,694, and the American League team, by scoring three runs in the first inning, won, 3 to 1, for its seventh triumph out of ten games played. The victory gave the American leaguers the privilege of meeting the Service All-Stars, made up of former players already in the armed forces, at Cleveland the night of July 7. Again the A. L. representatives triumphed, 5 to 0, before a crowd of 62,094 at the Cleveland Stadium.

A greatly-increased program of night games was served the fans in parks equipped with lights by 11 clubs the Boston Red Sox and Braves, Chicago Cubs, New York Yankees and Detroit still sticking exclusively to daytime ball. Nocturnal contests were increased to 14 for ten clubs and 21 for Washington.

Three teams had new managers at the helm. Lou Boudreau succeeded Roger Peckinpaugh, who moved up to the vice-presidency, at Cleveland; Mel Ott took over the reins from Bill Terry, who became head of the New York Giants' farm system, and Coach Hans Lobert was promoted to the management of the Phils, vice Doc Prothro. The 1943 season brought the same number of changes, Steve O'Neill taking over from Del Baker at Detroit, Ossie Bluege succeeding Bucky Harris at Washington, and Harris being placed in charge of the Phillies, succeeding Hans Lobert, following the sale of the club.

The Phils were the problem child of the National League throughout the year. Attempts were made to find new owners following the close of the season that saw the team finish last for the fifth straight time and no better than seventh for the tenth consecutive year. The negotiations culminated in February, 1943, with the purchase of the franchise from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald P. Nugent by the league, which, in turn, sold it to a syndicate headed by William D. Cox, a New York sportsman.

No executive changes were made during 1942, until after the close of the season, when Branch Rickey resigned as vice-president of the Cardinals and was elected to a five-year term as president of the Dodgers, succeeding Larry MacPhail, who resigned to accept a lieutenant-colonelcy in the Army.

The annual selection of players from the minors, moved back to November 2 from the usual night before the World's Series, netted 23 players.

Thirty-one minor leagues, ten less than in 1941, started and 26 of them finished. Gasoline rationing and the rubber shortage, which handicapped transportation, were vital factors in the suspension of five circuits. Columbus of the American Association won the Junior World's Series, four out of five games, from Syracuse of the International League, and Nashville of the Southern Association captured the Dixie Series, four out of six games, from Shreveport of the Texas League.

WON AND LOST RECORDS OF MAJOR PILOTS

Manager Billy Southworth of the World's Champion St. Louis Cardinals has the best winning percentage of the 16 major league managers of 1943, Billy's mark of .625 as a Big Time pilot being one point better than Joe McCarthy's. However, the Yankee skipper has 17 years of service to his credit as compared with Southworth's four.

Connie Mack, of course, is the dean of the helmsmen, with 45 years of service to his credit, 42 of them since 1901 with the Philadelphia Athletics. Mack's winning percentage is just four points short of the .500 goal.

Following are the lifetime won and lost records of the various big league skippers, covering their years as head of major clubs:

Majors Move Training Camps to North

CONFINED to an area north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and west of the Mississippi, except in the case of the St. Louis clubs, which were permitted to train in Missouri, if they wished, the major leagues did their spring conditioning in 1943 under exceptional conditions. For the first time in several generations, the usual camps in the South and California were abandoned, this action being taken in deference to the request of Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, for the curtailment of travel.

As a result, no club trained farther than 466 miles from its home base, the Tigers being located that distance at Evansville, Ind., with others being nearer, ranging to the Boston Red Sox, who had to take only a short trolley ride.

The 1943 training camps were located as follows:

Boston Braves—Choate School, Wallingford, Conn.

Boston Red Sox—Tufts College, Medford, Mass.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Bear Mountain, N. Y.

Chicago Cubs and White Sox—French Lick, Ind.

Cincinnati Reds—Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind.

Cleveland Indians—Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

Detroit Tigers—Evansville, Ind.

New York Giants—Lakewood, N. J.

New York Yankees—Asbury Park, N. J.

Philadelphia Athletics—Wilmington, Del.

Philadelphia Phillies—Hershey, Pa.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Muncie, Ind.

St. Louis Browns—Cape Girardeau, Mo.

St. Louis Cardinals—Cairo, Ill.

Washington Senators—University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

GRIMES BROUGHT SPITBALL ERA TO CLOSE IN '34

In 1934, Burleigh Grimes, who later became a major and minor league manager, did his last pitching in the majors. With his passing, the last of the spitballers disappeared from big league view.

Old Stubblebeard performed in both majors in his nineteenth and final campaign under the Big Tent. Pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates, he won three games and dropped a like number. In a brief fling with the New York Yankees, his only experience as an American leaguer, Grimes gained one verdict while losing two.

The year before—1933—had witnessed the passing of Jack Quinn and Urban Faber. Old Jack, toiling in 14 contests in relief roles for Cincinnati, was charged with one setback without gaining credit for a single triumph. Faber copped three and dropped four in his farewell campaign in the majors—his twentieth straight year with the Chicago White Sox.

In 1932, the only lefthanded spitballer in the Big Show bowed out. He was Clarence Mitchell, who notched one win while losing three verdicts for the New York Giants.

When the majors decided to abolish the spitter in December, 1920, it was decreed that the 17 pitchers then using the delivery would be permitted to continue to do so for the remainder of their careers. The group included: National League—Bill Doak, Phil Douglas, Dana Fillingim, Ray Fisher, Marvin Goodwin, Grimes, Mitchell, Quinn and Dick Rudolph (9), American League—Yancey Ayers, Ray Caldwell, Stanley Coveleskie, Faber, Hubert (Dutch) Leonard, Allan Russell, Urban Shocker and Allan Sothoron (8).

Red Ruffing King of Classic Chuckers

PRIOR TO the 1942 World's Series, four pitchers were tied for the most victories in World's Series competition, with six each—Charles A. (Chief) Bender, Waite C. Hoyt, Vernon (Lefty) Gomez and Charles H. (Red) Ruffing. Gomez did not perform for the Yankees in the 1941 and 1942 classics. Ruffing pitched and won the opening game of the 1942 Series with the Cardinals, thus breaking the old record. Red hurled seven and two-thirds innings of hitless ball before Terry Moore spoiled his bid for a World's Series no-hitter. In his try for a second Series triumph and eighth all-time Series conquest in the fifth struggle, the Yankee star failed.

Gomez possesses the best winning percentage among the four highest World's Series victors. His record is untarnished—six victories against no defeats. Ruffing's mark is next highest—seven victories against only two losses—for a .778 figure. Hoyt and Bender each captured six Series games while dropping four for .600 records.

The following table gives the record of the four most successful World's Series pitchers:

EARLY R.B.I. LEADERS

THIRTEEN years before the major leagues adopted the runs-batted-in idea, Ernest J. Lanigan, with the assistance of others of the craft, had been collecting and compiling the figures. In this period, there were 14 leaders in the American, a tie existing between George Burns of the Philadelphia Athletics and Bob Veach of the Detroit Tigers in 1918, and 13 in the National. In the junior league, lefthanded batsmen, and in the senior organization, righthanded hitters, dominated the proceedings.

Ty Cobb was a pace-setter for four years. Hans Wagner and Sam Crawford for three and Frank Baker, Bob Veach, Sherwood Magee, Cactus Cravath and Heinie Zimmerman for two. Seven leaders were one-year men.

Cobb's 144 in 1911 was high for the two leagues.

The greatest disparity in totals of the leaders came in 1919. George Herman Ruth topped the American that year with 112, while the National's honor man—Harry Harrison Myers—was 40 under the mark.

The leaders from 1907 to 1919, inclusive:

RUTH HURLED AND WON FIVE GAMES FOR YANKS

Upon joining the New York Yankees via purchase from the Boston Red Sox in 1920, Babe Ruth turned from the mound to concentrate on outfielding—and home run hitting. Nevertheless, he made a few slab appearances in his 15 years as a Yank. Toiling in five contests on the hill, Ruth was credited with five wins and no reverses. His final appearance as a pitcher came in the last game of the 1933 season, against Boston. In 1921, the year he hit 59 homers, one short of his record-breaking total of 60 in 1927, Ruth won two games, the only season with the Yanks that he annexed more than one victory.

Debuts—Successful and Otherwise

WHAT KIND of showings were made by pitchers and other players, who went on to diamond fame, in their initial appearances in the major leagues? Good fortune attended the debuts of some performers who later achieved distinction in the Big Time, while others, who also rose to the heights later in their careers, were not so fortunate in their baptism of fire on the main line.

Following are highlights of the inaugural appearances of a number of players who went on to gain prominence in the majors:

Adrian Joss, pitching his first game in the American League, for Cleveland at St. Louis, April 26, 1902, won over Sudhoff, 2 to 0, and fanned four of the first six men who faced him—Jones, in the first, and Anderson, Wallace and Padden in the second. Joss limited the Browns to one safety, a fly to right by Jesse Burkett that Zaza Harvey claimed he caught.

When Carl Hubbell drew his first pitching assignment from Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants on July 26, 1928, he went through the first inning safely against the Pirates, but in the second the Bucs reached him for five tallies, three of them earned, and Hubbell was replaced by Faulkner.

When Waite Hoyt first appeared on the major league horizon at the Polo Grounds on July 24, 1918, to finish up a game against the Cardinals, he made only seven pitches to retire the first two St. Louis batters, both on strikes. He fanned Bruno Betzel on three pitches, Mike Gonzalez on four. Then Gene Packard popped to Arthur Fletcher. Hoyt was 19 at the time.

Van Mungo, breaking in with Brooklyn against Boston, on September 7, 1931, defeated Tom Zachary, 2 to 0, fanning seven and allowing three hits. Mungo collected two safeties himself, one a triple.

Leon Ames, in his first game with the Giants on September 14, 1903, against St. Louis, pitched a five-inning no-hitter, winning over Mike O'Neill, 5 to 0. Ames fanned seven and walked two.

Ernest Shore, later to become a no-hit hero, was far from pitching hitless ball when Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants introduced him to the National League in Boston on June 20, 1912. Shore worked the ninth inning and was located for ten runs and eight hits. He fanned one, walked one and three of the runs off him were earned. However, as Ernie took over with a 19-run lead, the Giants won, 21 to 12.

Rochester, in 1918, had a Brooklyn-born pitcher, Harry Heitman, who was quite an iron man and strikeout artist. Wilbert Robinson, at Ebbets Field on July 27, started Heitman against the Cardinals, with the following results: Heathcote singled, Fisher tripled, Hornsby and McHenry singled. Heitman took a shower, then enlisted in the Navy, and never pitched in fast company again.

Nap Rucker, making his first appearance with the Brooklyn Superbas in Boston on April 15, 1907, wished to go back to Georgia that night, but was dissuaded. The Braves defeated him, 3 to 2, getting all of their runs in the second inning, when Rucker made two wild throws and the same number of wild pitches. Nap also held the ball in his hand while Claude Ritchey stole home with the winning tally.

Hal Schumacher, making his bow in the National League as a Giant against the Phillies on April 15, 1931, lasted just one and one-third innings, yielding seven runs (all earned), the same number of hits and one pass. He was charged with a 10 to 7 loss.

If Rube Marquard had won his first game for John J. McGraw from Cincinnati on September 25, 1908, no playoff game would have been necessary to decide the pennant race between the Giants and the Cubs and Marquard would not have acquired his early nickname of the "$11,000 Lemon." But the Reds, with Bob Spade pitching, defeated Rube, 7 to 1. Marquard lasted only five innings, during which he gave up five runs and six hits, walked two men, hit another and made a wild pitch.

Russell Van Atta, in his first game with the Yankees against Washington on April 25, 1933, was doubly a headliner. He suppressed the Senators with five hits and made four blows himself, sacrificing once and knocking in a run, the Yankees winning, 16 to 0. The Washington pitchers were Weaver, Thomas and McAfee.

Christy Mathewson, debuting in the National League on July 17, 1900, at old Washington Park, Brooklyn, as relief for Ed Doheny with two on and one out, immediately walked Joe Kelley. Bill Dahlen's fly to center scored Jim Sheekard. Lave Cross singled. Tom Daly flied to center, Gene Demont scoring. Duke Farrell was hit by a pitched ball and then Joe McGinnity fanned, to end the inning.

Connie Mack unveiled a new pitcher from Dean Academy against the Yankees, then not overly strong, on June 23, 1915. The novitiate—Bruno Haas—passed 16 and lost, 15 to 7. Birdie Cree walked four times. The game was played at Shibe Park as the second section of a double-header.

Jerome H. (Dizzy) Dean, pitching his first game for the Cardinals on September 28, 1930, against Pittsburgh, defeated French, 3 to 1, going the route and giving the Bucs three hits. The run off Dean was earned. He fanned five, walked three and made a single himself and also scored a run.

John Wesley Coombs introduced himself to the American League as an Athletic at old Columbia Park, Philadelphia, July 5, 1906, by blanking Washington, 3 to 0. He allowed seven hits, fanned six and walked five.

Carlton Molesworth, discoverer of many good players for the Pirates and one of Billy Southworth's early minor league managers, is not likely to forget his first National League game in a hurry. He was then a pitcher with Washington. Manager Gus Schmelz started Molesworth at Philadelphia in the front part of a double-header, September 14, 1895. He was taken out in the sixth after the Quakers had made 14 runs. The final score was 21 to 9. Molesworth walked five batters, fanned the same number and hit two.

Connie Mack, taking over the management of the Pirates on September 3, 1894, immediately found he was bossing a team that could hit, Pittsburgh winning from Washington, 22 to 1. Mack replaced Al Buckenberger as pilot.

Herman Long, playing his first game in the National League, with Boston, against Brooklyn, April 18, 1890, hit home runs in the third and eighth innings off Bobby Caruthers and William (Adonis) Terry.

When Wahoo Sam Crawford played for the first time in the National League with Cincinnati on Sunday, September 9, 1899, he had the odd experience of participating in a double-header in which the Reds met two different clubs—Cleveland and Louisville. That was the year in which the Cleveland team spent most of its time on the road and in which the schedule did not give Louisville any Sunday games at home. In the freak twin-bill, Crawford had five hits in eight trips to the plate—one of them a triple off Elmore Cunningham, then a Colonel.

Billy Sunday, projected into baseball by Adrian Anson because both came from Marshalltown, Ia., had a perfect day in strikeouts when he made his first National League appearance, at Chicago, May 22, 1883. Sunday batted against Jim Whitney of Boston four times and collected the same number of whiffs.

If Dan Murphy hadn't been a bit late in reporting to Connie Mack in Boston on Tuesday, July 8, 1902, the American League might number among its hitting heroes a man who collected seven safeties in a game. But Murphy didn't show up in time to play the first inning and Jud Castro, from Venezuela, started at second. Murphy took over in the second inning and at the end of the afternoon had six hits, including a base-clearing home run, to show for his six trips to the plate. The Red Sox pitchers were George Prentiss, Cy Young and Merle Adkins.

Denton (Cy) Young, pitching his first National League game, August 6, 1890, against Chicago, limited the White Stockings to three singles, made by Burns, Earle and Kittridge, and won, 8 to 1. In saying farewell to the Tri-State League on July 25, Young, with Canton, fanned 18 McKeesport batters.

In his first game with Detroit, August 30, 1905, Ty Cobb, batting fifth, doubled on his initial appearance at bat against Jack Chesbro of New York and drove in two runs. Cobb later drew a pass.

John Arnold Heydler, one-time president of the National League, started his brief career as an umpire in the National at Washington on July 30, 1895, officiating with Hunt, in a game the Giants won, 17 to 5. Later, Heydler was paired with Charles Cushman. Their salute from the athletes when they appeared was: "Here come Nick Young's barbers." Young then was president of the National League.

Martin O'Toole, spitball pitcher bought by Pittsburgh from St. Paul for a large sum in 1911, won his first game for the Pirates on August 30, that year, from Boston, 6 to 4, passing ten men, fanning nine and making two hits himself off Weaver. O'Toole had nine strikeouts in his second game, eight in his third and then became a run-of-the-mine boxman.

Harry Elwood McCormick, better known as The Moose, one of the greatest pinch-hitters in National League history, used an alias when he broke into Organized Ball with Providence against Buffalo on August 12, 1902. As McMahon, The Moose had two hits in three times at bat off Ferry. Billy Murray, who found McCormick playing with the Atlantic City Collegians, gave him the alias.

Ernest Lombardi, leading National League hitter of 1942, batted 1,000 his first day in that organization, April 15, 1931. He relieved Lopez behind the bat in a game against Boston and made two singles off Harry Seibold.

Napoleon Lajoie, in his debut against the Senators on August 12, 1896, at Philadelphia, batted fifth, played first base, stole a base on Jim McGuire, took part in a double play and singled once against Win Mercer.

Bill Herman, arriving in fast company as the Cub second baseman against Cincinnati on August 29, 1931, batted only once and singled off Si Johnson. His debut was limited because he was hit by a foul tip and had to retire from the game.

The attendance at Baltimore on April 22, 1914, when Babe Ruth was being unveiled against Buffalo, was only 200, the reason being Federal League competition. Ruth defeated George McConnell, 6 to 0, fanning and walking four and allowing six hits. Paul Krichell, catching for the Bisons, reached Ruth for a double, while Joe McCarthy was not so successful, going 0 for 4. When George Herman played his first game with the Yankees on April 14, 1920, he singled twice off Scott Perry of the A's, but muffed a line fly in the eighth that gave the Mackmen two runs and a 3 to 1 decision.

Bob Ewing, breaking in with the Reds against the Cubs on April 19, 1902, was wild, passing ten Bruins—seven of them in the fifth inning. Gardner defeated him, 9 to 5.

Connie Mack, playing his first game in Hartford with Meriden of the Connecticut State League on May 3, 1884, batted third, singled off Henry Gruber and had nine putouts, three assists and three errors. Possibly two of the black marks came from passed balls. Meriden lost, 4 to 1.

Christy Mathewson had a younger brother, Hank, also a pitcher, who was given a chance by John McGraw to start the final game of the year for the Giants against Boston on October 5, 1905. Hank walked 14, hit a batter and uncoiled a wild pitch. Frank Xavier Pfeffer defeated him,

7 to 1. Previously, Hank had pitched one inning as relief for McGraw, relieving his brother, Christy.

In his first three games with the Red Sox, Thomas (Buck) O'Brien, due to be called Balk O'Brien the following year, did not yield a run in his initial 20 innings. O'Brien began on September 9, 1911, by beating Plank of the A's, 2 to 0; followed with two runless innings as relief for Cicotte against Washington and then conquered Blanding of Cleveland, 3 to 0. Detroit took O'Brien out of the ranks of goose-egg distributors on September 23 in the first inning.

George Livingstone Earnshaw was no glittering success when he did his first pitching for Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles against Toronto on May 7, 1924. He went in against the Leafs in the seventh and quit after pitching to four batters, not one of whom did he retire. Three walked.

William Henry Dinneen did not win a single game in his first season in baseball, with Toronto in 1895, and lost four. In Dinneen's initial appearance, August 27, Ed Crane of Rochester beat him, 3 to 2. Crane and Fred Dunlap were the home run kings of the Union Association in 1884, each with 13.

Mike Gonzalez appeared in the National League for the first time with Boston on September 28, 1912, when he caught Donnelly and McTigue in a seven-inning tie against the Giants, who stole four bases on him. The Senor had four assists, so he must have potted some would-be thief. He made no hits in two attempts against Goulait.

GAME'S FIRST GOLD STAR

Eugene Stack, rookie pitcher on the roster of the Chicago White Sox, brought up from Lubbock of the West Texas-New Mexico League, was the first player on major league rolls to be drafted into the armed forces, January, 1941, and first to die in the service. He was a victim of a heart attack, June 26, 1942, after pitching and losing a 5 to 2 game for Camp Custer.

William John Hebert was the first player to be killed in action, making the supreme sacrifice as a member of the Navy at Guadalcanal in August, 1942. He formerly was with Waterloo, Ogden, Williamston and Merced clubs and was the property of Oakland on entering the service in January, 1942.

Three players were killed in action in World War I—Dan Alderman, March 25, 1918, in France, the first, from the minors; Capt. Eddie Grant, former third baseman of Phillies and Giants, by a German shell in Argonne Forest, October 21, 1918, and John C. Cooper, minor league catcher, in France, September 2, 1918. Pitcher G. M. Milligan of the Pittsburgh Pirates was the first major leaguer to die in the service in previous war, being killed in an airplane crash, September 3, 1918, at Fort Worth, Tex.

TWO LEADERS PLAYED FIRST GAME AT SYRACUSE

Two of the National League's champion batsmen—Willie Keeler and Heinie Zimmerman—played their first professional games in Syracuse, N. Y., but not for the Stars. Keeler, on the Binghamton payroll, broke into Organized Ball in a game in the Salt City on June 6, 1892, as a shortstop, hitting a home run off Bob Barr and drawing a pass. The next day he pitched and was beaten, 9 to 3. Zimmerman, working for Wilkes-Barre, began in Syracuse on August 21, 1906, in a twin-bill, doubling off Lefthander Billy Cristall and accepting 13 out of 14 chances. He played both short and second.

Big Show's .300 Club

ALTHOUGH his batting mark dropped from .406 to .356 in 1942, Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder who went into the armed services last December, maintained his lead in the Major League Lifetime .300 Club with his same .356 figure. Soldier Joe DiMaggio, ex-New York Yankee, dropped off six points, but still held runner-up position at .339. Each circuit has 16 members, with the Brooklyn Dodgers leading all clubs, with five—Paul Waner, Joe Medwick, Pete Reiser, Arky Vaughan and Billy Herman.

Following are the lifetime .300 hitters in the majors after the close of the 1942 season, who have participated in 200 or more games under the Big Tent, with figures taken from the Baseball Register, published by THE SPORTING NEWS:

HIGHS AND LOWS IN WINS AND LOSSES

When the Chicago Cubs set an all-time major league record by winning 116 games in 1906, their mound corps finished the season with the following won-and-lost record: Ed Reulbach, 19 and four; Miner Brown, 26 and six; Carl Lundgren, 17 and six; Jack Pfeister, 20 and eight; Orvie Overall, 16 and eight; and Jack Taylor, 20 and 12. The club fielded .969 and hit for a .262 mark.

Going to the opposite extreme, the Philadelphia Athletics of 1916 set the modern high for setbacks by dropping 117 tilts. Their hurlers posted the following won-and-lost record: Rube Parnham, three and none; Joe Bush, 15 and 24; Elmer Myers, 14 and 24; Johnny Nabors, one and 20; Tom Sheehan, one and 17, and Russell Johnson, two and eight.

Post - Season 1942 Inter-League Series

WAR RESTRICTIONS, including transportation difficulties and dim-out requirements in some areas, brought on a curtailment of annual inter-league series in the minors at the close of the 1942 season. The two oldest post-season clashes—the Junior World's Series and the Dixie Series—went on as usual, but others dropped out of the picture for the time being.

In 1941, the Sally and Southeastern leagues put on a Junior Dixie Series and the Georgia-Florida and Florida State winners staged another inter-loop show for the fans of the deep South. The Virginia and Mountain State loops also tangled for a slice of inter-league supremacy. All of these series bowed out to war conditions in 1942.

TWO PITCHES—TWO CRIPPLED PLAYERS

Andy Coakley, now a New York insurance man who helped Connie Mack out in 1902 while still going to Holy Cross, pitching a few games under the alias of McAllister (the Tall Tactician himself gave Andy that name), probably holds the world's record for crippling batters on successive pitches—inadvertently, of course. As a Redland hurler on June 18, 1907, Coakley, in a game against the Giants, hit Roger Bresnahan on the head and knocked him out, extreme unction being administered to the Rajah as he lay on the bench. When play was resumed Coakley, on his next pitch, broke Dan McGann's right wrist. Bresnahan did not play again until July 12, and then, wearing a helmet, he singled in his first time up against the man who had beamed him.

FRENCH'S TEN-GAME STREAK STOPPED BY WHITE

Ernest White, Cardinal lefthander, whose shutout of the Yankees, October 3, 1942, was their first World's Series whitewash since 1926, turned in an earlier streak-stopping performance during the season. On July 18, at St. Louis, White snapped Larry French's ten-game winning string, defeating the Dodger southpaw, 7 to 4, in the opener of a double-header. French's victory streak was the longest in either circuit.

The Phils had the only double figure losing streak of 1942. They let 13 in a row escape, getting off the toboggan at Shibe Park on September 10 when Tom Hughes acquired a 2 to 1 decision over Lloyd Dietz of Pittsburgh. The game lasted 11 innings. The starting pitchers were Luke Hamlin and John Podjagny.

Hughes brought the winning run over the plate and it was tripled in by Dan Litwhiler.

CHESBRO SET TWO MODERN PITCHING MARKS IN 1904

Happy Jack Chesbro, pitching for the New York Highlanders in 1904, set two modern major league marks by achieving 41 victories and hurling 48 complete games. Chesbro made 51 starts, and was removed only three times. He also appeared in relief roles four times, and thus took part in a total of 55 games.

It was the irony of fate that a wild pitch by Chesbro cost the New Yorkers the pennant that season and made Chesbro, greatest winner in big league history since 1900, one of the foremost "goats" of all time.

Happy Jack pitched magnificently for Clark Griffith, managing the Highlanders in 1904, losing only 12 games, as compared to his 41 victories, for a .774 percentage. In addition, he hurled six shutouts.

Chesbro stands out as the only pitcher who has led each major circuit in won-and-lost percentage. Before topping the American League in 1904, he headed the National League in 1902 when, as a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates, he won 28 and lost only six for an .824 mark.

Happy Jack died on November 6, 1931.

$65-A-MONTH PLAYERS SO GOOD THEY BROKE UP LOOP

Dubuque in 1879 had a club so strong that it broke up the Northwestern League by winning 23 games in a row. Yet no player received more than $65 a month, those remunerated to this extent being two famous Charleys—Radbourne, pitcher, and Comiskey, infielder. Ted Sullivan, managing and catching, drew $85 every 30 days.

HONUS WAGNER AS A PITCHER

John Peter Wagner appeared in at least a portion of one game as a pitcher when he was in the National League. At Boston, September 5, 1902, Manager Fred Clarke of the Pirates, started a young architect from Millvale, Pa., named Cushman, against the Beaneaters and extracted him in the second inning, when he had passed nine men and made two wild pitches. Then Wagner took over. He walked two men and released four wild pitches. Honus' fielding record as a pitcher consisted of one assist.

WHO HOLDS HOME-RUN RECORD FOR PITCHERS?

Here's a puzzle for the experts: Do Hal Schumacher of the Giants and Jim Tobin of the Braves hold the home-run record for pitchers in the National League? Hal hit six in 1934 and Jim the same number in 1942.

In 1889, Addison Gumbert of Anson's Chicago White Stockings hit seven home runs, two of them while he was playing the outfield.

Here is the record of Gumbert's home runs in 1889:

May 2—Off Burdick of Indianapolis.

May 9—Off Conway of Pittsburgh. Played outfield.

May 10—Off Staley of Pittsburgh.

May 23—Off Hatfield of New York.

June 4—Off Beatin of Cleveland.

June 6—Off Getzein of Indianapolis.

July 25—Off Getzein of Indianapolis. Played outfield.

"FUNGO" DATES BACK TO 1867

A quaint glossary of diamond terms in Haney's "Book of Reference" by Henry Chadwick, published in 1867, defined "fungoes" as follows: "A preliminary practice game in which one player takes the bat and tossing the ball up hits it as it falls, and if the ball is caught in the field, on the fly, the player catching it takes the bat. It is useless as practice in batting, but good for taking fly balls." Possibly the modern meaning of "fungo" was derived from Chadwick's early-day definition. As used now, the term means balls batted to outfielders in fielding practice prior to the start of a game.

TERM "BULLPEN" INSPIRED BY TOBACCO SIGN

A number of explanations have been advanced for the origin of the term "bullpen," as applied to the place where pitchers and catchers warm up during the progress of a game. However, the most widely accepted explanation is that batterymen, during earlier days, often went to warm up near the Bull Durham tobacco sign that formerly adorned the fences in many ball parks. Hence, this spot became known as the "bullpen."

HOAG LAST TO FILL IN FOR RUTH IN A. L.

When Babe Ruth wound up his career in the American League in 1934, it was Myril Hoag, outfielder, now with Uncle Sam's forces, who relieved him in the pasture, not only in Ruth's last game at Yankee Stadium, but in his final appearance in the circuit at Washington.

The Bambino drew a walk and then retired in favor of Hoag, because of a Charley horse, in the first inning of the September 24 game with Boston at Yankee Stadium. Six days later, the Bambino bowed out of the American League by going hitless in three trips against Washington, then giving way to Hoag.

The next season, Ruth wore the regalia of the Boston Braves for about six weeks, quitting the game early in June.

GREAT HITTERS BREAK IN SAME DAY

Buck Ewing and Dan Brouthers, two great hitters of all time, broke into the National League on the same day—at Troy on September 9, 1880. Brouthers failed to get a safety off John Montgomery Ward of Providence, but Ewing reached him for a single. The Trojans, with Tim Keefe pitching, were beaten, 1 to 0.

N. L. BORN DURING GRANT'S PRESIDENCY

General U. S. Grant was President of the United States when the National League was born in 1876, while William B. McKinley was in the White House in 1900 when Ban Johnson organized the American League. Both Grant and McKinley were Republicans.

The short-lived Union Association of 1884 operated during the presidency of Chester A. Arthur and the Brotherhood (Players' League) lasted only in 1890, while Benjamin Harrison was the nation's chief executive.

The last attempt to place a third major league in action—the Federal League of 1914-15, came during the Woodrow Wilson presidential term.

ONE WALK IN EVERY FOUR TIMES AT BAT

In 1923, when Babe Ruth batted .393 for the highest average of his career and won the American League's most valuable player award, he was so feared by opposing pitchers that he drew 170 passes—a major league record. As Ruth was officially charged with only 522 times at bat, he walked about once in every four trips to the plate.

GETZEIN BLANKED NINE CLUBS IN SEASON

When Charles Getzein was in the Northwestern League at Grand Rapids in 1884, he blanked nine clubs, missing only Peoria and Saginaw, and having a total of 11 kalsominings. John Clarkson, at Saginaw, issued ten sets of ciphers to seven clubs. Both were teammates later at Boston.

The Northwestern was a 12-club circuit that year and had 13 teams during the season, for Stillwater came in to replace a member that dropped out.

TED LYONS FINISHED HIS LAST 23 STARTS

Ted Lyons, White Sox veteran, took with him into the armed forces a record of completing his last 23 starts—three in 1941 and 20 in 1942.

The last game Lyons failed to finish was on August 31, 1941, when the Browns shelled Ted from the mound at St. Louis, reaching him for 15 hits and 12 runs in seven innings and winning over him, 12 to 8.

OFFICIAL PLAYING RULES OF Professional Base Ball Clubs

As adopted at the meeting of the Joint Playing Rules Committee of the National League and the American League, held at National League Headquarters, New York City, March 2, 1904. Amended February 14, 1906; February 25, 1907; February 27, 1908; February 17, 1909; January 24, 1910; February 13, 1914; February 13, 1916; February 10, 1920; February 23, 1921; January 29-30, 1926; December 12, 1930, by the National Joint Rules Committee of Professional Base Ball; December 15, 1938; February 12-13, 1940.

Official text of the rules printed in large type. Explanatory notes in smaller type.

The Ball Ground.

RULE 1 The ball ground must be enclosed. To obviate the necessity for ground rules, the shortest distance from a fence or stand on fair territory to the home base should be 250 feet and from home base to the grand stand sixty (60) feet.

Enclosure applies to professional leagues, but many leagues have eliminated the ground rule where the stands are less than 60 feet distant and rule ball in play.

To Lay Off the Field.

RULE 2 To lay off the lines defining the location of the several bases, the catcher's and the pitcher's position and to establish the boundaries required in playing the game of base ball, proceed as follows:

Diamond or Infield.

From a point, A, within the grounds, project a point, B, 124 feet from point A, lay off lines B C and B D at right angles to the line A B; then, with B as a center and 63.63945 feet as a radius, describe arcs cutting the lines B A at F and B C at G, B D at H and B E at I. Draw lines F G, G I, I H, and H F, each 90 feet in length, which said lines shall be the containing lines of the Diamond or Infield.

Publisher's Note

When the American Sports Publishing Company was taken over by A. S. Barnes & Co., and the latter decided to forego publishing the Spalding-Reach Guide, THE SPORTING NEWS was given an opportunity to purchase the plates covering the official rules and their interpretations by the late John B. Foster, noted authority on rules. Following the meeting of the rules committee at Belleair, Fla., February 12-13, 1940, numerous changes in the playing code were made.

It since has become apparent that along with the development of the game different interpretations were necessary, and, as a result, the notes explaining the rules have been completely revamped by Edgar G. Brands, editor of THE SPORTING NEWS, since 1930. As editor of THE SPORTING NEWS, Brands sat in at the meetings of the rules committee at Belleair, and, in answering questions on the rules, from all parts of the world, he has been in closer touch, the year around, with the problems developing on the diamond than any other man.

The opinions of men will always vary, according to Brands, who declares there are no hard and fast rules with respect to interpretations of the playing code. Brands believes, however, the explanations accompanying the official rules are sound and will help to clarify some of the moot points that have been raised. The explanatory notes are fully protected by copyright and must not be republished without permission.

In laying out a baseball field, proceed as follows:

With a steel tape-measure lay out the base lines and place the home plate and the pitcher's box as shown in the diagram on Page 276. If it is possible to do so, have the home plate due north and the pitcher's plate due south.

Remove the sod from the base lines between the home plate and first and third bases; also from first base to second base and from second base to third base. The sod may be removed from around the pitcher's plate. Fill in the base lines and the ground around the pitcher's plate if the sod is removed.

Mark lines of batsman's box, on each side of home plate, with white-wash, chalk or similar substance. Also foul lines, 3 inches wide, from home plate to first base and from home plate to third base, continuing out into the field beyond first and third bases.

Distance from home base to first base, 90 feet; from first base to second base, 90 feet; from second base to third base, 90 feet, and from third base to home plate, 90 feet. Total distance around the bases, 360 feet.

Distance from point of home plate to pitcher's slab, 60 feet 6 inches. Distance is measured from point of home plate, where the base lines intersect, and not from the front part of the plate.

Distance across diamond, from home plate to second base, 127 feet $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches; from first base, across diamond, to third base, the same.

Size of batsman's box, 6 feet by 4 feet.

Size of pitcher's plate, 24 inches by 6 inches.

Size of base bags, 15 inches square.

Home plate, 1 foot square, with the corners filled in on the portion facing the pitcher, where it will measure 17 inches across.

Where space is limited, the official rules specify that the shortest distance from home plate to a fence or stand in fair territory should be 250 feet and from home plate to grandstand, 60 feet.

A simple method of laying out a ball field with a piece of cord is as follows:

First—Get a piece of rope or cord, with no stretch in it. Second—Measure off the following distances and make a knot at each distance: 60 feet 6 inches—90 feet—127 feet $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches—180 feet. Third—Decide upon the location of home plate (north and south is preferable, to avoid the sun in the fielder's eyes); fasten the rope end to a peg at home and walk straight to full length of rope: 60 feet 6 inches will be the pitcher's slab; 127 feet $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches will be second base; put in spikes to mark same. Next fasten the knot at 180 feet at second; grasp knot at 90 feet and walk out to right of home until the rope is tight at all points; this will be first base; go to the left in same manner and you will have third base. This can be done in less than ten minutes. This method is good for use at picnics, outings or similar events.

OFFICIAL DIMENSIONS OF DIAMONDS FOR BOYS UNDER SIXTEEN YEARS OF AGE.

Distances between bases, 82 feet; home plate to second base, 115 feet $11\frac{1}{2}$ inches; same distance across diamond from first base to third base; home plate to pitcher's plate, 50 feet.

The Catcher's Lines.

RULE 3 SECTION 1. With F as a center and 10 feet radius, describe an arc cutting line F A at Z and draw lines Z J and Z K at right angles to F A, and continue each out from F A not less than 10 feet.

SEC. 2. With F as a center and 60 feet radius, describe an arc cutting F A at L and draw lines L M and L O at right angles to F A, and continue each out from F L not less than 60 feet, to form the back stop line.

The Foul Lines.

RULE 4 From the intersection point, F, continue the straight lines G F and H F until they intersect the lines L O and L M, and then from the points G and H in the opposite direction until they reach the boundary lines of the ground and not less than 10 feet above the top of fence or stand; and said lines, not less than 3 inches wide, shall be made, on the playing field, of lime, whiting, chalk or other powder or paint.

The Player's Lines.

RULE 5 With F as center and 50 feet radius, describe arcs cutting lines F O and F M at P and Q; then, with F as center again and 75 feet radius, describe arcs cutting F G and F H at R and S; then, from the points P, Q, R and S draw lines at right angles to the lines F O, F M, F G and F H, and continue the same until they intersect at the points W and T.

The Coachers' Lines.

RULE 6 With R and S as centers and 15 feet radius, describe arcs cutting the lines R W and S T at X and Y, and from the points X and Y draw lines parallel with the lines F G and F H and continue same out 15 feet to an extension of lines I G and I H, respectively.

Coachers are obliged to stay within the confines of the coacher's box, which as will be noted on the diagram (Page 276), does not permit them to go nearer than 15 feet to the base lines.

Coachers may not go beyond an extension of the base lines running between first and second bases and between second and third bases. This keeps them completely out of outfield territory. Not more than two coachers may be on the field at the same time—one in each coacher's box.

The Three-Foot Lines.

RULE 7 With F as a center and 45 feet radius, describe an arc cutting the line F G at the figure one (1) and from the figure one (1) to the distance of three feet draw a line at right angles to F G, and mark point 2; then from point 2 draw a line parallel with the line F G to a point three feet beyond the point G, marked 3; then from the point 3 draw a line at right angles to line 2, 3, back to and intersecting with F G.

The Batsman's Lines.

RULE 8 On either side of the line A F B describe a rectangle 6 feet long and 4 feet wide (marked 9 and 10, respectively). The longest side of each rectangle shall be parallel with the line A F B and the rectangles shall be 29 inches apart or $14\frac{1}{2}$ inches on either side of line A F B. The middle of the long side of each rectangle shall be on a line with the middle corners of home base.

See enlarged section of diagram of field (Page 276), showing position of home plate and batsman's box.

If it is not possible to outline a "box" it should be remembered that the batter is never allowed to step over home plate to strike at the ball, and that he must not run forward toward the pitcher, to exceed three feet from the center of the plate, to strike at the ball.

The Pitcher's Plate.

RULE 9 SECTION 1. From point F measure along line F E a distance of 60 feet 6 inches to point 4, which marks the front of the pitcher's plate. Draw a line 5, 6, passing through point 4 at right angles to F4, and extending 12 inches on either side of line F B; then with line 5, 6, as a side, describe a rectangle 24 inches by 6 inches in which shall be placed the pitcher's plate.

SEC. 2. The pitcher's plate shall not be more than 15 inches higher than the base lines or the home plate, which shall be level with the surface of the field, and the slope from the pitcher's plate to every base line and the home plate shall be gradual.

The Bases.

RULE 10 SECTION 1. Within the angle F, describe a five-sided figure, two of the sides of which shall coincide with the lines F G and F H to the extent of 12 inches each, thence parallel with the line F B $8\frac{1}{2}$ inches to the points U and V a straight line between which, 17 inches long, will form the front of the home base or plate.

SEC. 2. Within the angles at G and H describe squares, whose sides are 15 inches in length, two of the sides of which squares shall lie along the lines F G and G I, I H and H F, which squares shall be the location of the first and third bases, respectively. At point I, the intersection of G I and H I, describe a square 15 inches on each side, the center of which is directly over point I and whose sides are parallel to G I and H I. This shall locate second base.

Home Base and Pitcher's Plate Must Be of Rubber.

RULE 11 The home base at F and the pitcher's plate at 4 must be each of whitened rubber, and so fixed in the ground as to be even with its surface. The size of the pitcher's plate shall be 24 inches by 6 inches.

See enlarged section on diagram of field (Page 276), showing position of home plate.

Bases of White Canvas.

RULE 12 The first base at G, the second base at I and the third base at H must each be a white canvas bag, 15 inches square and not less than 3 nor more than 5 inches in thickness, filled with soft material and securely fastened in place at the points specified in Rule 10.

The bases, except home plate, are best constructed of canvas bags filled with sawdust. Home plate should be of whitened rubber, whenever it is possible to obtain it. Some cruder substance may be used for bases if nothing else is obtainable, but it is best to follow the suggestions given. First, second and third bases should be attached to pegs driven in the ground, and home plate should be sunk so that its upper surface is on a level with the surface of the ground. Bases must not be less than 3 nor more than 5 inches thick.

White Lines to Designate Playing Field.

RULE 13 The lines described in Rules 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 must be marked with lime, chalk or other white material, easily distinguishable from the ground or grass.

Rules 2 to 13, inclusive, describe mathematically how to lay out a diamond for professional contests. For schoolboys, the National Joint Rules Committee recommends a smaller size diamond. Semi-professional and independent games are played on diamonds of the regulation size.

The Ball.

RULE 14 SECTION 1. The ball must weigh not less than 5 nor more than $5\frac{1}{4}$ ounces avoirdupois, and measure not less than 9 nor more than $9\frac{1}{4}$ inches in circumference. The Spalding National League Ball is used in the National League and the Reach American League Ball is used in the American League.

SEC. 2. The president of the league of which the contesting clubs are members shall specify the number of base balls which the home club must deliver to the umpire prior to the hour set for the commencement of a championship game, and all of such base balls shall be of the regulation make adopted by the said league. If the ball placed in play be batted or thrown out of the grounds or into one of the stands for spectators, or in the judgment of the umpire becomes unfit for play from any cause, the umpire shall at once deliver an alternate ball to the pitcher and another legal ball shall be supplied to him, so that he shall at all times have in his control one or more alternate balls. Provided, however, that all balls batted or thrown out of the ground or into a stand shall when returned to the field be given into the custody of the umpire immediately and become alternate balls, and so long as he has in his possession two or more alternate balls he shall not call for a new ball to replace one that has gone out of play. The alternate balls shall become the ball in play in the order in which they were delivered to the umpire.

SEC. 3. Immediately upon the delivery to him of an alternate ball by the umpire, the pitcher shall take his position and on the call of "Play," by the umpire, it shall become the ball in play. Provided, however, that play shall not be resumed with an alternate ball when a fair batted ball or ball thrown by a fielder goes out of the ground or into a stand for spectators until the base-runners have completed the circuit of the bases unless compelled to stop at second or third base in compliance with a ground rule.

Discolored or Damaged Balls.

SEC. 4. In event of the ball being intentionally discolored by any player, either by rubbing it with the soil, or by applying rosin, paraffin, licorice, or any other foreign substance to it, or otherwise intentionally damaging or roughening the same with sand-paper or emery-paper or other substance, the umpire shall forthwith demand the return of that ball, and substitute for it another legal ball, and the offending player shall be debarred from further participation in the game. If, however, the umpire cannot detect the violator of this rule, and the ball is delivered to the bat by the pitcher, then the latter shall be removed at once from the game, and as an additional penalty shall be automatically suspended for a period of ten days. See Rule 27, Section 2.

Rosin or soil is allowed to aid the pitcher in controlling the ball, but not for the purpose of discoloring same.

Home Club to Provide Balls.

SEC. 5. In every game the balls played with shall be furnished by the home club (as provided in Sec. 2, Rule 14), and the last in play shall become the property of the winning club. Each ball shall be enclosed in a paper box, which must be sealed with the seal of the president of the league and bear his certificate that the ball contained therein is of the required standard in all respects. The seal shall not be broken by the umpire except prior to game time, and for the purpose of inspecting the ball and removing the gloss therefrom.

If, in the judgment of any league president, it shall be advisable to use balls that have been used but which are in good condition, such balls must be delivered by the home club to the umpire prior to the game. If, in the judgment of the umpire, any such balls are unfit they shall be rejected. No ball shall be legal that has not been accepted by the umpire as in good condition.

Reserve Balls on Field.

SEC. 6. The home club shall have at least a dozen regulation balls on the field during each championship game, ready for use on the call of the umpire.

The president of the league shall determine the number of baseballs which the home club must deliver to the umpire. This is far more to the purpose than the old method by which the home club was presumed to give two baseballs of regulation make to the umpire. The umpire in major league games has at his command all of the baseballs necessary to continue the game, no matter what total. In amateur baseball it is still customary to give the umpire two new baseballs.

As will be noted, Section 4 of this rule is ironclad in its punishment for discoloring or damaging the ball.

Section 5 of Rule 14 is self-explanatory. The umpire breaks the seal of the box containing the baseballs prior to the game for the purpose of inspecting the ball and removing the gloss from its surface.

It is customary for the home team to provide baseballs in amateur games as well as in professional games. The umpire has the custody of the ball when it is not in play, but at the completion of the game the last ball in play goes to the winning team.

The Bat.

RULE 15 The bat must be round, not over two and three-fourths inches in diameter at the thickest part, nor more than 42 inches in length, and entirely of hardwood in one piece. Twine may be wound around it or a granulated substance applied to it for a distance of 18 inches from the end of the handle, but not elsewhere.

Note that the bat must be one piece and entirely of hardwood. A bat loaded with a metal filling is not legal.

Number of Players in a Game.

RULE 16 The players of each team actively engaged in a game at one time, shall be nine in number, one of whom may act as captain. In no case shall more or less than nine men on each team be allowed to play at one time as regular players, substitutes to become regulars, and regulars to be eliminated when so specified to the umpire by captains or managers.

This rule always is to be observed.

Substitutes

RULE 17 SECTION 1. Each club shall be required to have present on the field during a championship game a sufficient number of substitute players in uniform conforming to the suits worn by their team-mates, to carry out the provisions of this code, which requires that not less than nine (9) players shall occupy the field in any inning of the game.

SEC. 2. Any such substitute at any stage of the game, except when the ball is in play, may take the place of a player whose name is in his team's batting order, but the player whom he succeeds shall not thereafter participate in that game.

SEC. 3. A base-runner shall not have another player whose name appears in the batting order of his team run for him except by the consent of the manager or captain of the other team.

SEC. 4. In event of the pitcher being taken from his pitching position by either manager or captain, the player substituted for him shall continue to pitch until the batsman then at bat has either been put out or has reached first base, or the side has been retired.

SEC. 5. When the umpire announces the pitcher prior to commencement of game, the player announced must pitch until the first batsman has either been put out or has reached first base.

SEC. 6. Whenever one player is substituted for another, whether as batsman, base-runner, or fielder, the manager or captain of the team making the change must immediately notify the umpire. The manager or captain shall state where the substitute shall take his place in the batting order. A fine of $25 shall be assessed by the umpire against the manager or captain for each violation of the rule, and the president of the league shall impose a similar fine against the umpire, who, after having been notified of a change, fails to have proper announcement made to the spectators. Provided, however, that if through oversight, such announcement is not made, the substitute player will be considered as in the game, as follows:

- (1) If a pitcher, when he takes his place on the pitcher's plate;
- (2) If a batter, when he takes his place in the batsman's box;
- (3) If a fielder, when he takes the place of the fielder substituted for;
- (4) If a runner, when the substitute replaces him on the base he is holding; and any play made by or on such unannounced substitute shall be legal under these rules.

It is always advisable to have a sufficient number of substitutes in uniform ready to take the field in case any player shall become disabled or be disqualified.

It is possible to substitute a fielder for the pitcher and place the pitcher in the fielder's position, or in some other position, and later return the pitcher to his position if the captain of the team so desires, provided the pitcher remains in the game. If the captain of the team in the field agrees to permit another player to run for the batter, after the latter has reached first base, and agrees to permit the batter to play as a fielder when the team at bat returns to the field, there is no objection.

It is the duty of the manager or captain of each team immediately to announce changes of players to the umpire, and the umpire shall announce them to the opposing team and spectators.

If the substitute takes the proper position assigned to him, any play which he makes is legal, in spite of the fact that the umpire may not have been notified and may not have made announcement of the substitution. Neglect by a captain is not allowed to affect actual field work.

Penalties which are provided in fines apply solely to professional baseball.

Positions of the Players.

RULE 18 SECTION 1. The players of the team not at bat may be stationed at any points of the field on fair ground their captain may elect, regardless of their respective positions, except that the pitcher, while in the act of delivering the ball to the bat, must take his position as defined in Rules 9 and 27.

SEC. 2. No player of the team "at bat," except the batsman, shall occupy any portion of the space within the catcher's lines as defined in Rule 3. The triangular space back of the home base is reserved for exclusive use of the umpire, catcher and batsman, and the umpire must prohibit any player of the team "at bat" from crossing the same at any time while the ball is in the hands of the pitcher or catcher, or passing between them while standing in their positions.

SEC. 3. The players or coaches of the team at bat must immediately vacate any space occupied by them if it is needed by a fielder attempting to handle a batted or thrown ball.

Two teams make up each contest, with nine players on each. The fielders are known as the pitcher, catcher, the first baseman, the second baseman, the third baseman, the shortstop, the left fielder, the center fielder and the right fielder. None of these is required to occupy an exact position on the field, except the pitcher, who must stand with one foot touching the pitcher's rubber when in the act of delivering the ball to the batter.

Players are cautioned against the habit of infringing upon the space within the catcher's lines and batsmen against leaving the bench before it is their turn to do so. Games expedited by being played with alertness and energy are desirable, but the rules should not be violated for speed. Moreover, too much speed makes it appear at times as if the player cared little for the game. This refers more to the professional than to the amateur player.

Players and coaches must make room for fielders trying for all fielding plays.

Must Not Mingle With Spectators.

RULE 19 Players in uniform shall not be permitted to occupy seats in the stands, nor to mingle with the spectators. No Manager, Captain, Coach or Player shall address the spectators during a game except in reply to a request for information about the progress or state of the game, or to give the name of a player.

In American League when players approach stands to converse with spectators, umpires report to league headquarters the name of any player violating this rule and a fine of $5.00 is imposed. If the offense is repeated the fine is doubled. National League permits talking to spectators, but not fraternizing with opposing players.

Uniforms of Players.

RULE 20 Every club shall adopt two uniforms for its players, one to be worn in games at home and the other in games abroad, and the suits of each of the uniforms of a team shall conform in color and style. No player who shall attach anything to the sole or heel of his shoe other than the ordinary base ball shoe plate, or who shall appear in a uniform not conforming to the suits of the other members of his team, shall be permitted to take part in a game. Glass buttons or polished metal must not be used on a uniform.

In professional leagues the home uniform is usually white and the traveling uniform of gray or some darker color.

No exception is to be made regarding attaching a foreign substance to the shoe.

Note restrictions about glass buttons and polished metal on uniforms.

Size and Weight of Gloves.

RULE 21 The catcher may wear a leather glove or mitt of any size, shape or weight.

The first baseman may wear a leather glove or mitt not more than 12 inches long from top to bottom and not more than 8 inches wide across the palm, with thumb and palm connected by leather lacing of not more than 4 inches from thumb to palm, which lacing shall not be enlarged, extended or reinforced by any process or material whatever.

Every other player is restricted to the use of a leather glove weighing not over 10 ounces and measuring not over 14 inches around the palm. The pitcher's glove must be uniform in color.

It is imperative that the pitcher's glove be uniform in color, in order to prevent a distracting confusion of colors as the pitcher delivers the ball.

Players' Benches.

RULE 22 SECTION 1. Players' benches must be furnished by the home club and placed upon a portion of the ground not less than twenty-five (25) feet outside of the players' lines. One such bench shall be for the exclusive use of the visiting team and the other for the exclusive use of the home team. Each bench must be covered with a roof and closed at the back and each end; a space, however, not more than six (6) inches wide may be left under the roof for ventilation. All players and substitutes of the team at bat must be seated on their bench, and remain there until their team has been retired, except the batsman, base-runners and such others as are legally assigned to coach base-runners. Under no circumstances shall the umpire permit any person except the players and substitutes in uniform, coaches in uniform, trainer, and the manager of the team entitled to its exclusive use to be seated on a bench.

Player next at bat should be in batting circle with bat.

Penalty for Violation.

SEC. 2. Whenever the umpire observes a violation of the preceding section, he shall immediately order such player or players as have disregarded it to be seated. If the order be not obeyed within one minute the offending player or players shall be fined $5.00 each by the umpire. If the order be not then obeyed within one minute, the offending player or players shall be debarred from further participation in the game, and shall be obliged to leave the playing field forthwith.

All ball grounds should be provided with two players' benches back of the base lines, one on each side of the home plate. They must be not less than twenty-five feet outside of the coaches' lines. Each team should occupy one of these benches exclusively, and their bats and accoutrements should be kept near the bench, and the players should remain on the benches.

Money penalties provided for in Sec. 2 apply to professionals.

A Regulation Game.

RULE 23 SECTION 1. It is a regulation game if the team second at bat scores more runs in eight (8) innings than the team first at bat has scored in nine (9) innings.

SEC. 2. It is a regulation game if the team last at bat in the ninth inning scores the winning run before the third man is out. If a batsman in the last half of the final inning of any game hits a home run over the fence or into a stand, all runners on bases at the time, as well as the batsman, shall be entitled to score, but to score legally all bases must be touched in order by all runners. The final score of such game shall be the total number of runs made by each team.

SEC. 3. It is a regulation game if it be called by the umpire on account of darkness, rain, or other cause which in the umpire's judgment interferes with further play, provided five or more equal innings have been played; or if the team second at bat shall have made more runs at the end of its fourth inning, or before the completion of its fifth inning, than the team first at bat has made in five completed innings.

SEC. 4. If the score be a tie at the end of nine (9) innings for each team, play shall be continued until one team has scored more runs than the other in an equal number of innings; provided, that if the team last at bat scores the winning run before the third man is out in any inning after the ninth, the game shall terminate and be a regulation game.

SEC. 5. A regulation drawn game shall be declared by the umpire if the score is equal on the last even inning played, when he terminates play in accordance with Section 3 of this rule after each team has played five (5) or more equal innings. If the team that went second to bat is at bat when the game is terminated, and has scored in the incompleted inning the same number of runs as the other team, the umpire shall declare the game drawn without regard to the score of the last equal inning. If the team last at bat shall, before the completion of its fifth inning, equal the score made by the opposing team in five (5) complete innings, the game shall be declared legally drawn, and all individual and team averages shall be incorporated in the official playing records.

SEC. 6. It shall be a regulation game if at any time after five (5) innings have been completed, the umpire shall call it in accordance with Section 3 of this rule, and the score shall be that of the last equal innings played; except that if the team second at bat shall have scored in an unequal number of innings more runs than the team first at bat, or if the team second at bat is at bat when the game is called, and has scored in the incompleted inning the same number of runs, or at least one run more, than the team first at bat, the score of the game shall be the total number of runs that each team has made.

SEC. 7. Whenever two games are scheduled to be played in one afternoon, the first game shall be the regularly appointed game for that day. If games are scheduled for morning and afternoon, and it is agreed to play both games in the afternoon, the first game shall be that which was originally scheduled to be played in the afternoon. No club or clubs shall engage in more than two championship games within a period of one day.

SEC. 8. No inning of any night game shall be started after 12:50 a. m. War Time. The foregoing sections of this rule shall be subject to this provision.

Forfeited Games.

RULE 24 A forfeited game shall be declared by the umpire in favor of the club not in fault, and the score shall be recorded as 9 to 0, in the following cases:

SECTION 1. If the team of a club fail to appear upon the field, or being upon the field, refuse to begin a game for which it is scheduled or assigned, within five minutes after the umpire has called "Play" at the hour for the beginning of the game, unless such delay in appearing, or in commencing the game be unavoidable.

SEC. 2. If, after the game has begun, one team refuse to continue to play, unless the game has been suspended or terminated by the umpire.

SEC. 3. If, after play has been suspended by the umpire, one team fails to resume playing in one minute after the umpire has called "Play."

SEC. 4. If a team employ tactics palpably designed to delay or shorten the game.

SEC. 5. If, after warning by the umpire, any one of the rules of the game be wilfully and persistently violated.

SEC. 6. If the order for the removal of a player, as authorized by Rules 14, 19, 30, 51 and 60, be not obeyed within one minute.

SEC. 7. If, because of the removal of players from the game by the umpire, or for any cause, there be less than nine players on either team.

SEC. 8. If, after the game has been suspended, the orders of the umpire are not complied with as required by Rule 26.

SEC. 9. If, when two games are scheduled to be played in one afternoon, the second game shall not be commenced within twenty minutes after the completion of the first game. The umpire of the first game shall be the timekeeper.

SEC. 10. In case the umpire declare the game forfeited he shall transmit a written report thereof to the president of the league within twenty-four hours thereafter. However, a failure on the part of the umpire to notify the president shall not affect the validity of his award of the game by forfeiture.

SEC. 11. In a regulation game which the umpire shall declare forfeited after four and one-half innings have been played, all individual and team averages shall be incorporated in the official playing records, except that no pitcher shall be credited with a victory or charged with a loss in said game.

It is true that all the sections of this rule are not observed to the exactness of a second, nor even a minute, but the intention of the rulemakers is to provide a penalty which can be enforced for any violation of unsportsmanlike delay if the umpire feels it within his judgment to act. Section 1 is to provide for wilful absence from the field; Section 2 means exactly what it says, and any umpire should never hesitate to enforce it. An umpire can forfeit a game under Section 3, under Section 4, and under Section 5, but umpires do not always use a stopwatch. There have been times perhaps when it would have been better had they done so. Section 6 is violated frequently in the spirit if not the letter, yet after one minute has elapsed the umpire has it within his power to act at once. No game can be played with fewer than nine players on a team (Section 7). Section 8 is enforceable in amateur games, while Sections 9 and 10 apply more to professional games governed by organized leagues.

No Game.

RULE 25 "No game" shall be declared by the umpire if he terminates play in accordance with Rule 23, Section 3, before five (5) innings have been completed by each team; but if the team last at bat is at bat in the last half of the fifth inning and has equaled before the completion of that inning the score of the team first at bat, the umpire shall declare the game "legally drawn" in accordance with Rule 23, Section 5. If the team second at bat shall have made more runs at the end of its fourth inning, or before the completion of its fifth inning, than the team first at bat has made in five (5) completed innings of a game so terminated, the umpire shall award the game to the team having made the greater number of runs, and it shall count as a legal game in the championship record.

This rule provides explicitly that if the team second at bat has more runs at the end of the fourth inning than the team first at bat has made at the end of its completed half of the fifth inning, the team second at bat wins. An added phrase provides a legal definition of victory if team second at bat is in the lead and the game is terminated before the fifth inning is completed.

Choice of Innings—Fitness of Field for Play.

RULE 26 The choice of innings shall be given to the manager or captain of the home team, who shall be the sole judge of the fitness of the ground for beginning a game; but, after play has been called by the umpire, the latter alone shall be the judge as to the fitness of the ground for resuming play after the game has been suspended, and when time is so called the groundkeeper and sufficient assistants shall be under the control of the umpire for the purpose of putting the ground in proper condition for play, under penalty of forfeiture of the game by the home team.

Umpires are the sole judges as to the fitness of the playing field for starting the second game of a double-header. This rule applies to any advertised double-header with one admission. Twilight and night games come under the ruling, unless they are distinct contests, such as are morning and afternoon games.

THE PITCHING RULES.

Delivery of the Ball to the Bat.

RULE 27 SECTION 1. Preliminary to pitching, the pitcher shall take his position facing the batsman with his pivot foot always on or in front of and in contact with the pitcher's plate. In the act of delivering the ball to the batsman, the pitcher's other foot is free, except that he cannot step to either side of the pitcher's plate. He shall not raise either foot until in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman, or in throwing to a base. With a runner on first or second base, the pitcher must face the batsman with both hands holding the ball in front of him. If he raises his arms above his head or out in front, he must return to a natural pitcher's position and stop before starting his delivery of the ball to the batsman.

NOTE—After pitcher takes legal position for delivery of ball to batsman, he may take one step backward and one step forward, but not to either side.

SEC. 2. At no time during the progress of the game shall the pitcher be allowed to (1) apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball; (2) expectorate either on the ball or his glove; (3) rub the ball on his glove, person or clothing; (4) deface the ball in any manner; or to deliver what is called the "shine" ball, "spit" ball, "mud" ball or "emery" ball. For violation of any part of this rule the umpire shall at once order the pitcher from the game, and in addition he shall be automatically suspended for a period of ten days, on notice from the president of the league. Provided that, under the supervision and control of the umpire, the pitcher may use to dry his hands a small, finely meshed sealed bag containing powdered rosin, furnished by the league.

Young pitchers should take strict notice of Section 1 of this rule in order that they may not acquire an illegal delivery, which results in balking. The pitcher must keep his pivot foot in contact with the rubber when he delivers the ball to the batter. His other foot is free and he may take one step backward and one step forward, but not to either side, when delivering the ball. The pitcher must not raise his foot and wheel suddenly and throw to a base, unless he takes one step directly toward that base. He must also, when runners are on base, avoid committing a balk as defined in the several sections of Rule 31.

Section 2 was adopted in 1920. It is the rule which pronounced the doom of the freak pitching deliveries that had crept into baseball from time to time. Young pitchers should specially take cognizance of this section. Freak deliveries are of no assistance to pitchers, because they are liable to suspension at any time if the umpire decides that the rule has been violated. A penalty of that severity makes it absurd for a beginner anxious to learn to pitch to waste his time on anything except straight baseball, which it is desirable to encourage. The rosin bag is solely to aid the pitcher to dry his hands.

With runners on the bases, pitchers seek to gain an advantage by delivering the ball to the batsman, without returning to a normal pitching position. In other words, they do not pause or hesitate as required by the rule. This has a tendency to hold the runners more closely to the bases and adds to the deception of the pitcher's assortment of stuff.

The rule states with a runner on first or second base, if the pitcher raises his arms above his head or out in front, he must return to a normal pitching position and STOP before starting his delivery to the batsman. Pitchers are constantly seeking to beat this rule by delivering the ball to the batsman with one continuous motion, rather than coming to a definite pause in the delivery on reaching the normal pitching position. The penalty is a balk, if pitcher does not come to full stop.

A Fairly Delivered Ball.

RULE 28 SECTION 1. A fairly delivered ball is a ball pitched or thrown to the bat by the pitcher while standing in his position and facing the batsman that passes over any portion of the home base, before touching the ground, not lower than the batsman's knees, nor higher than his shoulder. For every such fairly delivered ball the umpire shall call one strike.

SEC. 2. If, with no one on base, the pitcher deliver the ball while off the pitcher's plate, and the batsman strike at such illegally delivered ball, it counts either as a strike or whatever play may follow.

The first section refers, of course, to when the batsman does not attempt to strike at a fairly delivered ball. When the batsman swings at a pitched ball, fairly or unfairly delivered, it is automatically a strike under most conditions and must be called by the umpire.

An Unfairly Delivered Ball.

RULE 29 An unfairly delivered ball is a ball delivered to the bat by the pitcher while standing in his position and facing the batsman that does not pass over any portion of the home base between the batsman's shoulder and knees, or that touches the ground before passing home base, unless struck at by the batsman, except as provided for in Section 4 of Rule 46; or, with the bases unoccupied, any ball delivered by the pitcher while no foot is in contact with the pitcher's plate, unless struck at by the batsman. For every unfairly delivered ball the umpire shall call one ball.

Note that if a ball touches the ground before passing home plate it is a ball, provided it does not later hit the batsman. In other words, if it strikes the ground and goes on its way, it is a ball. However, if such a pitch after striking the ground, should then hit the batsman, he would be entitled to first base on being hit by a pitched ball. If he elects to strike at it whatever happens is legal.

There are three possibilities that can arise from an unfairly delivered ball that results from a pitcher not having his pivot foot in contact with the rubber when he delivers it. For such an unfairly delivered ball, if there are no runners on the bases, the umpire shall rule it a ball, even though it passed over the heart of the plate within the strike zone, unless the batsman should strike at it. If the batsman so elects, it counts as a strike or whatever play may follow. With a runner or runners on the bases, such a delivered ball becomes a balk.

Delaying the Game.

RULE 30 SECTION 1. When the batsman is standing in his proper position, the ball shall not be thrown by the pitcher to any player other than the catcher except in an attempt to retire a base-runner. If repeated after warning by the umpire, the pitcher shall be removed from the game.

SEC. 2. The umpire shall call a ball on the pitcher each time he delays the game by failing to deliver the ball to the batsman for a longer period than 20 seconds, excepting that at the commencement of each inning, or when a pitcher relieves another, the pitcher may occupy one minute in delivering not to exceed five balls to the catcher or an infielder, during which time play shall be suspended.

There is a very severe penalty against the pitcher if he throws to a base as one might say "for fun" or to delay a game. Wilful delay on the part of the pitcher in delivering the ball, especially when storm threatens, should be punished by the umpire as Section 2 provides.

At the beginning of each inning the pitcher is allowed to throw five balls to the catcher or to an infielder for "warming-up" practice, the batsman refraining from occupying his position in the "box" at home plate.

Balks.

RULE 31 A balk entitling the base-runner, or runners, to advance one base shall be called by the umpire as follows:

SECTION 1. Any motion made by the pitcher while in position to deliver the ball to the bat without delivering it, or to throw to first base when occupied by a base-runner without completing the throw.

SEC. 2. Throwing the ball by the pitcher to any base to catch the base-runner without first stepping directly toward such base in the act of making such throw; or throwing or feinting to throw to an unoccupied base.

SEC. 3. Any delivery of the ball to the bat by the pitcher while the pivot foot is back of or not in contact with the pitcher's plate.

SEC. 4. Any delivery of the ball to the bat by the pitcher while he is not facing the batsman.

SEC. 5. Any motion in delivering the ball to the bat by the pitcher while not in the position defined by Rule 27, Section 1.

SEC. 6. Holding of the ball by the pitcher so long as, in the opinion of the umpire, to delay the game unnecessarily.

SEC. 7. Making any motion to pitch while standing in his position without having the ball in his possession; or, regardless of whether he makes any motion to pitch or not, if the pitcher takes a legal position on the pitcher's plate without the ball in his possession, or if he takes a position off the pitcher's plate and feints to deliver the ball to the bat.

SEC. 8. Making any motion of the arm, shoulder, hip, knee, foot or body the pitcher habitually makes in his method of delivery, without immediately delivering the ball to the bat.

SEC. 9. After the pitcher has taken position, with both hands holding the ball in front of him, he cannot take either hand off the ball except in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman or in throwing to bases.

SEC. 10. If the pitcher steps off the pitcher's plate, after being in position, for the purpose either of drying his hands or rubbing his eyes, or for other reasons, and it is a legitimate action not understood or interpreted by the umpire as intended to deceive a base-runner, then the umpire shall call "Time."

SEC. 11. If the pitcher, in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman or in throwing to first base, drop the ball, either intentionally or accidentally.

NOTE—With no one on bases, it is not a balk if the pitcher drops the ball while delivering it to the batsman.

SEC. 12. In case a "balk" is called, the ball shall be considered "dead" when announcement is made, and no play can be made until the runner or runners reach the base or bases to which they are entitled.

Professionals are more inclined to try to balk, or half balk, as it is called, than amateurs. Section 3 emphasizes the fact that the pitcher's pivot foot must be in contact with the rubber when he delivers the ball. The other foot may be behind or in front, but not on the side. Section 4 is violated with so much subtlety that it is often hard even for umpires to recognize when the pitcher is facing the batsman. Not only is there a penalty of a called ball against the pitcher if he fails to deliver the ball to the batter within twenty seconds, but if the umpire concludes that he is trying to delay the game he may call a balk, which would score a runner on third base and advance a runner on any other base.

Note Section 7 carefully. If the pitcher takes a legal position on the pitcher's rubber without the ball in his possession, or if he feints to deliver the ball to the batter and is not on the rubber and the ball is not in his possession, it is a balk.

Sections 9, 10, 11 and 12 of Rule 31 are plain and definite. Section 9 refers to the position of the pitcher's hands on the ball. Section 10 refers to the stepping of the pitcher from the rubber. Section 11 refers to the pitcher dropping the ball. If there are runners on the bases and the pitcher drops the ball in the act of delivering it to the batter it is a balk. Section 12 rules that a balk is also a dead ball. This is often overlooked and is important.

Ball Dead Not in Play.

RULE The ball is dead and not in play:

32

- (1) If a pitched ball touches any part of the batsman's person or clothing while the batsman is standing in his position, whether the ball is struck at or not;
- (2) If a balk is committed;
- (3) In case of an illegally batted ball;
- (4) In case of a foul hit not legally caught;
- (5) In case of interference with the fielder or batsman;
- (6) In case a fair hit ball strikes a base-runner or umpire before touching a fielder;
- (7) In case the ball is handled by a spectator as set forth in Rule 33.

In all of the foregoing cases the ball shall not be considered in play until it be held by the pitcher standing in his position and the umpire shall have called "Play."

These are the so-called "automatic" cases of "time," and should be called by the umpire to avoid confusion.

Ball is dead in American League when fielder falls into dugout, bench or stand at any point after making catch of fly ball. However, if fielder steps into dugout but does not fall down, the ball remains in play.

Balls Handled By Spectators.

RULE 33 A batted or thrown ball touched, stopped or handled by a person not engaged in the game is dead and not in play.

If a fair hit, the batsman making the hit shall be entitled to two bases and each base-runner shall be entitled to advance two bases. If a thrown ball, each base-runner shall be entitled to advance in accordance with Section 2 of Rule 65.

If a batter hits a ball that is touched by a spectator, the batter and all the runners advance two bases, the batter goes to second, the runner, who was on first at the time the pitch was made, moves to third and the runner, who was on second, scores. It all takes place with the position of the runners at time the pitch was made.

Ball is dead and runners advance two bases when ball is thrown by infielder.

On thrown balls by outfielder the situation is different. For example, with men on first and second, batter singles to right field. Fielder juggles ball, man on second scores and man on first going to third, draws a wild throw that hits spectator behind third base and ball rebounds on the playing field. Ball is dead. Umpires direct runners where to go, according to positions of runners when throw was made. If runner, who was on first, had passed second base at time throw was made, he is allowed to score. The batter is allowed to go to third, if umpires decide he passed first base at time throw was made.

THE RULES FOR BATSMEN.

The Batsman's Position.

RULE 34 Each player of the team at bat shall become the batsman and must take his position within the batsman's lines (as defined in Rule 8) in the order that his name appears in his team's batting order.

The batting list of a team may be arranged as its captain desires. It is not necessary that the captain shall be first at bat. Nor is it necessary that there shall be any fixed order, as outfielders, infielders and then the catcher and pitcher. Schoolboys of a generation ago thought a batting order arranged as so outlined to be orthodox. In some sections it has come to be a practice which is considered one of the essentials of the game, but it only by heritage, not authority.

The Order of Batting.

RULE 35 The batting order of each team must be on the score card and must be delivered before the game by its manager or captain to the umpire at the home plate, who shall submit it to the inspection of the manager or captain of the other team. The batting order delivered to the umpire must be followed throughout the game unless a player be substituted for another, in which case the substitute must take the place in the batting order of the retired player.

Major leagues require the manager of home team to deliver his batting order first to the umpire. Then the visiting manager or captain, delivers his lineup, after which, for the first time, they can inspect rival lineups. If the umpire should make a mistake in announcing the pitcher, and his attention is called to the error, he should refer to his batting order and make proper announcement. No one should suffer because of umpire's error in announcing.

The First Batsman in an Inning.

RULE 36 After the first inning the first batsman in each inning shall be the batsman whose name follows that of the last man who completed his "time at bat" in the preceding inning.

After the first inning the first batter in each succeeding inning is the player following the man who completed his full time at bat in the inning before, "Time at bat" means a full term at bat. Two strikes, or one, two or three balls, or one strike and three balls, for example, is not a full "time at bat." If a batter has but one strike in the first inning and the third man be put out while he is at bat, he becomes the first batter in the following inning, not having completed his full time at bat in the inning previous. In such case, any balls and strikes called in the preceding inning do not count when he assumes his time at bat in the next inning.

A Fair Hit.

RULE 37 A fair hit is a legally batted ball that settles on fair ground between home and first base, or between home and third base, or that is on or over fair ground when bounding to the outfield past first base or third base, or that touches first base or third base, or that first falls on fair territory on or beyond first base or third base; or that, while on or over fair ground, touches the person of the umpire or a player. A fair fly must be judged according to the relative position of the ball and the foul line, and not as to whether the fielder is on fair or foul ground at the time he touches the ball.

A batted ball that touches first base or third base is a fair hit even if it later bounds foul.

A Foul Hit.

RULE 38 A foul hit is a legally batted ball that settles on foul territory between home and first base or home and third base, or that bounds past first or third base on or over foul territory, or that falls on foul territory beyond first or third base, or, while on or over foul ground, touches the person of the umpire or a player, or any object foreign to the natural ground. A foul fly must be judged according to the relative position of the ball and the foul line, and not as to whether the fielder is on foul or fair ground at the time he touches the ball.

Any legally batted ball that settles on foul ground is a foul hit, except that a ground hit, should it roll from foul to fair territory between first and home or third and home, and remain there, is a fair hit.

A ground hit that first strikes fair territory and rolls outside of the foul line between first and home, or third and home, is a foul hit if the ball remains outside. As also is a batted ball that hits the pitching rubber and bounds into foul territory before passing first or third base, without touching a fielder.

Any legally batted ball that falls on foul territory beyond first base, or third base, or that touches the person of a player or an umpire on foul ground, is a foul hit.

Note again the phrase, "while on or over foul ground, touches the person of the umpire or player." This does not mean that a ball is fair if it is over foul ground and the player is on fair ground. Many disputes arise over this point.

A Foul Tip.

RULE 39 A foul tip is a ball batted by the batsman while standing within the lines of his position, that goes sharp and direct from the bat to the catcher's hands and is legally caught.

A foul tip is a ball shooting off the bat to the catcher. The first two of such foul tips count as strikes even if not caught by catcher, in which case base runners may not advance. Any foul tip caught by the catcher constitutes a strike and ball is in play. Runners cannot advance, nor can a third strike be called, if the ball strikes the body or equipment of the catcher before he makes the catch.

A Bunt Hit.

RULE 40 A bunt hit is a legally batted ball, not swung at, but met with the bat and tapped slowly within the infield by the batsman. If the attempt to bunt result in a foul not legally caught, a strike shall be called by the umpire.

A bunt hit is legally tapping the ball slowly within the infield by the batsman. If a foul result which is not legally caught, the batsman is charged with a strike, whether it be the first, second or third strike. So proficient have batters become that tapping the ball has been literally changed to pushing or "dragging" the ball. Speed, a quick start, and the ball lacking force as it rolls, are factors that combine for success.

Any bunt rolling foul is a strike. If the ball twists, rolls or bounds outside the foul line and the baseman traps it at once, the batsman is charged with the first, second or third strike, as the case may be. The moment that a fielder touches a bunted ball on foul ground it becomes a foul. If the ball merely grazes the tip of his finger it becomes foul.

The batsman is out on a bunt that rolls foul if the attempted bunt be made on the third strike. It is not just a plain foul, as some appear to think, but a bona fide strike, and must be ruled upon and treated as such.

Balls Batted Outside the Playing Field.

RULE 41 SECTION 1. When a batted ball passes outside the playing field the umpire shall decide it fair or foul according to where it leaves the playing field.

This section, modified in 1931, gives justice to the batter. A batted ball must be decided fair or foul at the exact point at which it leaves the playing field.

SEC. 2. A fair batted fly ball that goes over the fence or into a stand shall entitle the batsman to a home run unless it should pass out of the ground or into a stand at a less distance than two hundred and fifty (250) feet from the home base, in which case the batsman shall be entitled to two bases only. In either event the batsman must touch the bases in regular order. The point at which a fence or stand is less than 250 feet from the home base shall be plainly indicated by a white or black sign or mark for the umpire's guidance.

If there were a ground rule that a home run could be batted into a stand or over the fence at a distance less than 250 feet from the home plate it could be observed, but such a "home run" is about like a squib as compared with a cannon cracker. It is not a standard home run and leagues should not attempt it.

Note that the batsman must circle the bases in order, even if a home run is automatically such a run. If a ball game is being played upon an improvised field, or upon a field that is limited in area and the 250-foot rule for a home run is in effect, every effort should be made to designate the exact spot at which the 250-foot limit is located: a marking flag will do if nothing better is available. The staff of the flag, of course, must be fixed exactly on the line extending from home plate to the field limit.

SEC. 3. A fair hit ball that strikes the ground and bounds into a stand or over a fence shall be a two-base hit.

A fair hit ball that strikes the ground and bounds over the fence or into a stand on fair or foul territory shall be a two-base hit. If a fielder attempting to make a catch of a fair fly ball, deflects it into a stand in foul territory, it shall be a two-base hit. However, should he deflect such a fair fly ball into a stand on fair territory or over the fence, it shall be considered a home run.

Strikes.

RULE A strike is:

42 SECTION 1. A pitched ball struck at by the batsman without its touching his bat.

SEC. 2. A fair ball legally delivered by the pitcher at which the batsman does not strike.

SEC. 3. A foul hit ball not caught on the fly unless the batsman has two strikes.

SEC. 4. An attempt to bunt which results in a foul not legally caught.

SEC. 5. A pitched ball, at which the batsman strikes but misses and which touches any part of his person.

SEC. 6. A foul tip, held by the catcher, while standing within the lines of his position.

When the batsman strikes at a pitched ball and misses it, a strike is called.

When the batsman fails to strike at a pitched ball which passes over the plate at the legal height, between knees and shoulder, a strike is called.

With less than two strikes on the batter, any foul tip, whether caught by the catcher, or not, is a strike. After two strikes, however, a foul tip must be held by the catcher to become the third strike. If it is not held by the catcher it is just a foul.

A foul hit, whether a fly or a ground hit, bounding to any part of foul ground, is a strike unless the batter has two strikes. After two strikes the batter may foul the ball without penalty unless he bunts or is caught out on a foul fly or on a foul tip.

All bunts rolling foul are strikes. If the batsman strikes at the ball and misses it but the ball hits him, it is a strike.

The third strike on the batsman offers many variations.

If with two strikes, a foul tip hits the umpire direct and is caught on the fly by a fielder before touching the ground, the batsman is NOT out. The ball becomes dead and is regarded merely as a foul ball. The same is true if a direct foul tip lodges in the umpire's mask or any other part of his equipment.

If a third strike, called or swung at and missed (not a foul tip) passes the catcher and hits the umpire direct, the ball is in play. If such a ball rebounds from the umpire and is caught on the fly before touching the ground, the batsman is not out, but the ball remains in play and the batsman may be retired by being touched with the ball or throwing it to first ahead of the runner.

If a third strike (not a foul tip) is called or swung at and missed and lodges in the umpire's mask or other part of his equipment, the ball becomes dead. However, the batsman shall be granted first base and other runners on the bases at the time, will be allowed to advance one base.

An Illegally Batted Ball.

RULE 43 An illegally batted ball is a ball batted by the batsman when either or both of his feet are upon the ground outside of the lines of the batsman's position.

If the batsman, with either of his feet out of the batsman's box, hits the ball in any way it is an illegally batted ball, and the batsman is out.

Frequently illegally batted balls escape the attention of the umpire, although it is not his fault. The batter in recent years tends to keep in motion while at bat and often does not set himself with a foot brace, depending upon a free swing to meet the ball. The penalty for an illegally batted ball is "out."

This is strictly up to judgment of umpire and no definite lines can be drawn, as nine times out of ten, one of the batter's feet is out of the box, when he has completed his follow through. Provided both feet were in the box at the start of the swing, umpires do not feel that the follow through that carried one foot out of the box has resulted from an effort to cheat the rule and seldom give it consideration. However, if the swing is made with both feet out of the box, he must always be called out.

When Batsman is Out.

RULE The Batsman is Out:

44 SECTION 1. If he fail to take his position at the bat in the turn in which his name appears in the batting order.

But if the error be discovered the proper batsman may replace the man at bat before the latter becomes a base-runner, in which case the balls and strikes must be counted in the time-at-bat of the proper batsman.

Only the proper batsman shall be declared out, and no runs shall be scored or bases run because of any act of the improper batsman.

This rule shall not be enforced unless the error be discovered and the out be declared before the ball be delivered to the batsman next facing the pitcher.

Should the batsman declared out under this section be the third out and his team be thereby put out, the proper batsman in the next inning shall be the player who would have come to bat had the players been put out by ordinary play in the preceding inning.

Batting out of order plays will be less confusing if one remembers these very fundamental facts. It is an appeal play, or no action is taken. The appeal must be made before a ball is pitched to the next batsman. If and when the umpire makes a ruling, the proper batsman is always the man called out. No runners can advance on any act of an improper batsman that is properly discovered, an appeal made and ruled on. Runners return to their original bases and the next batter is the man who followed the proper batter in the regular lineup. Should the team at bat discover that the batsman is hitting improperly, it is possible to remove him and substitute the proper batter, who shall take the ball and strike count that was on the improper batsman when the mistake was discovered. The time to appeal for a ruling on an improper batter is either after he is retired or reaches base, and then before a ball is pitched to the next hitter.

SEC. 2. If he fail to take his position within one minute after the umpire has called for the batsman.

Section 2 is not enforced to the limit. As a matter of fact there is little reason to enforce it. Most players are too anxious to bat. Its purpose is to give the umpire authority to act if the game is purposely delayed.

The batsman is out if a foul fly, other than a foul tip, is caught by a fielder, provided latter does not use his hat, cap, protector, or any illegal contrivances to catch the ball, and provided the ball does not strike some object other than a fielder before being caught. The batter is never out if a foul tip lodges between the catcher's chest protector and the body. Note that the ball must be caught and not "momentarily held."

If a fielder stands on fair territory and reaches over into foul territory to attempt to catch a fly and deflects the ball into fair ground, his position does not make the hit a fair ball. The reverse also holds true in regard to a player standing on foul ground and reaching after a fair batted ball.

SEC. 3. If he make a foul hit other than a foul tip as defined in Rule 39, and the ball be caught by a fielder before touching the ground; provided, it be not caught in a fielder's hat, cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform, or strike some object other than a fielder before being caught, any of which would be an illegally caught ball.

SEC. 4. If he bat the ball illegally, as defined in Rule 43.

SEC. 5. If he attempt to hinder the catcher from fielding or throwing the ball by stepping outside the lines of the batsman's position, or in any way obstruct or interfere with that player, except that if a base-runner attempting to steal is put out the batsman shall not be out; except, also, that the batsman shall not be out under this section if the base-runner be declared out according to Section 15 of Rule 49.

Section 5 provides two ways for the punishment of interference, but it does not provide that two can be put out on one play, as some seem to think.

SEC. 6. If, while first base be occupied by a base-runner, the third strike be called on him by the umpire, unless two men are already out.

Note Section 6. If the umpire calls a third strike with first base occupied, and there are not two men out, the batter is out whether the catcher holds the third strike or not. An important game was once lost in the big leagues because the runner on first base did not know this rule. He thought that he was forced when the third strike was called against the batter and the catcher dropped the ball. He did not need to leave first and was an easy out when he tried to reach second. This rule was adopted to prevent the catcher from dropping the ball purposely to insure a double play.

When the third strike hits the batter, the ball is dead and base-runners are not permitted to advance.

SEC. 7. If, while attempting a third strike, the ball touch any part of the batsman's person, in which case base-runners occupying bases shall not advance as prescribed in Rule 48, Section 5.

SEC. 8. If, before two are out, while first and second or first, second and third bases are occupied, he hit a fair fly ball, other than a line drive, that can reasonably be caught by an infielder. In such case the umpire shall declare it an infield fly. However, the runners may be off their bases or advance at the risk of the ball being caught, the same as on any other fly ball; but if hit by the ball while standing on base, that base-runner shall not be called out, but the ball is dead and the batsman shall be called out; and if the base-runner be hit while off base, both that base-runner and the batsman shall be called out and the ball is dead. Provided, that, with first and second bases occupied, or first, second and third bases occupied, with less than two out, any attempt to bunt which results in a fair fly ball shall not be regarded as an infield fly.

Section 8 applies to the infield fly. Note, first of all, that it must be a "fair" fly. Then note that runners may be off their bases or advance at the risk of the fly being caught, same as on any fly ball. Also note that under the provisions of this section an attempt to bunt which results in a fair fly ball is not to be considered as an infield fly. If the umpire thinks an infield fly has been batted he declares it an "infield fly."

Many have a mistaken impression that the infield fly is operative with a runner on first only, or runners on first and third bases. It is not. The rule is made to prevent a player from trapping the ball and starting a double play with runners on first and second, or runners on first, second and third.

SEC. 9. If the third strike be called in accordance with Sections 4 or 5 of Rule 42.

Section 9 is self-explanatory. The batsman is out on a bunt that rolls foul or flies foul and settles on foul ground if the attempted bunt is made on the third strike. The batsman is out if, when it is the third strike, the batsman strikes at the ball and misses it, but is hit by the ball.

SEC. 10. If he steps from one batsman's box to the other while the pitcher is in his position ready to pitch.

Section 10 distinctly says, "while the pitcher is in his position ready to pitch." The batter may change from one box to the other when the pitcher is not in his position, the object of the rule being to prevent the batter from disconcerting the pitcher and perhaps causing him to balk.

BASE-RUNNING RULES.Legal Order of Bases.

RULE 45 SECTION 1. The base-runner must touch each base in legal order, viz., First, Second, Third and Home Bases; and when obliged to return while the ball is in play, must retouch the base or bases in reverse order. He can only acquire the right to a base by touching it, before having been put out, and shall then be entitled to hold such base until he has legally touched the next base in order, or has been legally forced to vacate it for a succeeding base-runner.

After the batsman makes a fair hit in which he is not put out he must touch first, second and third bases and then the home plate in regular succession in order to score a run.

SEC. 2. A base-runner having acquired legal title to a base cannot run bases in reverse order for the purpose either of confusing the fielders or making a travesty of the game. A runner violating this rule is out if touched with the ball, or the ball held on the base said runner was entitled to hold.

Section 2 is to prevent a runner from reversing the bases, either for the purpose of confusing the fielders or to make the game look absurd. If a runner has left first base and has legally touched second base and has a legal claim to second base, he may not deliberately run the reverse way back to first base and expect to escape the penalty of being put out. If he violates the rule as it now reads he is out if he is touched with the ball or the ball is held on the base that the runner was entitled to hold.

SEC. 3. In case a runner is being run down between bases, and the following runner occupies the same base the first runner has left, the second man cannot be put out while holding said base. If the first runner, however, returns safely to the base he left, and both runners are then occupying the same base, the second runner is the man out, if touched with the ball.

The base always belongs to the original occupant unless forced to advance, when the completion of a play results in two runners on the same base. The runner who advances to the base in question is the man who is out when touched with the ball. If he can return to the base he vacated without being touched, he has the right to do so. A base runner who advances to a base, another runner has left, is immune from being put out while on that base. It is when the original occupant returns that he loses his immunity.

SEC. 4. The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base (and who is declared out therefor) shall not affect the status of a succeeding runner who touches each base in proper order; except that, after two are out, a succeeding runner cannot score a run when a preceding runner is declared out for failing to touch a base as provided in Rule 49, Sections 10 and 13. This exception also applies to a batsman who hits the ball out of the playing field for an apparent home run.

With less than two out, the failure of a preceding runner to touch a base, shall in no way affect the status of succeeding base runners who properly touch the bases. This rule kills off all argument that a runner who touches a base that a preceding runner misses, technically passes said runner and is out for so doing. No longer is there any argument for such a contention under the present wording.

When the Batsman Becomes a Base-Runner.

RULE The Batsman Becomes a Base-Runner:

46 SECTION 1. Instantly after he makes a fair hit.

SEC. 2. Instantly after "Four Balls" have been called by the umpire.

SEC. 3. Instantly after "Three Strikes" have been declared by the umpire.

SEC. 4. If, without making any attempt to strike at the ball, his person or clothing be hit by a pitched ball unless, in the opinion of the umpire, he plainly makes no effort to get out of the way of the pitched ball, in which case the umpire shall call a strike or a ball in accordance with Rules 28 and 29.

SEC. 5. If the catcher interfere with him, unless he makes a safe hit.

SEC. 6. If a fair hit ball strike the person or clothing of the umpire or a base-runner on fair ground, subject to the provisions of Section 8 of Rule 44.

The batsman should start to first base instantly after making a fair hit, or when four balls have been called, or when three strikes have been declared by the umpire, as a precaution for himself.

That part of Section 4 beginning "unless, in the opinion," etc., means that if the pitcher tosses a slow ball and the batter deliberately permits the ball to hit him, the umpire may use his judgment and not give the batter first base by calling the pitch a strike or a ball.

The batsman is entitled to go to first base without being put out if the catcher interferes with him, but if the batsman makes a safe hit he may run as many bases as the hit will permit.

The batsman is entitled to first base, without being put out, if before touching a fielder a fair hit ball touches either the person or clothing of an umpire or a base-runner who is on fair ground. However, if a runner who is standing on a base is struck by a fair batted ball when the umpire calls an infield fly, then the batsman and not the runner is declared out.

Entitled to Bases.

RULE 47 The base-runner shall be entitled, without liability to be put out, to advance one base, except where more are specified, in the following cases:

SECTION 1. If, while the batsman, he becomes a base-runner by reason of "four balls," or for being hit by a pitched ball, or for being interfered with by the catcher in striking at a pitched ball, or if a fair hit ball strike the person or clothing of the umpire or a base-runner on fair ground before touching a fielder. Provided that if a fair hit ball strike the umpire after having passed a fielder other than the pitcher or having been touched by a fielder (including the pitcher), the ball shall be considered in play. Also, if a fair hit ball strike the umpire on foul ground, the ball shall be in play.

If the ball strike the umpire on fair ground after having passed a fielder, other than pitcher, or having been touched by a fielder, including pitcher, the base-runner may continue to advance and the ball is in play as if an error had been made, but the runner takes the usual risk of advancing on a misplay. If a fair hit ball strike the umpire while the latter is on foul ground the ball is in play, the position of the umpire having no effect on the ball.

"Passing a fielder" does not mean an ordinary batted ball that bounds past the pitcher.

SEC. 2. If the umpire awards to a succeeding batsman a base on four balls, or for being hit by a pitched ball, or being interfered with by the catcher in striking at a pitched ball and the base-runner be thereby forced to vacate the base held by him.

Whenever the umpire sends the batsman to first base after four balls have been called, or for being hit by a pitched ball, or because he has been interfered with by the catcher, all runners on bases immediately ahead of him may advance a base each without being put out. A runner on second or third base with first base unoccupied would not be considered a runner immediately ahead.

RULE 47—ContinuedSEC. 3. If the umpire call a "Balk."

Every base-runner advances one base when the umpire calls a balk. The batter does not have the right to go to first base on a balk, because a balk does not qualify him as a base-runner.

SEC. 4. If he be prevented from making a base by the obstruction of a fielder (including catcher), except when a fielder is trying to field a batted ball unless the latter has the ball in his hand ready to touch the base-runner. The ball is still in play so far as other base-runners are concerned.

A fielder may not obstruct a runner, although the fielder has right of way if he is trying to field a batted ball. If the fielder has the ball in hand to touch a runner the latter is not entitled to base.

SEC. 5. If the fielder stop or catch a batted ball or a thrown ball with his hat, cap, glove or any part of his uniform, while detached from its proper place on his person, the runner or runners shall be entitled to three bases if a batted ball or to two bases if a thrown ball, and in either case the runner may advance further at his own risk.

The one important feature of this rule is that while the runner or runners shall be entitled to three bases if a fielder stop a fairly batted ball with cap or glove while detached from its proper place and two bases on a thrown ball, that in either case the runner may advance further at his own risk. In many quarters the impression prevails, and wrongly so, that advancement permitted is limited to three bases on a batted ball and two on a thrown ball.

Note also the mere act of throwing cap, glove or part of uniform at ball in itself is not a violation unless the article comes in contact with the ball.

SEC. 6. If a thrown or pitched ball strike the person or clothing of an umpire the ball shall be considered in play and the base-runner or runners shall be entitled to all the bases they can make.

Note carefully that on a thrown or pitched ball which strikes the umpire, runners make all the bases they can.

SEC. 7. If a thrown ball strike a coacher on foul ground the ball shall be considered in play. Provided, that if in the opinion of the umpire the coacher intentionally interfere with such thrown ball, the runner or runners must return to the last bases touched, and the coacher be penalized by removal from the playing field.

At first sight it might seem to make it worth while to interfere on the part of the coacher because the ball is in play, but when the penalty is noted it will be a very foolish coacher who will not try his best to get out of the way of thrown balls.

SEC. 8. If the catcher interferes with the batsman while a base-runner is attempting to steal a base, the base-runner shall be permitted to advance to that base.

SEC. 9. In event a base-runner is trying to score from third base on a pitched ball or the "squeeze" play, a "balk" and also an "interference" shall be called if the catcher runs out in front of the plate to catch the ball; and the runner shall be allowed to score and the batsman be entitled to first base. In such event the same penalties must be imposed in case the catcher pushes the batsman out of the way, or tips his bat.

One of the few double penalties in baseball is in operation when the catcher interferes with the batsman, in making a play at the plate on a runner, either trying to steal home or score on the squeeze play. When such a thing happens, an interference and balk is called. The balk entitles the runner to score, while the interference entitles the batsman to first.

NOTE—Runners are entitled to one base when fielder falls into dugout, bench or stand at any point after making catch of fly ball as ball is dead, according to special ruling, in American League, but if fielder steps into dugout and does not fall down, ball remains in play and base runners can advance at their own peril.

In the National, however, ball is not considered dead, but runners cannot go beyond one base.

Returning to Bases.

RULE 48 The base-runner shall return to his base without liability to be put out:

SECTION 1. If the umpire declare any foul not legally caught.

SEC. 2. If the umpire declare an illegally batted ball.

SEC. 3. If the umpire declare a dead ball, unless it be also the fourth unfair ball and he be thereby forced to take the next base, as provided in Rule 47, Section 2.

SEC. 4. If the person or clothing of the umpire while stationed back of the bat, interfere with the catcher in an attempt to throw.

SEC. 5. If a pitched ball at which the batsman strikes but misses, touch any part of the batsman's person.

SEC. 6. If the umpire be struck by a fair hit ball before touching a fielder; in which case no base shall be run unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a base-runner, and no run shall be scored unless all the bases are occupied.

SEC. 7. If the umpire declare the batsman or a base-runner out for interference; in which case all other base-runners shall return to the last base that was in the judgment of the umpire legally touched at the time of the interference.

SEC. 8. If the coacher intentionally interfere with a thrown ball, as described in Section 7, Rule 47.

In any and all of the foregoing cases the base-runner is not required to touch the intervening bases in returning to the base to which he is legally entitled.

The runner is obliged to go back to the base which he originally held when the ball was batted foul if the ball is not caught. The runner cannot be put out while returning. If a foul is caught on the fly, however, the runner is liable to be "doubled up" if he cannot get back before the caught ball is thrown to the base which he has just left. In the case of an illegally batted ball, the runner must return to the base from which he has advanced, exactly as in the case of a foul hit not caught.

If the umpire gets in the way of the catcher by accident, the runner cannot have the benefit of the mishap to the catcher, but must go back to his original base.

Note in Section 6 that the fair hit must strike the umpire before the ball touches the person of a fielder. There is an explicit provision in this section about running bases and about the scoring of a run.

Note again in Section 7, which emphasizes the fact that if the runner be declared out "for interference," the runners ahead shall return to base.

When Base-Runners are Out.RULE The Base-Runner is Out:*49

SECTION 1. If, after three strikes have been declared against him while he is the batsman, the third strike ball be not legally caught and he plainly attempts to hinder the catcher from fielding the ball.

Tells the batter very plainly that if he interferes with the catcher when the latter has not caught the third strike, he suffers the penalty of being called out.

SEC. 2 (a) If, having made a fair hit while batsman, such fair hit ball be caught by a fielder before touching the ground or any object other than a fielder; provided, it be not caught in a fielder's hat, cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform.

If, before two are out, while first, or first and second, or first, second and third bases are occupied, any player, in the judgment of the umpire, intentionally drops a fly ball or a line drive, the umpire shall immediately rule the ball has been caught.

NOTE—Base-runners are obliged to "tag-up" after the out has been declared before they can advance.

Provides that the umpire shall declare the ball caught if in his judgment a fielder intentionally drops a fly ball or a line drive when runners are on first, first and second, or first, second and third bases, before two men are out. In such cases the base-runners are obliged to retouch their bases before they are privileged to advance, differing from Section 8, Rule 44, under which provision for infield fly, runners need not tag up.

SEC. 2 (b) If, after having hit or bunted a ball to fair territory, his bat again hits the ball on or over fair territory and deflects its course. Other base-runners cannot advance.

This means that the batsman is out if his bat hits the ball a second time while it is in fair territory and deflects its course.

SEC. 3. If, when the umpire has declared "Three Strikes" on him while he is the batsman, the third strike ball be caught by a fielder before touching the ground; provided, it be not caught in a fielder's hat, cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform, or touch some object other than a fielder before being caught.

In this case "fielder" refers particularly to the catcher. If there is a runner on first base and no one out, or only one out, the catcher does not even have to hold the ball. The batter is out automatically (see Section 6 of Rule 44). It is a "bone" play for a runner who is on first to think he must run when the batter has a third strike called on him and the catcher drops the ball, unless two men are out.

SEC. 4. If, after three strikes or a fair hit, he be touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder before he shall have touched first base.

Says "fielder," because any fielder—pitcher, catcher or first or second baseman—can touch the runner out if possible before the latter gets to first base. In other words, the first baseman does not have a monopoly of putting runners out at first base.

SEC. 5. If, after three strikes or a fair hit, the ball be securely held by a fielder while touching first base with any part of his person before such base-runner touch first base.

Defines the second way of putting runners out at first. If a fielder—meaning any player of side not at bat—with the ball in his possession, touches first base before the runner arrives at the base, the runner is out.

Often when a batter makes a long hit on which it appears he may go to second base, or third, or home, he runs outside the base path while rounding first base, there are some who instantly shout that he is out "for running out of the line." Note what Section 6 says. The runner is out for running out of line only if the ball is being fielded at first base and he runs out to avoid being put out. It is apparent that the farther he deviates from the base path, the more he is handicapping himself. When a batter hits for a home run the ball is not fielded to first base on the first play, except the runner is presumed to have omitted to touch first base, which is quite another matter from running out of line. There has been added to this section definite information regarding leaving the base line.

SEC. 6. If, in running the last half of the distance from home base to first base, while the ball is being fielded to first base, he run outside the three-foot lines, as defined in Rule 7; and, in the opinion of the umpire, interferes with the fielder taking the throw at first base; except that he may run outside the three-foot lines to avoid a fielder attempting to field a batted ball.

SEC. 7. If, in running to any base, he run more than three feet from a direct line between a base and the next one in regular or reverse order to avoid being touched by a ball in the hand of a fielder. But in case a fielder be occupying a base-runner's proper path in attempting to field a batted ball, then the base-runner shall run out of direct line to the next base and behind said fielder and shall not be declared out for so doing.

Holds the runner to the base line to avoid being touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder. On the other hand, if the runner is trying for a long distance hit, the base line rule is not exacted. He may make his turn as best he can so that he shall not cut the bases. The runner never is out if he runs behind a fielder who is trying to field the ball. He may run in front of the fielder; indeed, sometimes it is almost impossible to do otherwise, but he must be careful that he does not interfere with the fielder.

SEC. 8. If he fail to avoid a fielder attempting to field a batted ball, in the manner described in Sections 6 and 7 of this rule, or in any way obstruct a fielder in attempting to field a batted ball, or intentionally interfere with a thrown ball; provided, that if two or more fielders attempt to field a batted ball, and the base-runner come in contact with one or more of them, the umpire shall determine which fielder is entitled to the benefit of this rule, and shall not decide the base-runner out for coming in contact with a fielder other than the one the umpire determines to be entitled to field such batted ball. If a fair hit ball goes through an infielder, and hits a runner immediately back of him, the umpire must not declare the runner out for being hit by a batted ball. In making such decision the umpire must be convinced that the ball passed through the infield and that no other infielder had the chance to make a play on the ball. If, in the judgment of the umpire, the runner deliberately and intentionally kick such a hit ball, on which the infielder has missed a play, then the runner must be called out for interference.

If the fielders have run into one another the runner is not at fault if he collides with that fielder who, in the opinion of the umpire, had the lesser opportunity to field the ball.

SEC. 9. If at any time while the ball is in play, he be touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder, unless some part of his person be touching the base he is entitled to occupy; provided, however, that the ball be held by the fielder after touching him, unless the base-runner deliberately knock it out of his hand. The ball must be firmly held by the fielder after touching the runner. The ball cannot be juggled, even though the fielder may regain possession of the ball and prevent same from dropping to the ground.

The runner is out at any time when he is touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder, unless the runner is on the base which he is entitled to occupy. The ball, however, must be held by the fielder after he has touched the runner. If the runner deliberately knocks the ball out of the fielder's hands to avoid being put out, he must be declared out. Note that the rule states explicitly that the ball cannot be juggled by the fielder.

SEC. 10. If, when a fair or foul hit ball (other than a foul tip as defined in Rule 39) be legally caught by a fielder, such ball be legally held by a fielder on the base occupied by the base-runner when such ball was batted, or the base-runner be touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder, before he retouch such base after such fair or foul hit ball was so caught; provided, that the base-runner shall not be out in such case, if, after the ball was legally caught, it be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder hold it on said base, or touch the base-runner out with it; but if the base-runner, in attempting to reach a base, detach it from its fastening before being put out, he shall be declared safe. A base-runner who holds his base on a fly ball shall have the right to advance the moment such fly ball touches the person or uniform of a fielder.

Means that the runner is out if he cannot get back to the base that he originally occupied after a foul or fly catch is made and the ball is thrown to the base ahead of him. For instance, a runner is on second base. The ball is batted so hard and so close to the foul line that the runner is sure it is a safe hit. He starts to run and when he arrives at third base finds that the ball was caught. Then the ball is thrown to second before he can return and is held on the base. That retires the runner. A similar condition prevails at first and third bases. If the runner slides into a base or jumps into it and unloosens it from its fastening, he is safe if he is not forced out or if he has not been touched. He is not compelled to follow the base. The base-runner shall have the right to advance the moment a fly ball touches the person or uniform of any fielder. Whether or not the ball is caught or muffed, he can try for the next base subject to the rules regarding advancing on bases.

SEC. 11. If, when the batsman becomes a base-runner, the first base, or the first and second bases or the first, second and third bases be occupied, any base-runner so occupying a base shall cease to be entitled to hold it, and may be put out at the next base in the same manner as in running to first base, or by being touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder at any time before any base-runner following him in the batting order be put out, unless the umpire should decide the hit of the batsman to be an infield fly according to Section 8 of Rule 44.

Embraces the much misunderstood "force play." No runner can be forced on the base paths except the batsman becomes a base-runner. For instance, with runners on, say, all of the bases, the runner on third suddenly decides to steal home and the runner on second moves up to third and touches it. The runner who had been on third, however, decides that he can not make home safely, and returns to third base. He is legally entitled to do so, while the runner who had come up from second will have to hurry back to that base the best way he can. Many amateurs think that the moment the runner on second touches third base, the runner who was on third becomes "forced" to go to the plate, but he is not. This applies in like manner to runners on first and second, respectively. The runner is always entitled to return to the base he held originally—always with the possibility of being put out by being touched with the ball until that time when the batsman forces all runners immediately preceding him by becoming a base-runner. If there were three runners on bases when that happened, all of them necessarily would have to start. The runner on third base would try to get home, the runner on second would try to get to third, and the runner on first would try to get to second, while the batter would try to beat the ball to first. His play at bat forced everybody, but not until the batter starts a force play there is no force play in baseball. In the event of an infield fly, the umpire is expected to announce "infield fly" or "outfield fly," for no other purpose than to kill the "force." When he says, "batter out," it is an infield fly and the runners may hold their bases in safety.

SEC. 12. If a fair hit ball strike him before touching a fielder, and, in such case, no base shall be run unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a base-runner, but no run shall be scored or any other base-runner be put out until the umpire puts the ball back into play.

The runner is out if he is hit while on fair territory by a batted ball. The ball is dead. That should not be forgotten. The batter takes his base, however.

SEC. 13. If, when advancing bases, or obliged to return to a base, while the ball is in play, he fail to touch the intervening base or bases, if any, in the regular or reverse order, as the case may be, he may be put out by the ball being held by a fielder on any base (including home base) he failed to touch, or by being touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder in the same manner as in running to first base; provided, that the base-runner shall not be out in such case if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder hold it on said base or touch the base-runner with it; however, after a fly ball other than a foul tip as defined in Rule 39 be legally caught by a fielder, the base-runner who complies with the provisions of this section can only be retired by the ball being held by a fielder on the base occupied by the runner when such ball was batted, or by being touched by the ball in the hand of the fielder as provided in Section 10 of this rule.

If the runner, in trying for a three-base hit, should fail to touch either first or second base, he is out if the attention of the umpire is called to the play, the ball held on the base, or the runner touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder, and if the umpire saw the omission. In like manner, if the runner in returning to bases—the ball being in play—fail to touch the bases in regular order, if he is called upon to do so because of the play that is being made, he is out, if the attention of the umpire is called to his transgression, if the umpire saw his failure to do so and the proper play is made. If the pitcher has delivered the ball to the batter before the claim is made, the runner may not be called out. It should be noted that the attention of the umpire must be called to the act of a runner having omitted to touch a base and the ball must be held on the missed base or the runner touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder. The umpire is a referee, not a policeman; and questions of fact are submitted to him for decision in his judicial capacity.

SEC. 14. If, when the umpire calls "Play," after the suspension of a game, he fail to return to and touch the base he occupied when "Time" was called before touching the next base; provided, the base-runner shall not be out, in such case, if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher, before the fielder hold it on said base or touch the base-runner with it.

Calling "Play" or "Time" is exactly as calling fair or foul, so far as returning to and touching a base is concerned.

SEC. 15. If, with one out, or none out, and a base-runner on third base, the batsman interfere with a play being made at home plate.

Gives the umpire a right to call the runner out at third base if there is no one out or one out and the batsman interferes with a play that is being made at home plate. It must be thoroughly understood that if the runner is called out, the batter may not be called out also.

SEC. 16. If he pass a preceding base-runner before such runner has been legally put out he shall be declared out immediately.

A base-runner never should be foolish enough to pass a preceding base-runner. This seems like an unnecessary warning, but there have been many instances where base-runners have done so, being ignorant of the rule against it.

SEC. 17. If, in the judgment of the umpire, the coacher at third base by touching or holding the runner physically assists him in returning to or leaving third base. The runner, however, should not be declared out if no play is being made on him.

The wording of the rule makes it very plain when the runner is and is not out.

SEC. 18. The base-runner in running to first base may overrun or overslide said base after touching it in passing without incurring liability to be put out for being off said base, provided he return at once and retouch the base, after which he may be put out as at any other base. If, after overrunning first base, he attempt to run to second base, before returning to first base, he shall forfeit such exemption from liability to be put out.

When the runner goes to first base, after he has finished being a batter, he may overrun or overslide the base as far as he wishes and turn either to the right or to the left, but if he should make an apparent effort to go to second base, when he thus overruns first base, he loses his right to return to first base without exemption from being put out.

SEC. 19. If, while third base is occupied, the coacher stationed near that base shall run in the direction of home base on or near the base line while a fielder is making or trying to make a play on a batted ball not caught on the fly, or on a thrown ball, or a fly ball, and thereby draws a throw to home base, the base-runner entitled to third base shall be declared out by the umpire for the coacher's interference with and prevention of the legitimate play.

Warns the coacher at third not to try to fool the players of the team in the field into making a false throw to head off an apparent runner trying to score. Before the rule was adopted there were some players who made a specialty of this unsportsmanlike practice.

SEC. 20. If one or more members of the team at bat stand or collect at or around a base for which a base-runner is trying, thereby confusing the team in the field and adding to the difficulty of making such play, or if a batsman or base-runner who has just been retired obstructs or interferes with any following play being made on a base-runner, the base-runner shall be declared out for the interference of his team-mate or team-mates.

This rule very plainly tells the players of the side at bat to keep away from the bases unless they belong there. If a player who has been put out obstructs or interferes with any following play on a base-runner his team-mate may be called out.

When Umpire Shall Declare an Out.

RULE 50 The umpire shall declare the batsman or base-runner out, without waiting for an appeal for such decision, in all cases where such player be put out in accordance with any of these rules, except Section 1 of Rule 44 and Sections 10, 13 and 18 of Rule 49.

An appeal must be made to the umpire when a runner "cuts a base," either in trying for a long hit or in returning to the base that he held originally. The umpire may see the failure to touch a base, but he must not rule on it unless players of the team in the field have been as observant as he and ask for a ruling. Likewise, if a runner turns toward second base, after he has passed first base, the attention of the umpire must be called to it by an opposing player before the runner is declared out. There are times when the umpire does not observe the runner omitting to touch a base. If a player of the opposing side asks for the ruling, it is not in the province of the umpire to declare the runner out if the umpire failed to see the runner miss the base. If a player fails to return to base after a fly catch the umpire must not volunteer a decision. The team in the field must make an appeal to him.

Coaching Rules.

RULE 51 A coacher may address words of assistance and direction to the base-runners or to the batsman. He shall not, nor shall any player or manager, by words or signs, incite or try to incite the spectators to demonstrations, nor use language which will in any manner refer to or reflect upon a player of the opposite club, the umpire or the spectators. Not more than two coachers, who must be in the uniform of the team at bat, shall be allowed to occupy the space between the players' and the coachers' lines, one near first and the other near third base, to coach base-runners. If there be more than the legal number of coachers or this rule be violated in any respect the umpire must order the illegal coacher or coachers to the bench, and if his order be not obeyed within one minute, the offender or offenders shall be debarred from further participation in the game, and shall leave the playing field forthwith.

THE SCORING OF RUNS.

RULE 52 One run shall be scored every time a base-runner, after having legally touched the first three bases, shall legally touch the home base before three men are put out; provided, however, that if he reach home on or during a play in which the third man be forced out or be put out before reaching first base, a run shall not count; also, if third out is made by preceding runner failing to touch a base a run shall not count.

The part of Rule 52, which states that no run can score on a play in which the third man be out before reaching first base, can produce a very unusual situation, which hardly seems fair, yet is entirely in keeping with the strict interpretation of the rule. For example: A is on second and B is on first and one man out. The batsman hits safely, the runner A from second easily crossing the plate on the drive. The runner B originally on first tries to score but is thrown out at the plate on a close play for the second out. The batsman reaches third base on his hit. However, he fails to touch first base en route. The ball is thrown to the first baseman, who touches the base and appeals to the umpire for a ruling. The umpire calls the batsman who reaches third on the hit, out for having missed first base. Since the batter who hit the ball fails to touch first base he never became the occupant of that bag. When the ball is thrown to that base, an appeal made and an out declared, it makes the third out, in which the batsman fails to reach first base. No runs can score on such a happening, hence it is necessary to void the run that was apparently scored by the runner A, originally on second, who crossed the plate at a time when only one man was out.

When a preceding runner scores on a play in which he fails to touch one of the bases, with none or one out, it shall not affect the status of succeeding runners who may have scored on the same play. However, if two are out at the time, and a preceding runner fails to touch a base for the third out, the runs of any succeeding players who cross the plate on the same play are voided.

Example Number I—There are runners on first and second and one out. Batsman hits a home run inside the park. Runner on second fails to touch third base on his way to the plate. Ball is thrown to that base and he is declared out. Runner originally on first and batter who hit the home run, legally, score on the play.

Example No. 2—There are runners on first and second and two out. Batter hits home run inside the park. All three runners cross the plate. Runner on second fails to touch third en route. He is called out on appeal, for the third out of the inning. In this case, the other two runs are voided.

The proper thing to do when a base runner misses home plate in the scoring of a run, always is confusing all around. If the player either is running or sliding, misses the plate and isn't touched by the catcher, he has a perfect right to try to regain the plate before being touched. However, if he misses the plate and continues on his way to the bench, the fielder with the ball can touch the plate and appeal for a ruling and the runner must be called out. If the runner after missing the plate, remains four or five feet away from it, and the catcher makes an effort to touch him, only to have the player continue to run in foul territory, the umpire should immediately call him out. This takes care of the three situations that can arise from missing home plate.

Definition of a Force Play.

A force-out can be made only when a base-runner legally loses the right to the base he occupies by reason of the batsman becoming a base-runner, and he is thereby forced to advance.

Again the "force-out" is brought plainly to attention. A run cannot be scored if the third man out is forced out or is put out before he reaches first base. For instance, three runners are on bases and the batter hits a slow grounder to the shortstop. Before he gets the ball the runner on third, who had a good start toward home, is quite up to the plate, but the runner who was on first is slow and the shortstop throws him out before he is able to make second base. The run does not count. The force play does not necessarily have to be made at first base.

If there is a runner on third and the batter hits the ball to the pitcher, who fumbles it, and the third baseman recovers it and throws the batter out at first base, and it is the third out, a run does not score even if the runner on third was over home plate before the ball got to first base. On the other hand, if the third out should be made at second base, and not on a force play, and a runner on third should have scored before the put-out was made, the run does count. Note carefully in this rule that a third-man-out force play prevents a run from scoring, and that if the batter is the third out before reaching first base a run cannot score.

UMPIRES AND THEIR DUTIES.

Power to Enforce Decisions.

RULE 53 The umpires are the representatives of the league and as such are authorized and required to enforce each section of this code. They shall have the power to order a player, coach, trainer, captain or manager to do or omit to do any act which in their judgment is necessary to give force and effect to one or all of these rules, and to inflict penalties for violations of the rules as hereinafter prescribed. In order to define their respective duties, the umpire judging balls and strikes shall be designated as the "Umpire-in-Chief;" the umpire judging base decisions as the "Field Umpire."

Umpires in amateur games have equally as much authority as those in professional games except that fines are not imposed in amateur games.

The Umpire-in-Chief.

RULE 54 SECTION 1. The Umpire-in-Chief shall take position back of the catcher; he shall have full charge of and be responsible for the proper conduct of the game. With exception of the decisions to be made by the Field Umpire, as described in Rule 55, the Umpire-in-Chief shall render all the decisions that ordinarily would devolve upon a single umpire, and which are prescribed for "The Umpire" in these Playing Rules.

SEC. 2. He shall call and count balls and strikes, shall call fair and foul hits (including a foul tip), and shall make all decisions on the batsman.

SEC. 3. He shall render base decisions in the following instances: (1) If the ball is hit fair, with a runner on first, he must go to third base to take a possible decision; (2) with more than one base occupied, he shall, on appeal, decide whether or not a runner on third leaves that base before a fly ball is caught; (3) in case of a runner being caught between third and home, when more than one base is occupied, he shall make the decision on the runner nearest the home plate.

SEC. 4. The Umpire-in-Chief alone shall have authority to declare a game forfeited.

Note the words, "on appeal," in clause 2 of foregoing section.

Section 3 should be well studied by the umpire in order that he may learn where to place himself when there are runners on the bases.

The Field Umpire.

RULE 55 SECTION 1. The Field Umpires shall take such positions on the playing field as in their judgment are best suited for the rendering of base decisions. They shall render all decisions at first base and second base, and all decisions at third base except those to be made by the Umpire-in-Chief in accordance with Section 3, Rule 54. They shall also have equal authority with the Umpire-in-Chief in the calling of "balks" on the pitcher, and in enforcing Section 4, Rule 14, and Section 2, Rule 27, prohibiting the use of foreign substance on the ball and prohibiting "freak" deliveries.

SEC. 2. They shall aid the Umpire-in-Chief in every manner in enforcing the rules of the game and, with the exception of declaring a forfeiture, shall have equal authority with the Umpire-in-Chief in fining or removing from the game players who violate these rules.

The Field Umpire may not forfeit a game, but he may remove a player who does not observe the rules. He has authority to rule on balks and "freak" deliveries.

No Appeal From Decisions Based on Umpire's Judgment.

RULE 56 There shall be no appeal from any decision of any umpire on the ground that he was not correct in his conclusion as to whether a batted ball was fair or foul, a base-runner safe or out, a pitched ball a strike or a ball, or on any other play involving accuracy of judgment, and no decision rendered by him shall be reversed, except that he be convinced that it is in violation of one of these rules. The manager or captain only shall have the right to protest against a decision and seek its reversal on a claim that it is in conflict with a section of these rules. In case the manager or captain does seek a reversal of a decision based solely on a point of rules, the umpire making the decision shall, if he is in doubt, ask his associate for information before acting on the manager's or captain's appeal. Under no circumstances shall an umpire criticize or interfere with a decision unless asked to do so by his associate.

An umpire may not change decisions of other umpire, or umpires. Latter may ask for a conference and then may change a decision if satisfied he is in the wrong. Only the more obtuse decline to admit mistakes. No manager or captain may protest a decision of the umpire where it is simply a matter of judgment on the part of the latter. Many do protest, and that practice is what leads to obnoxious and annoying delay brought about in direct violation of the rule. Protests on balls and strikes are absurd, although the Umpire-in-Chief not infrequently calls a ball or a strike which seems not to have been one. However, his position for judgment is far better than that of any player except the catcher, and of any spectator, no matter where the latter may be seated. A Field Umpire may decide wrongly in the rapidity of play, and when he thinks he may have done so, has a perfect right to ask the Umpire-in-Chief as to the accuracy of the decision. The camera has shown that umpires, even the best of them, do make incorrect decisions, and has also shown that players, even the best of them, do make foolish objections.

Duties of Single Umpire.

RULE 57 If but one umpire be assigned, his duties and jurisdiction shall extend to all points, and he shall be permitted to take his stand in any part of the field that in his opinion will best enable him to discharge his duties.

He may umpire from behind home plate or from behind the pitcher's plate.

Must Not Question Decisions.

RULE 58 Under no circumstances shall a manager, captain or player dispute the accuracy of the umpire's judgment and decision on a play.

RULE 58—Continued

If the captain thinks the umpire has erred in interpretation of the rules he may appeal to him, but no other player is privileged to do so. The umpire has the right to remove players for objecting to decisions or behaving in an ungentlemanly manner, and his authority is absolute.

Clubs Can Not Change Umpire.

RULE 59 The umpire can not be changed during a championship game by the consent of the contesting clubs unless the official in charge of the field be incapacitated from service by injury or illness.

Penalties for Violations of the Rules.

RULE 60 SECTION 1. In all cases of violation of these rules by player, coach or manager, the penalty shall be prompt removal of the offender from the game and grounds, followed by a period of such suspension from actual service in the club as the president of the league may fix; except, that in event a pitcher is removed from the game for violation of either Section 4 of Rule 14, or of Section 2 of Rule 27, he shall be automatically suspended for a period of ten days. In the event of removal of player, trainer, coach or manager by either umpire, he shall go direct to the club house and remain there during the progress of the game, or leave the grounds; and a failure to do so will warrant a forfeiture of the game by the Umpire-in-Chief.

SEC. 2. The umpire shall assess a fine of $25.00 against (1) the manager or captain who fails to notify him when one player is substituted for another; (2) against anyone who crosses the field in going to the club house after he has been ordered from the game or bench. (Persons so removed must go around the playing field.) A fine of $5.00 shall be assessed against any player or coach who fails to be seated on his bench within one minute after ordered to do so by the umpire.

SEC. 3. In cases where players show their disapproval of decisions by yelling from the bench, the umpire shall first give warning. If the yelling continues he shall order the offender or offenders from the bench; but in event the disturbance is continued and the umpire is unable to detect the offenders, then he shall clear the bench of all substitute players; the manager or captain of the team, however, to have the privilege of sending to the club house for such substitutes as are actually needed to replace players in the game.

RULE 60—ContinuedUmpire to Report Violations of the Rules.

RULE 61 The umpire shall within twelve hours after fining or removing a player from the game, forward to the league president a report of the penalty inflicted and the cause therefor.

League President to Notify Player Fined.

RULE 62 Immediately upon being informed by the umpire that a fine has been imposed upon any manager, captain, coach or player, the league president shall notify the person so fined and also the club of which he is a member; and, in the event of the failure of the person so fined to pay to the secretary of the league the amount of said fine within five days after notice, he shall be debarred from participating in any championship game or from sitting on a players' bench during the progress of a championship game until such fine be paid.

A Flagrant Offense.

RULE 63 When the offense of any person debarred from the game be of a flagrant nature, such as the use of obscene language or an assault upon a player, coach, manager or umpire, the umpire shall within four hours thereafter forward to the president of the league full particulars.

Materials of the Game.

RULE 64 Before the commencement of a game the umpire shall see that the rules governing the playing implements and markings of the field are strictly observed.

Ground Rules.

RULE 65 SECTION 1. In case of spectators overflowing on the playing field, the home manager or captain shall make special ground rules to cover balls batted or thrown into the crowd, provided such rules be acceptable to the manager or captain of the visiting club. If the latter object, the umpires shall have full authority to make and enforce such special rules, and he shall announce their provisions to the spectators.

Means what it says. If the ground rules are not satisfactory to the visiting club, the umpire has authority to make ground rules. Special ground rules to govern various conditions of fields vary in different parks and usually are agreed upon by the two managers with the umpires, before the game.

SEC. 2. In all cases where there are no spectators on the playing field, and where a thrown ball goes into a stand for spectators, or over or through any fence surrounding the playing field, or into the players' bench (whether the ball rebounds into the field or not), or remains in the meshes of a wire screen protecting the spectators, the runner or runners shall be entitled to two bases. When a first throw made by an infielder, the umpire in awarding such bases, shall be governed by the position of the runner or runners at the time the ball was pitched; when the throw is made by an outfielder, or is the result of any following plays or attempted plays, the award shall be governed by the position of the runner or runners at the time the last throw was made.

Means that if a runner has started to steal and an overthrow as stated is made by an infielder, the runner would be privileged to advance two bases from the base he occupied at the time the ball was pitched to the batsman. If a runner has started to steal with the pitch, and gains the next base before an outfielder makes such an overthrow, the runner would be awarded two bases in addition to the base he had advanced after the play began. If an outfielder has made a perfect throw to another player of his team and it is the latter's throw that goes into a stand or dugout, the two bases will be allowed from where the runners were at the time the last throw was started.

SEC. 3. The umpire shall also ascertain from the home manager or captain whether any other special ground rules are necessary, and if such be necessary he shall advise the opposing manager or captain of their scope and see that each is duly enforced, provided they do not conflict with any of these rules and are acceptable to the manager or captain of the visiting team.

Official Announcements.

RULE 66 The umpire shall call "Play" at the hour appointed for the beginning of a game, announce "Time" at its legal interruption and declare "Game" at its legal termination. Prior to the commencement of the game he shall announce the batteries, and during the progress of the game shall announce each change of players. In case of an overflow crowd, he shall announce the special ground rules and he shall also make announcement of any agreement entered into by the two managers or captains to stop play at a specified hour.

"Play" is the order of the umpires to begin the game or to resume it after "Time" has been called.

"Time" is the order of the umpire to suspend play temporarily.

"Game" is the announcement of the umpire that the contest is terminated.

Suspension of Play.

RULE The umpire shall suspend play for the following causes:

67

SECTION 1. If, in the judgment of the umpire, play should be suspended on account of rain, darkness, or other cause, he shall note the time of suspension and at the end of thirty minutes he shall have authority to terminate the game if the resumption of play be not possible.

SEC. 2. In case of an accident which incapacitates him or a player from service in the field, or in order to remove from the grounds any player or spectator who has violated the rules. Provided, that in case of accident to a player or players in attempting to make a play on either a batted or a thrown ball, "Time" shall not be called until, in the judgment of the umpire, no further play is possible.

SEC. 3. In suspending play from any legal cause the umpire shall call "Time;" when he calls "Time" play shall be suspended until he calls "Play" again, and during the interim no player shall be put out, base be run or run be scored. "Time" shall not be called by the umpire until the ball be held by the pitcher while standing in his position, except in case of accident to a player or umpire.

There is no such thing as automatic suspension of play. There are a number of things that can happen, which eventually call for suspension of play, but the proper time for such suspension is determined by the umpire in keeping with the rules. There is an erroneous impression that play is automatically suspended when two players suffer a serious collision, in which both are rendered unconscious as a result of the contact. It is the belief of many that the umpire should call time since the players have been rendered unfit for play. While it may seem inhuman, time cannot be called until the umpire is of the opinion that no further play is possible. It is obvious that if umpires called "time" because of injury on the field and stopped the advancement of runners, that players would be constantly feigning injury to bring about such a situation. The ball must remain in play until in the opinion of the umpire no further advancement of runners is possible. Then and then only he calls time.

FIELD RULES.

RULE

68

SECTION 1. No person shall be allowed upon any part of the field during the progress of a game except players and coaches in uniform, the manager of each club, the umpires, such officers of the law as may be present in uniform, and such watchmen of the home club as may be necessary to preserve the peace.

This is not strictly observed in amateur games, but it is best to have field as clear as possible.

Must Furnish Police Protection.

SEC. 2. Every club shall furnish sufficient police force to preserve order upon its own grounds, and in the event of a crowd entering the field during the progress of a game, and interfering with the play in any manner, the visiting club may refuse to play until the field be cleared. If the field be not cleared within 15 minutes thereafter, the visiting club may claim and shall be entitled to the game by a score of 9 runs to 0 (no matter what number of innings has been played).

General Definitions.

RULE 69 SECTION 1. "Play" is the order of the umpire to begin the game or to resume it after its suspension.

SEC. 2. "Time" is the order of the umpire to suspend play. Such suspension must not extend beyond the day.

SEC. 3. "Game" is the announcement of the umpire that the game is terminated.

SEC. 4. An "Inning" is the term at bat of the nine players representing a club in a game and is completed when three of such players have been legally put out.

SEC. 5. A "Time at Bat" is the term at bat of a batsman. It begins when he takes his position, and continues until he is put out or becomes a base-runner. But a time at bat shall not be charged against a batsman who is awarded first base by the umpire for being hit by a pitched ball, or on called balls, or when he makes a sacrifice hit, or for interference by the catcher.

SEC. 6. "Legal" or "Legally" signifies as required by these rules.

A time at bat "not being charged" refers to the score. For instance, if Smith goes to the plate five times and makes three hits, and is given one base on balls, and is hit once by a pitched ball, he is charged officially in the score with three times at bat and credited with three hits, while in the score summary it is stated that he received a base on balls and was hit once by the pitcher. As batting averages are determined by dividing the total number of base hits by the total times at bat, to give a "time at bat" to a batter when he goes to first base on called balls, or for any other reasons stated in the rule, would act as penalty on the batsman, by reducing his batting average, for something for which he was not responsible.

THE RULES OF SCORING.

RULE 70

To promote uniformity in recording championship games the following instructions are outlined for the guidance of scorers, who are required to conform to their provisions.

The Batsman's Record.

SECTION 1. The first item in the tabulated score, after the player's name and position, shall be the number of times he has been at bat during the game, but the exceptions made in Rule 69, Section 5, must not be included.

SEC. 2. In the second column shall be set down the runs, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 3. In the third column shall be placed the base hits, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 4. If, in the last half of the final inning, with the winning run on base, the batsman drives home that run, credit shall be given him for as many bases as he touches; that number, however, not to exceed the number of bases advanced by the runner; except when the batsman drives a fair ball out of the playing field, he shall receive credit for a home run, provided he legally touches each base in proper order.

Be sure that the batter gets a home run when the ball goes out of the playing field in the last half of final inning.

The Scoring of Base Hits.

SEC. 5. A base hit shall be scored in the following cases:

When a fair hit is made, as defined in Rule 37, and the batsman reaches first base safely.

When a fair hit ball is partially or wholly stopped by a fielder in motion, but such player cannot recover himself in time to field the ball to first before the batsman reaches that base, or to some other base in time to force out another runner.

When the ball is hit with such force to an infielder or pitcher that he cannot handle it in time to put out the batsman or force out a base-runner; except when the ball is recovered by another fielder in time to retire the batsman or force out a base-runner. In case of doubt over this kind of hit, a base hit should be scored and the fielder be exempted from the charge of an error.

When the ball is hit so slowly toward a fielder that he cannot handle it in time to put out the batsman or force out a base-runner.

In all cases where a base-runner is retired by being hit by a batted ball, unless batted by himself, the batsman should be credited with a base hit, except if the runner is hit by an infield fly, the play shall be scored as provided in Section 8 of Rule 44.

When a batted ball hits the person or clothing of the umpire, as defined in Rule 46, Section 6.

In no case shall a base hit be scored when a base-runner is forced out by the play.

When a fielder, after handling a batted ball, elects to try to retire a base-runner instead of the batter, the play is known as a "fielder's choice." In case the runner is retired, or would be retired but for an error, the batter shall be charged with a time at bat, but no hit. If the runner is not retired, and no error is made, the batter shall be charged with a time at bat, but no hit, provided he swung at the ball, and shall be credited with a sacrifice hit, provided he bunted the ball; if, however, in the judgment of the scorer the batter could not have been retired at first base by perfect fielding, he shall be credited with a base hit.

In event of a batsman oversliding second or third bases and being tagged by the opposing fielder when said batsman is attempting to stretch a single into a two-base hit or a two-base hit into a three-base hit, the play should be scored the same as when a base-runner attempts to steal, overslides the base and is tagged out. In other words, the batsman oversliding second base and is tagged out shall be credited only with a single, while one who overslides third base and is tagged out shall be credited only with a two-base hit.

Sacrifice Hits.

SEC. 6. Sacrifice hits shall be placed in the Summary.

A sacrifice hit shall be credited to the batsman who, when no one is out or when but one man is out, advances a runner a base by a bunt hit, which results in the batsman being put out before reaching first, or would so result if it were handled without error.

EXPLANATION—Eliminates sacrifice hit on a fly ball.

Fielding Records.

SEC. 7. The number of opponents, if any, put out by each player shall be set down in the fourth column. When the batsman is called out by the umpire for an illegally batted ball, or for a foul third strike bunt, or for being hit by own batted ball, or for interference with the catcher, or for failing to bat in proper turn, the put-out shall be credited to the catcher. When a base-runner is declared out on an infield fly, the put-out shall be credited to the player who would have made the play except for the action of the runner or the announcement of the umpire. When a base-runner is declared out because of being hit by a batted ball, the put-out shall be credited to the fielder nearest to the ball at the time of the occurrence.

SEC. 8. The number of times, if any, each player assists in putting out an opponent shall be set down in the fifth column. One assist and no more shall be given to each player who handles the ball in aiding in a run-down or any other play of the kind, even though he complete the play by making the put-out.

Credit an assist to each player who handles and throws the ball in such a way that a put-out would have resulted except for the error of a team-mate.

Credit an assist to a player who, by deflecting a batted ball with his glove or any part of his body, aids in retiring the batsman or another base-runner.

Do not credit an assist to a fielder who makes a bad throw, even when a runner trying to advance on it is subsequently retired. A play that follows an error is a new play and the player making an error is not entitled to an assist unless he takes part in the new play.

Do not credit an assist to the pitcher when, in legally delivering the ball to the batsman, he helps to retire a runner attempting to steal home.

Assists should be credited to every player who handles the ball in the play which results in a base-runner being called "out" for interference or for running out of line.

A double play shall mean any two continuous put-outs that take place between the time the ball leaves the pitcher's hands until it is returned to him again standing in the pitcher's box.

Errors.

SEC. 9. An error shall be given in the sixth column for each mis-play which prolongs the time at bat of the batsman or prolongs the life of the base-runner or allows a base-runner to make one or more bases when perfect play would have insured his being put out. But a base on balls, a base awarded to a batsman by being struck by a pitched ball, a balk, a passed ball or a wild pitch (unless the batsman reach first base on such pitch), shall not be included in the sixth column.

An error shall not be charged against the catcher for a wild throw in an attempt to prevent a stolen base, unless the base-runner advance an extra base because of the error.

An error shall not be scored against the catcher or an infielder who attempts to complete a double play, unless the throw be so wild that an additional base be gained. This, however, does not exempt from an error a player who drops a thrown ball when by holding it he would have completed a double play.

In case a base-runner advance a base through the failure of a baseman to stop or try to stop a ball accurately thrown to his base the latter shall be charged with an error and not the player who made such throw, provided there was occasion for it. If such throw be made to second base the scorer shall determine whether the second baseman or shortstop shall be charged with an error.

In event of a fielder dropping a fly but recovering the ball in time to force a runner at another base, he shall be exempted from an error, the play being scored as a "force-out."

An error, but not a passed ball, shall be charged to the catcher if he drops or misses a third strike, allowing the batsman to reach first base. Credit the pitcher with a strike-out.

An error shall be charged to the first baseman (or the pitcher or second baseman when covering first base) if, on receiving a throw in ample time to retire the batsman he does not touch first base as required by rule. The same rule shall be followed with respect to any fielder covering any other base on a force play.

Stolen Bases.

SEC. 10. A stolen base shall be credited to the base-runner whenever he advances a base unaided by a base hit, a put-out, a fielding or a battery error, subject to the following exceptions:

In event of a double or triple steal being attempted, where any runner is thrown out, no other runner shall be credited with a stolen base.

In event of a base-runner being touched out after sliding over a base, he shall not be regarded as having stolen the base in question.

In the event of a palpable muff of a ball thrown by the catcher, when, in the judgment of the scorer, the base-runner would have been out if the ball had been held, the infielder making the muff shall be charged with an error and the base-runner shall not be credited with a stolen base.

No stolen base shall be credited to a runner whose advancing results from the opposing team's indifference thereto.

In other words, when runners are deliberately permitted to circle around the bases because the team at bat cannot conceivably win, there are no stolen bases. If a runner steals a base and the catcher evidently refuses to throw fearing that the runner may score from third, a stolen base should be credited, in fairness to the runner who makes the catcher "show his hand."

Definition of Wild Pitch and Passed Ball.

SEC. 11. A wild pitch is a legally delivered ball, so high, low or wide of the plate that the catcher cannot or does not stop and control it with ordinary effort, and as a result the batsman reaches first base or a base-runner advances.

Any pitched ball that strikes the ground before reaching the home plate and passes the catcher, allowing runners to advance, shall be scored as a wild pitch.

When a batsman is hit by what would have been the fourth called ball, it shall be scored as a "hit by pitcher."

The catcher shall be charged with a passed ball when a base-runner is enabled to advance by the catcher's failure to hold or to control a legally delivered ball that should have been held or controlled with ordinary effort.

Definition of Run Earned Off Pitcher.

SEC. 12. A run earned off the pitcher shall be scored every time a player reaches home base by the aid of safe hits, sacrifice hits, stolen bases, put-outs, bases on balls, hit batsman, wild pitches or balks, even though the wild pitch be a third strike, before fielding chances have been offered to retire the team. The preceding pitcher, and not a relieving pitcher, shall be charged with runs scored by any runners on base when such relief pitcher entered the game. The relieving pitcher shall not be charged with his first batsman reaching first base if such batsman had any advantage because of poor pitching by the preceding pitcher. With the count two or three balls and one or no strikes, or three balls and two strikes, charge preceding pitcher if batsman reaches first base, but credit relieving pitcher if batsman retired. With count one or two balls and two strikes, charge relieving pitcher if batsman reaches first base and credit him if batsman is retired.

The pitcher shall be given the benefit of doubt whenever fielding errors are made and in determining the base to which a runner should have been held with perfect support on part of fielders. A fielding error made by the pitcher shall be considered the same as any other fielding error. No run can be earned that scores as result of batsman having reached first base on a catcher's interference, a fielding error or passed ball; nor can any run be earned after the fielding team has failed to accept chances offered to retire the team at bat.

To determine the pitcher's percentage for the season, the total number of runs earned off his pitching shall be divided by the total number of innings he has pitched; then multiplied by nine, to find his average effectiveness for a complete game.

Definition of Runs Batted In.

SEC. 13. Runs Batted In are runs scored on safe hits (including home runs), sacrifice hits, outfield put-outs, infield put-outs, and when the run is forced over by reason of batsman becoming a base-runner. With less than two out, if an error is made on a play on which a runner from third would ordinarily score, credit the batsman with a Run Batted In.

The batsman shall not be credited with driving in a run when a runner scores as he hits into a force infield double play or a double play in which the first baseman picks up a fair hit ground ball, touches first base and then throws to second retiring the runner who had been on first, said runner not being forced, has to be tagged out.

The Summary.RULE
71

The Summary shall contain:

- SEC. 17. The name of the umpire or umpires.

How to Determine Percentages.

1. To determine the percentage of Games Won and Lost, divide the total number of games won and lost into the number won.
2. To determine Batting Averages, divide the total "Times at Bat" into the total number of base hits, but never into the total bases on hits.
3. To determine Fielding Averages, divide the total of put-outs, assists and errors into the total of put-outs and assists.

In all cases where the remaining fraction is one-half or over, a full point is added to the average.

Worldwide NATIONAL PASTIME

Worldwide baseball leagues? Such things can be in the world of tomorrow. For in the new peacetime, globe-circling airliners can wing to all peoples the many American ideas for a fuller way of living. Through efficient performance of its dual task today—domestic service along the Transcontinental Airline and special military assignments—TWA seeks to help speed the day of Victory and peace.

TRANSCONTINENTAL & WESTERN AIR, INC.

Desiring to co-operate with the War Production Board in its paper conservation policies, and due to other circumstances beyond our control, the publishers have condensed to some extent the official minor league averages appearing in the 1943 edition of the Baseball Guide and Record Book. This was accomplished by omitting the lower-ranking averages among minor league figures on individual players, while giving comprehensive information on a representative group of leaders in each department. The publishers believe this method of condensation will prove the most satisfactory to users of the Guide, because it assures them of essential information, while at the same time it complies with the spirit of wartime policies on paper conservation.

BASEBALL IS AMERICA!

In times of peace, baseball plays a vital part in the American way of Life—on our sand lots, our playfields, our school diamonds; in our professional parks, our grandstands and our bleachers. In time of WAR, baseball is even more important to the health and morale of our youth, our workers and those on the home front. As far as our war orders and available materials permit we will continue to supply finest quality baseball equipment, for America's youth.
